Gen. Eisenhower Moves Headquarters to Normandy Front

YANKS CAPTURE BRITTANY FORT; ENTER NANTES

Le Mans Is Taken; 2 Nazi Lines Cut.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 9 (AP).—American armored wedges rushed without check on the last 100 miles toward Paris tonight after sweeping thru Le Mans. To the west other United States forces seized Brittany's fortress port of St. Malo.

Capture of St. Malo, whose defenders had been ordered to fight to the last man, was reported in field dispatches. Never before had it been taken, tho it had been the scene of many sieges in the Middle Ages.

Unconfirmed reports said American troops driving for Paris had pushed into Nantes, on the Loire river, and Angers, just north of the Loire and 50 miles upstream from Nantes.

Allies Also Advance.

On the northern end of the long allied battle line British and Canadian forces continued to advance.

The Canadians broadened their wedge into two German lines to six miles, smashed Nazi counter-attacks and pushed a three mile wide spear to within about five miles of Falaise.

On the Caen front, waves of allied planes slashed at a great concentration of German tanks which had been drawn up presumably for a big counter-attack.

British troops defending their Orne river bridgehead beat off German counter-attacks and advanced. There were indications the Germans were getting ready to withdraw from their positions between the British and Canadian forces.

Altogether at least 26 towns and villages were liberated today by the Americans, British, and Canadians, for a total of 49 in a week.

Assault on Brest Begins.

Behind the streams of machines plunging eastward, the American battering ram opened an assault on Brest at the western tip of Brittany. It began a rear door attack on the outer defenses when the garrison of the French naval base rejected an offer by the American commander to accept its surrender.

Official announcement of the complete occupation of Le Mans—auto manufacturing city 85 miles east of Rennes—made it clear that American tank spearheads were well beyond the city. German reports said the swift columns were only 87 miles from Paris.

There was no allied confirmation of this further advance of 23 miles from Le Mans—but it might be possible, as the Americans had not run into solid resistance.

Seventy miles north of Le Mans the Canadian 1st army in a great dual thrust pried open a second doorway barely 100 miles from Paris, breaking thru the Germans' first and second lines of defense and advancing to a point 16 miles below Caen.

Foil Nazi Fortification Plan.

The Canadians, in a total advance of 11 miles in two days, were nearing Falaise, a communications key to the northern end of the Normandy battle line.

Le Mans was firmly occupied by infantry, battle dispatches said, which came up in the wake of armor and surprised the Germans in the act of hastily fortifying the Sarthe river crossing.

German reports that the Americans were driving east and southeast past Le Mans indicated they might be menacing Tours, a Loire river city 47 miles to the southeast, and Orleans, also on the Loire 78 miles east of Le Mans.

At both St. Nazaire and Lorient, German U-boat bases on the south coast of Brittany, the Americans were ringed about both ports at close range and the Germans had no avenue of escape.

Brest, where the Americans captured Lt. Gen. Karl Spang, 58, commander of the 266th infantry division, was first reached Saturday by fast advanced motorized units which covered 150 miles from Avranches in five days. But these units were not in strength to engage the port's garrison and drew

GEN. EISENHOWER'S ADVANCE COMMAND POST IN NORMANDY, Aug. 9 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower, supreme commander of allied forces, has established his headquarters on the continent to maintain the closest possible contact with the allies' fast rolling offensive.

The supreme command headquarters unit, it was announced tonight, was moved from London to Normandy by air during the past few days. Officers and enlisted personnel—including WACs—are living in tents in a camouflaged area under constant patrol by heavily armed military police.

Sees Bradley Daily.

The general is situated near an air field from which he makes speedy trips daily for personal conferences with Generals Montgomery and Omar Bradley.

Instantaneous telephone communication with supreme headquarters in London is available from the general's trailer living quarters, which are under 24 hour guard by an M. P. who squats in a dugout behind a machine gun.

Algiers Base Moved to Italy.

ROME, Aug. 9 (AP).—Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean theater, today announced that allied force headquarters were moved from Algiers to Italy last month. Nineteen days were required to move thousands of tons of supplies and equipment.

Conquest Ends on Guam; Last Japs Trapped

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 9 (AP).—American forces completed their conquest of Guam Tuesday, except for a small inland area near Pati point, where surviving Japanese were surrounded, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Almost all enemy attempts to escape have been prevented by a navy patrol maintained off the northern coasts of the island, said Adm. Nimitz.

The remaining enemy resistance was expected to be blotted out shortly, as the American forces were exerting heavy pressure on the remnants of the Japanese garrison.

Has Important Air Fields.

Marine Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger commanded the ground forces that conquered Guam, the third island in the strategic Marianas group to be captured. The others, Tinian and Saipan, 125 miles to the north, were taken in July.

There are several important air fields on the three islands, all within Super Fortress bombing range of Japan, the Philippines, and the China coast. Some of them have been used for some time by fighter planes.

Stars and Stripes Raised.

The campaign to retake Guam began with the invasion of the island on July 20 by the 2d and 4th marine divisions and the 77th infantry division. The troops landed at two points on the western coast, rapidly overran the lower half of the island, and pushed north to virtually complete reconquest of the island on the 20th day of the campaign.

High point in the reconquest of Guam, a pre-war American naval station, was the raising of the Stars and Stripes over the marine barracks on the Orote peninsula, on the western side of the island, July 29. Orote peninsula is the site of an excellent air field, already in use, and of the Sumay naval base.

Navy planes made several attacks on Nauru, directly west of the Gilberts, Aug. 6 and 7, Nimitz reported. Air field runways were the principal targets. Aerial blows also were struck at Wake Island, on Truk, and Ponape in the Carolines and on enemy positions in the Marshall Islands.

3 FERRIS WHEEL OCCUPANTS FALL

2 Soldiers and Civilian Are Injured.

In view of hundreds of men, women, and children two soldiers and a civilian fell from a Ferris wheel at a street carnival at 51st and Elizabeth sts. shortly before midnight last night.

The victims were Sgt. Thaddeus Pajak, 22, of 4555 McDowell av.; Pvt. Frank S. Laff, 20, of 4634 S. Bishop st., and Joseph Fron, 23, of 5114 S. Loomis st. All suffered back and possible internal injuries, and were taken to the Evangelical hospital.

The accident abruptly ended the gay carnival spirit of the crowd at the scene. Several women screamed. Children fled in fright. Hawkers ceased their calls.

Riding in One Car.

Sgt. Pajak, Pvt. Laff, and Fron were riding together in one gondola of the ferris wheel, and were about 50 feet above the ground, with the giant wheel slowly turning, as the accident occurred.

Suddenly the gondola left its sockets and plunged toward the ground. Crowds of spectators screamed and moved back to safety. A moment later the car crashed. The noise was heard over the entire carnival ground.

Joseph Shando, 725 W. 50th st., wheel operator, described the accident to Policemen John Griffin and Austin Kelly of Stockyards police. He denied any mechanical fault was the cause and blamed the three men.

Blames Occupants for Fall.

"They were acting up so much that I removed two children from the car below them," Shando said. "They were spinning their car around on its sockets in a somersault. I warned them, but they laughed. Then it happened. The entire car got loose from its sockets and came down."

The street carnival is being sponsored by St. John of God church.

Killed 60 Germans

Spring Mount, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP).—The "one man army of Anzio" had a firm hold on the home front beach head tonight.

Pvt. Alton W. Knappenberger, winner of the Congressional medal for wiping out 60 Germans on the Italian front, was back with "Mom" for 21 days.

He no longer was broke, as he was when he arrived, but had more money than he did before a Naples pickpocket lifted his wallet the day before he shipped home.

He had passed thru the first community celebration and had nothing on the calendar but loafing and fishing until the next big blowout on Aug. 20.

The 20 year old, 120 pound farm boy arrived last night on an unheralded furlough, so surprising his mother, Mrs. Harvey Seibert, that she burst into tears.

Stage Impromptu Parade.

The Spring Mount fire company, just across the road from Knappenberger's home, organized an impromptu parade, and the "army" was taken on a triumphant tour up the Perkiomen valley.

"I'd saved up $150," he said, "and I wouldn't even spend a nickel of it when they let me go to see Naples, on account of this furlough coming up. Then while I was in Naples a pickpocket took it all."

That was soon remedied. The Norristown Times-Herald started it off with a $50 contribution and the firemen chipped in $100. The newspaper said additional donations were coming in from all over the countryside.

Doesn't Like to Fight.

The "army" doesn't care too much for this hero stuff. "I don't like to fight," he said, "but I guess the worst darned ordeal was when I got this medal. It's nice, but I had to stand there while Gen. Clark presented it, and, well I guess I'd almost rather fight."

Knappenberger won the nation's highest heroism award for holding off two German companies counter-attacking on Anzio. He covered his comrades' retreat to the rear until he ran out of ammunition; then moved back, took more ammunition from the body of a fallen American, and began firing again. He was credited officially with killing 60 Nazis.

Battled 125 Nazis

Miami, Fla., Aug. 9 (AP).—Staff Sgt. Paul B. Huff, winner of the congressional medal of honor for his one man battle against 125 Germans, arrived in the United States today expressing a hope that he could drop in on his home town at Cleveland, Tenn., by parachute.

Staff Sgt. Huff.

The heroic soldier, abashed by the acclaim and attention shown him by military officials and other greeters, said his numerous nieces and nephews in Cleveland expect him to arrive by parachute, since he is a member of the most decorated parachute battalion in the army.

"I'd hate to disappoint them," he said, adding: "I'd really like to do that. I haven't been home in three years."

Rates General's Salute.

Huff, who rates salutes from every one from full generals down to buck privates when he wears the nation's highest decoration, is an easy spoken Tennesseean who was a railroader and chair factory worker.

"I had the name of 'Killer' Huff because I could hit squirrels with my rifle," he stated. "I'm a pretty good shot."

German troops learned that fact the hard way. On Feb. 8, 1944, near the Italian town of Carano, on the Anzio beachhead, Huff volunteered to lead a patrol against German units entrenched on high ground and pouring murderous fire into the exposed right flank of his battalion. A hail of fire from machine guns, rifles, and a 20 mm. cannon nailed the patrol down.

Advances on Enemy Alone.

Huff advanced alone. Completely exposed, bullets striking at his feet and all around him, he advanced 75 yards and killed the crew of a machine gun with his tommy gun, turned the captured gun on other enemy positions and drew fire from all of them. He observed their positions and strength, returned to his own lines and immediately led another patrol against the Germans, routing 125 men, killing 27, and capturing 21.

Huff will go to New York tomorrow, and expects to arrive in Cleveland next week for 30 days leave.

FEPC FOMENTED TRANSIT STRIKE, SENATE IS TOLD

Illegal Activity by Bureau Charged.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—The New Deal administration was charged today by Sen. Russell [D., Ga.] with deliberately provoking the recent five day local transportation strike which virtually paralyzed war production in Philadelphia.

Sen. Russell.

Russell, in a speech on the senate floor, placed the responsibility for the costly strike directly on President Roosevelt's fair employment practices committee, which he declared is placing its pet social reforms above winning the war.

Jury Inquiry Begins.

Russell's charges were made as the federal grand jury investigation of the strike was getting under way in Philadelphia. Federal Judge George A. Welsh told the jurors he could not believe the strike was actuated solely by the thought that eight Negroes were being upgraded, and for them to search out any political motive that might be involved.

"You have got to be cognizant of the fact that a national election is impending," he said.

The work stoppage, Sen. Russell recalled in his address, was precipitated by an FEPC directive, issued over protests from both the transit company and its employes, that eight Negroes be promoted to car operators. The senator asserted the directive was clearly illegal because, he explained, the agency has no jurisdiction over non-war contractors, under the President's own order creating it.

Discharge Demanded.

Russell referred to FEPC members as "the most dangerous force in existence in the nation today," and said "the President should immediately discharge these marplots, in the interest of early victory in the war, in the name of justice and decency, and for the sake of those it was created to help."

While making clear he was not condoning the transit workers for their walkout, Russell said:

"To keep the record straight it must be pointed out that the tragic strike was deliberately precipitated by an agency of the government, the so-called fair employment practices committee.

Workers "Badgered."

"It is crystal clear that the overwhelming purpose of the FEPC to fashion this country to conform to the ideas of its radical members is as much, or more, responsible for the Philadelphia tragedy than the employes of the transit company whom they finally badgered into unpatriotic action."

Russell told the senate that the administration, in its eagerness to enforce the "illegal" FEPC directive, took more drastic steps than in any previous strike. He cited orders to cancel draft deferments and gasoline rations of strikers and denial to them of work in any other jobs. Why, he asked, were not such steps taken in hundreds of other strikes crippling the war program?

Called Object Lesson.

"I am forced to the conclusion," he said, "that these unusually drastic means were employed in Philadelphia to serve as an object lesson to all employes who might have the temerity to oppose the edicts of this irresponsible and dangerous FEPC."

Describing the FEPC as a body presided over by "starry eyed professional reformers" and without statutory sanction from congress, Russell charged "they consider it more important to impose their own ideas of social reform upon the nation than to work for economic equality or to promote the war effort or, indeed, than winning the war."

[Details of the federal grand jury investigation of the Philadelphia strike will be found on page 6.]

Strike Wave Hits Nation; 60,000 Idle

A new high of approximately 60,000 workers were idle yesterday in a wave of post-invasion labor disputes across the country that hampered war production and tied up industries.

Government intervention was expected in the most widespread work stoppage, a strike of midwestern truck drivers and helpers that paralyzed over-the-road truck transportation in nine states. There was a strong indication the army or office of defense transportation would assume control of struck lines today.

Other disputes kept thousands of men from their jobs in Chicago, Detroit, Shenandoah, Pa., Fairlawn and Paterson, N. J.; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., and Rock Island and Carbondale, Ill. Details of the stoppages follow:

Expect F. D. R. to Act.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 [Special].—Action by President Roosevelt tonight was expected in the growing midwest truck strike which has spread thru nine states where it has tied up over-the-road shipment of freight, including some critical war materials.

A high government figure, who asked that he remain anonymous, indicated the case has run the gamut of all agencies concerned and that a solution has been decided upon. He said a decision may be handed down within the next 48 hours.

There was a strong hint of seizure of the paralyzed truck lines and operation by either the army or the office of defense transportation. From another source it was reported that an order instructing the ODT to take over the lines had been prepared in the attorney general's office and was awaiting Presidential approval.

Strike Number Estimates Vary.

Maj. Alex Baxter, chief of the highway branch of the army transportation corps, at Chicago, estimated that 6,000 drivers and helpers were idle in the strike, but the army said here today that about 25,000 drivers had joined in the walkout. Thomas Flynn, acting president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], estimated the total number involved at about 30,000.

The strike resulted from the refusal of operating firms to grant a 7 cents an hour wage increase ordered by the war labor board for over-the-road drivers. The WLB on July 12 certified the case as beyond its powers to solve. Since then it has been cleared by the ODT, the office of economic stabilization, and the justice department.

The operators contend they must have some "financial relief" to pay the ordered increase and President William Wilson and Secretary Lou Hoskins of the Midwestern Operators association, charged the administration had not kept faith with them.

Given No Financial Relief.

They asserted that two months ago the ODT, OES, and the interstate commerce commission agreed with their position that they needed financial relief such as freight rate increases to meet the WLB's wage

CAPT. HARRISON SIFTS 2D DRAKE MURDER STORY

Testimony of Men in Corridor Told.

(Pretty Patricia Goodbody, who miraculously escapes murderous gunplay in room 836, the Drake, the night of Jan. 19, tells how her wealthy mother, Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, wife of a diplomat, falls before the killer's gun. The killer is a woman, dressed in black fur, with something red in her hat or hair. That story was brought to you in detail yesterday by Capt. Harrison; it was Patricia's story to the police. After the shooting the assassin fled past Mrs. Goodbody. "I saw a black thing go by like that," she said. The woman ran into the hall. Mrs. Goodbody soon followed. Patricia saw "a man." That man was Stanley A. Cook, who has helped police in the case. Capt. Harrison continues his study of the "Drake Murder Case.")

BY CAPT. THOMAS HARRISON

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Yesterday I related the stories given to police and the press the night of Jan. 19 by Mrs. Adele Born Williams and Mrs. Patricia Goodbody. They told how a woman in black came out from behind the bathroom door in room 836 of the Drake hotel, fired over Mrs. Goodbody's head, and how, after waiting "a minute," Mrs. Goodbody ran to the hotel corridor—saw no one but a man—and, cried to him, "My mother is shot!"

A great deal of action followed, but even now—200 days after the slaying—we are not clear on the sequence of events.

Two men, Stanley A. Cook and Walter Shawke, step into the picture. Cook is a successful Chicago business man. Shawke was a room service waiter employed by the Drake.

Who Saw Her First?

It is Cook who sees the fleeing gunwoman scurrying down the eighth floor corridor from the general direction of room 836. Was he the first witness in the hotel corridor? Or was Shawke? Each is sure that he was the first to hear Mrs. Goodbody cry and to go to her assistance. A plausible case can be made for either. Shawke told his story to police the night of the crime—Cook told the story the morning after.

Mr. Cook lives at 7228 Coles av., and is Chicago representative of the K-D Tool Manufacturing company, Lancaster, Pa. On the day and night of the shooting he was working with Clyde P. Brewster of Lancaster, general manager of the K-D company. Brewster occupied room 843 in the Drake, 63 feet east of Mrs. Williams' room.

During the day Cook and Brewster had called on several customers. Tired, they returned to Brewster's room around 4:30 p. m. Cook said they took a nap. Cook wakened first, around 6:15 p. m., and roused Brewster. They decided to dine at a restaurant on N. Michigan av.

Leaves Room at 6:30 p. m.

Cook says that he walked out of Brewster's room at approximately 6:30 p. m., walked to the elevator well on the same floor—the eighth—and pressed the down button. Brewster, lagging behind, was in his room, picking up his room key.

Cook gives an amazingly detailed description of the eighth floor hall, the number of elevators in the elevator banks, the way they faced, the directions of the corridor and a cross hall, all of which marks him as an observant man.

The day after the shooting, Cook told police: "When I heard this sound [the shots], I did not even recognize the shots. I was standing in front of the elevators, and I walked over in the hall." He then described the fast moving events following.

Tells of Looking Down Hall.

"When I heard the shots, I said [to myself], 'There is a party,' and I was curious enough about it to look down the hall.

"The first thing I saw—I was conscious of this small woman [the killer]. She probably was 5 feet 3 inches high, wore a black Persian lamb coat—I would say it was a jacket—and she had on a black hat. She seemed to have something in her hand, and she was walking very fast, or running.

"She was running—fast lope, loping. Then by this time this young woman [Mrs. Goodbody] was out in the hall, screaming, and I distinctly remember she said, 'Stop that woman; that is a crazy woman that shot my mother.'

"By that time the woman had passed me. Then I walked down the hall, and I saw the woman that had been shot lying on the floor, and I even walked in [room 836] a little ways, say just far enough, and I saw her lying there. Blood was coming out all over the carpet. Then I came out."

Sees No Gun in Room 836.

Cook told police, in his interview the day after the shooting, that the assassin passed him headed east in the hall, and continued right past Brewster's room, which is beyond the service stairway and elevator entrance. I'll go into detail on this point later in this article. Cook said he made no effort to stop the woman. When he glanced into room 836, Cook saw no gun there. He heard no sounds from Mrs. Williams lying on the floor. Cook said he thought she was unconscious.

Cook's story, as he told it to the police, confirms Mrs. Goodbody's story of the mysterious woman in black. In later testimony, before a coroner's inquest, Cook is even more specific. On Jan. 21—Mrs. Williams died the day before—Cook told Coroner Brodie and a jury:

"There was a girl who came into the hall screaming, and there was another short woman, in a Persian lamb coat . . . and she brushed by me. And this young woman [Mrs. Goodbody] was screaming, and she even told me or said to me, 'Stop that woman. She is crazy. She shot my mother."

No One Else in Corridor.

Under questioning by Assistant State's Atty. Joseph A. Pope, Cook said that when he rang the elevator bell no one else was in the corridor.

"When did you first see this lady that you mentioned?" asked Pope.

"Well, she dashed out of this room," Cook replied. [He referred to room 836.]

"Did you see her definitely coming out of that room?"

"She definitely came out of that room, and was followed immediately by this Mrs. Goodbody—this lady. She was screaming before the other woman passed me. She [Mrs. Goodbody] was screaming for me to stop her."

Appears at Second Inquest.

Cook also testified at the second inquest held on Feb. 8. At that time he said he wanted to clear up the time element; that in his opinion, 18 to 20 seconds elapsed from the time the first shot was fired to the time the killer appeared in the hall.

At this point, James J. Whalen, assistant chief deputy coroner, asked: "Did both women come out of that door [of room 836] at the same time?"

"They both came out practically at the same time," was his answer.

"Did Mrs. Goodbody come out first?"

"No, no, no. The other woman came out first. She was probably 10 or 12 feet, 15 feet from the door by the time Mrs. Goodbody came out. She was almost up to me, and I was 30 feet from the door."

Time Lapse Estimated.

That is Cook's story. He definitely placed the third woman in the eighth floor corridor. He not only places the mystery woman in the hall, but he sees her coming out the door of Mrs. Williams' room; he sees Mrs. Goodbody almost immediately behind her, and he definitely fixes the time lapse between the firing of the first shot and the startling appearance of the assassin at 18 to 20 seconds.

All this brings me back to Mrs. Goodbody's statement to police the night of the shooting. I find there one of the many discrepancies that have plagued police investigators in this case.

Mrs. Goodbody remembered seeing a man in the hall. "There was a man standing in the hall," she told police. Cook says he was standing in the elevator well, just off the hall. Did Mrs. Goodbody see anybody else in the hall? "No," she told police.

Pictures Are Conflicting.

Now, if you were a policeman, how would you reconcile these statements? Here is Mrs. Goodbody, distraught, admittedly hysterical. Her mother has just been shot. She herself has been fired upon. She says that she did not see any one else in the hall. You must allow latitude for lack of observance at such a time in analyzing this point. I do.

Yet, I keep seeing conflicting pictures.

Cook swears that "both women came out practically at the same time." But Mrs. Goodbody says that she saw only a man in the hall, and answers, "No," when asked specifically if she saw any one else in the hall. Yet Cook's recollection is that the slayer wasn't more than 15 feet from the door of room 836 "by the time Mrs. Goodbody came out."

Brewster Also Sees Woman.

Cook, however, is not alone in reporting that he saw another woman in the hall. Brewster was about to leave his room when he heard the shots. Brewster says that he saw a woman in black "brush by his door." That is virtually all he saw. He does not know where she came from, nor where she went.

Cook said she fled east in the hall, which would take her toward Brewster's room. Brewster said a woman brushed by his room. Thus you do have, at least, a directional movement—east—in the hall.

Brewster's room, 843, like Mrs. Williams' room, 836, is on the north side of the corridor.

The service entrance is 54 feet east of Mrs. Williams' room, or between her room and Brewster's room, but on the south side of the corridor. By measurement, Brewster's room is nine feet east of the service entrance.

Murder Gun on Landing.

It has been held that the gunwoman escaped thru the service entrance. That assumption is based largely on the statement of Cook that the woman fled east in the hall, and the fact that hours later the murder gun was found on a lower landing of that service entrance.

Now Brewster said a woman, presumably the slayer, passed his room. If so, then she had already passed the service entrance because Brewster's room was nine feet beyond that entrance. If she escaped thru that entrance she did not pass Brewster's room unless she turned back. Brewster does not say he saw a woman "brush by" his room again.

Another point: in his police statement, Cook said that Mrs. Goodbody "was screaming, and she said to me, 'Stop that woman; that is a crazy woman that shot my mother.'"

And at the inquest, he related that Mrs. Goodbody "even told me or said to me, 'Stop that woman. She is crazy. She shot my mother.'"

Recalls Her Statement.

I refer you back to Mrs. Goodbody's statement to police on the night of the shooting. She said, "I screamed. The man came up to me, and I said, 'My mother has been shot.'"

Before a coroner's jury Feb. 8, Mrs. Goodbody testified: "I don't remember anything. I was just screaming. I said, 'Come here, come here.' I remember that man standing there [apparently Cook.]"

Furthermore, the coroner questioned her in detail as to whether she used the word "crazy" to describe the woman, and whether, if she did, it carried any special meaning. Mrs. Goodbody had no recollection of that word.

The official transcripts of her statements don't show that she called upon Cook to "stop that woman"; the gist of her story is that she appealed to him to assist her mother who had been shot.

Two Witnesses Disagree.

We have two principal witnesses disagreeing on a certain detail in the case. This disagreement added another headache to the many suffered by police investigators in the case.

Cook, in particular, is a vital witness. As I have said before, he did not reveal his information to authorities until the following day. Neither did Brewster. They did not want to be in the case, they explained.

They went to the Parkway tearoom on Michigan av., but finding it crowded proceeded toward the loop.

Around 7 p. m., or a little later, while opposite the Wrigley building, they noticed an ambulance going south.

Predicts Headlines.

Downtown, Cook telephoned his wife, and said, "I can tell you what the headlines will be in the papers —'Woman Shot in the Drake!'" His prediction was accurate. After dinner, Brewster returned to the Drake and Cook went home. Next morning they read the stories of the shooting, and it was then they decided to tell their stories to the authorities—in justice to Mrs. Goodbody.

[Tomorrow I will tell you how another man's testimony confuses the pictures of what happened in the eighth floor hall after the shooting in room 836 at the Drake. This man is Walter Shawke, a waiter.]

END RATIONING ON SOME GAS RANGES SUNDAY

Gas ranges with nonmetallic outside, back, or side panels, as well as coal and wood burning laundry stoves, will be removed from rationing Sunday, the office of price administration said yesterday. These are the first types of stoves to come off the list since rationing of them went into effect a year ago.

The price of cookies, crackers, toast, and crums sold to retailers by specialty wholesalers will go up Monday, the OPA said. The increase, estimated at not more than a cent a pound, will result from new ceilings based on prices in March, 1942, rather than the present fixed markup, it was said.

The public will pay a national average price of about 10¼ cents a pound for fresh apples this year, compared with 10½ cents in 1943, OPA officials said last night in Washington in announcing ceiling prices for the 1944 crop. New prices will be effective Aug. 16.

MOTHER FOUND LYING ON GRAVE OF SON, 13, DIES

Mrs. Clara Goldberg, 46, of 6172 N. Winchester av., who was found unconscious late Tuesday night on the grave of her son, died yesterday in the Oak Park hospital. She had been grieving since the death of the boy, Irving, 13, last November.

Her husband, Leo, owner of the Uptown Wholesale Grocers, 4940 N. Western av., and other relatives found her lying on the grave in the Antipolier cemetery, near Forest Park, after she had been absent from home during the day and evening. A note found near her read:

"Irving, dear, I cannot live without you, so I am dying with you. I will be with you, Sonny, dear, in a day or so. I hope they put me very close to you, as you were in life. Mother." Seven sleeping tablets were found in her purse.

WOMAN SOUGHT AS THEFT LINK WITH MANGANO

Stolen Cigarets May Be Clew to Killing.

Federal bureau of investigation agents last night were reported seeking a woman who, they believe, can establish a link between recent organized thefts from interstate cigaret and liquor shipments and the shotgun assassination a week ago today of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano.

The woman, who has flourished here under a number of aliases for several years, is known as the operator of two or more establishments of prostitution and at one time was a milliner who designed hats for the city's more prosperous prostitutes. A warrant for her arrest, issued by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, charges her with receiving goods stolen from interstate shipments.

Cigarets Hidden in Store.

Specifically, the woman is accused of having rented a truck used to transport cigarets valued at $15,000 stolen July 9 from the American Motor Transport lines, 2500 Taylor st., and to have rented a vacant store at 3429 Ogden av., where 170 of the 250 cases stolen were hidden. A hiding place became necessary when it was found the cigarets had been intended for overseas service men and bore no tax stamps.

Sgt. Timothy O'Connell of the police cartage detail, who found the cigarets there, was told by the store's owner it had been rented by "an Italian looking woman."

Meanwhile, three men were arrested in connection with the theft. They are John Burnett, Negro, 48, of 715 E. 50th st.; his nephew, Ernest Burnett, 27, of 5409 Calumet av., and Sam Kucheck, 31, of 2044 N. Central Park av. They pleaded not guilty and the arraignment was continued by Commissioner Walker to Sept. 13, to allow the FBI time for investigation.

Report Link with Mangano.

The Burnetts and Kucheck, government investigators learned, made an effort to dispose of the stolen cigarets and in so doing conferred with an underworld character known as "the king of the west side," in whose territory the cigaret theft was effected. The three are reported to have told him that the theft had been engineered by Mangano.

Information in the government's possession indicates that the woman being sought can name the Chicago hoodlums responsible for interstate thefts and thus open the way for FBI action. The FBI long has been watching the Chicago underworld, but has been powerless to act because until now no federal statutes had been violated.

With the assassination of Mangano and his pal, Mike Pontillo, at Taylor st. and Blue Island av., it became known also that federal agents had been scrutinizing the activities of Mangano.

Recovering

Florence Chay in County hospital after swallowing poison.

Florence Chay, 16, who borrowed $50 from a loan company for a good time, and then apparently attempted suicide by swallowing poison, when her father spanked her for her indebtedness, was to go home from County hospital today. She had choked out a tearful "I'm sorry," to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chay of 841 N. Mozart st., as she lay on her hospital cot yesterday.

Florence was found unconscious in Humboldt park early yesterday by Park Policeman Frank Sieradski and was taken to County hospital.

Mrs. Chay said her daughter had worked as a ward helper in a hospital until about three weeks ago. The father found his daughter's loan company account book Tuesday night and the spanking followed. Florence disappeared and later was found in the park.

HOUSE SELLER SLAYS BUYER, THEN HIMSELF

A quarrel over cancellation of a real estate deal ended in the fatal shooting yesterday of John Bogdanski, 48, of 3758 W. 55th st., by Bruno Bielewa, 50, in the latter's apartment at the same address. Following the shooting, Bielewa fled to a vacant lot near 53d st. and Lawndale av., where he committed suicide.

Bogdanski's wife, Angela, told New City police that her husband had purchased a house at 3302 W. 39th st., from Bielewa for $1,600. Later, she said, they found another house at 5440 S. Hamlin av., which they preferred, and asked Bielewa to buy the house back for $100 less than the original price.

Mrs. Bogdanski said she was packing preparatory to moving when her husband and Bielewa began the argument which ended in the shooting. Bogdanski, who was employed by the Grand Trunk railroad, died shortly after in Southtown hospital. Bielewa, according to an account given by his wife, Julia, to New City police, had been ill of a nervous disorder for more than a year.

$840 LIQUOR STOLEN.

Theft of $840 worth of liquor and cigarets from a liquor store at 6319 Northwest highway was reported to Jefferson Park police yesterday by Mrs. Josephine Catanese, 6565 Oconto av.

PAIR REPORTED INDICTED FOR ROBBING FIRM

Two true bills charging embezzlement of $17,500 were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against a soldier, absent without leave from Camp Fannin, Tex., and the woman cashier and bookkeeper of a south side realty firm.

The soldier, now in police custody, is Henry Kaminski, 33, formerly of 6422 Kimbark av., and the cashier is Miss Alvina Ganske, 32, of 3042 Wentworth av., who had been employed for 12 years by A. Kaminjarin & Co., real estate firm on the ground floor of that address.

Miss Ganske, who is said to have testified before the grand jurors, told Assistant State's Atty. Edwin Spiro that she had known Kaminski several years ago, and had encountered him again last January in a south side ballroom.

Oil Prosperity Told.

Kaminski, who also uses the alias of Henry Stone, was driving a new convertible coupe, she told Spiro, and explained his prosperity with a story of buying oil leases around Longview, Tex., and reselling them.

She gave him $1,000 of her own money, she said, which Kaminski promised to invest profitably for her. Then, she told Spiro, she began dipping into funds of the real estate company as well as of the American Express company, which had blank checks in the office.

Woman Admits Taking $17,500.

Altogether, she related, she turned over $18,500 to Kaminski, of which only $1,000 had belonged to her. She believed he was putting the money into lucrative oil leases, but investigation by the state's attorney's office disclosed that he was spending it at bars and ballrooms, Spiro said.

The defalcation was discovered May 23 when Kaminjarin, owner of the company, was going on a vacation. He looked thru the company's books and found records indicating a cash surplus of $8,000. He asked Miss Ganske where the money was.

Breaks Down and Confesses.

She told him it was in the vault, she said, but when she opened the vault at his direction and no money was there she confessed the theft, and told him about Kaminski.

Kaminjarin put thru a long distance call to Kaminski at Camp Fannin, and was told that the money was well invested—that Kaminjarin had nothing to worry about.

The realty dealer and his cashier, however, hurried down to Texas by train only to find that Kaminski had departed.

Kaminski was arrested later in Chicago, and now is in the county jail, charged with embezzlement. The army also would like to get him back, Spiro said, to court martial him for being absent without leave.

TRUCKER AND $1,950 MISSING.

James F. Driscoll, owner of a wholesale liquor concern at 9237 Commercial av., told South Shore police yesterday that a delivery man had been missing for several days after failing to turn in $1,950 supposedly received for liquor.

MAIL THIEF TO FACE HEARING.

Walter Glowinski, 41, of 4654 Malden st., who was arrested early yesterday after he had looted a mail box at Clark st. and Berwyn av., will appear before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker this morning. He drank poison after his arrest, but recovered.

ILLINOIS SPURNS FEDERAL SCHEME FOR JOB DOLES

State Has Many Millions for Reconversion Era.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

Illinois has nearly half a billion dollars available for unemployment compensation to workers laid off in the period when industry shifts to peace time production. In addition, the state treasury has a surplus of more than 100 million dollars for projects to provide jobs for returning service men and displaced war plant workers.

These figures were cited yesterday by state officials and leaders of industry, who expressed confidence that the post-war transition period would be passed safely without adoption of any grandiose federal scheme for payment of doles. They condemned the pending Murray-Kilgore bill now before the United States senate, which would set up a super-governmental agency to direct the reconversion process.

Protests Sent to Senators.

Robert L. Gordon, acting state director of labor, sent a telegram to Sen. Brooks in Washington, urging him to oppose the bill and reminding him that it runs counter to unanimous action of the recent conference of Republican governors in St. Louis.

At the same time, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, wired Senators Brooks and Lucas, asking them to oppose the measure on the ground that it would harm both industry and labor.

"Such proposals would prove impractical in operation, would create another unnecessary and costly federal bureau, and would represent a further unwarranted intrusion by the federal government into the affairs of the state of Illinois," the message continued. "Illinois is fully capable of discharging all proper obligations for unemployment compensation in the post-war period without the necessity of federal dictation."

State Fund 421 Millions.

Illinois unemployment compensation funds, paid by employers and deposited with the treasurer of the United States, totaled 421 million dollars on June 30. This total is being increased 15 million dollars every three months, and, if the present rate continues until the end of the year the state will have 451 million dollars in its account for unemployment compensation.

State labor department officials estimate the state may have to pay out from 270 to 300 million dollars to jobless workers in the first year after the end of the war. No one anticipates that the critical period of reconversion will last longer than a year.

Illinois Workers Insured.

Under the present law, any Illinois worker who earned as much as $1,375 in 1943 can collect $20 a week unemployment insurance for a maximum of 18 weeks if he loses his job today. If he remains unemployed after April 1, 1945, he can collect $20 weekly for an additional 18 weeks. Smaller sums are paid to workers earning less than $1,375 a year, but the minimum is $7 a week.

Under the Murray-Kilgore bill for a super-governmental agency, federal payments would be as high as $1,820 a year for a jobless man with three or more dependents. The measure is sponsored by Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee.

Labor Leaders Give Views.

Chicago labor leaders conceded yesterday that Illinois resources probably will be sufficient to meet the post-war unemployment problem in this state, but argued that federal control is necessary because not all the states are so fortunate.

"The problem is so tremendous that handling it piecemeal by the several states is sure to bring tragedy," said Joseph Mattson, regional director of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers of America [CIO]. "From 20 to 25 million war plant workers will have to be moved to peace time jobs, and 11 million returning soldiers and sailors will have to get decent jobs.

"There is likely to be a migration of workers as great as that which took place at the beginning of the war, and most of the states will be unable to cope with the results of this movement."

Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, said the post-war job shifting would create an entirely new situation, one that the nation has had no experience in handling.

He said unemployment insurance payments in most states are inadequate, and added: "It is nonsense to say that you can make lazy lugs out of American workers by paying them adequately when they lose their jobs."

Vast Savings in Nation.

Approximately 50 million workers are covered by unemployment insurance thruout the United States, according to records of the social security board. Up to last May 1, their employers had built up a total of $5,318,010,000 in state accounts in the federal unemployment trust fund.

In addition, studies made by the bureau of employment security, social security board, have shown that enormous savings have been piled up by all classes of the American people in the last few years. The bureau estimates that three-fourths of the nation's families will have some savings [including war bonds] at the end of the war.

Seize Weapons in Jail Assault

Policeman H. B. Crawford views weapons taken from four young men who attempted to free friends yesterday from Gary jail.

NAB 4 IN TEENS TRYING TO FREE 5 AT GARY JAIL

Authorities last night investigated the organization of a teen age Indiana gang that made an abortive attempt yesterday to break into the Gary, Ind., jail, in the city's business district, to free five members.

The attack on the jail was conducted by four gangsters carrying two rifles, a club, a hatchet, and a hack saw. They were caught in a police trap which was set when Chief Frank Traeger of Hobart, Ind., received a tip on the plot. Gary police said the captives bragged that they "meant business" and would have used the rifles to kill.

They were identified as Daniel Finley, 17, of 145 Wisconsin st., Hobart; Thomas Tucker, 17, of 357 Polk st., Gary; Robert Surman, 17, of 332 Fillmore st., Gary, and Charles Coleman, 16, of Wheeler, Ind.

Friends Held in Robberies.

Their friends in the jail were: George Humeau, 18, of 2811 Lloyd st.; James Wagner, 18, of 205 East st.; Ralph Welbourne, 18, of 757 Fleming st.; Richard Schultz, 18, of 523 E. Third st., and Earle Conley, 16, of 377 Adams st., all of Hobart.

The five in jail were arrested last Saturday in Hobart and charged with a $500 robbery at a Valparaiso, Ind., skating rink; the theft of six automobiles in Gary; the holdup of a motorist in Chicago Heights; the robbery of a gasoline station in Hobart, and a holdup at a feed store in Gary. They were placed in the same cell in Gary, on the ground floor.

The cell window overlooks a parking lot, and Coleman went there Monday night and talked to Wagner thru the bars, police said yesterday. Wagner offered $50 each to Coleman and any others he could induce to help him to get Wagner and his gang out of jail.

Chief Traeger heard of the plot and went to Gary. He conferred with Sgt. Lester Clapp and Detective Sgt. Timothy Curley, and it was arranged to station 10 policemen outside the building.

Shortly after midnight yesterday, Clapp saw a figure with a rifle in an alley on the west side of the jail. Policemen rushed to the spot, and found Finley and Surman sawing at the cell bars.

Coleman and Tucker, each carrying a .22 caliber rifle, were captured in the alley. Parked nearby was an automobile owned by Coleman's father.

Rumor Girl Gave Tip.

Police would not confirm a rumor that Chief Traeger's tip on the plot was an anonymous telephone call from a girl.

The nine in the plot are on probation for juvenile crimes, police said.

Surman's father, Carl, was shocked last night when he heard his son was in jail.

"I read about that jail-break plot in the local paper but the names were not given," he said. When informed his son had been armed with a rifle, Surman said he had a .22 caliber target rifle. He went to look for it and discovered it was missing from the house. He works "from early to late" at an oil refinery in Whiting, Ind., he said, and does not see much of his son. He said the son "has been in a few scrapes, but nothing serious."

Preparing to Join Navy.

Surman was going to bed Tuesday night, his father said, when Tucker called for him "to take a girl home."

Surman said his son had been preparing to enlist in the navy in a few days.

Tucker's mother, Ruth, a widow for five years, said he "never has been in trouble." He quit the Horace Mann High school in Gary when he was 16 to support her with a factory job, she said. Last November he entered the navy, but was given a medical discharge Jan. 1, 1944. The discharge, she said, "broke his heart."

Boy Describes Fatal Shooting

Ruled Accidental

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the fatal shooting Tuesday of Joseph Adornetto, 12, of 206 Kolin av., by James McGuire, 10, of 208 Kolin av., a schoolmate. James testified he placed a cartridge in the revolver but thought it would not discharge. "I was just playing," he said. The gun discharged as Joseph walked up the front steps of the McGuire home.

END 'JACKPOTS' FOR INVESTORS, SPEAKER URGES

N. U. Professor Sees Need of Stability.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Post-war full employment depends largely upon the American investor being willing to forgo his mania of "reaching for the jackpot," Dr. George Cady, professor of economics at Northwestern university, said yesterday. He spoke at the eighth annual guidance and personnel work conference meeting on the Evanston campus.

"Hitherto the American investor," Dr. Cady said, "has held his money in an idle pool until he could find a chance to strike it rich; he risked his shirt, and often lost it, on a 10 to one shot and turned down a safe 2 per cent investment."

Profitless Skyscrapers.

Dr. Cady pointed out that capital has flowed into the construction of skyscrapers rather than into low cost housing, but the investor now must learn that the skyscraper, in which the office space frequently is but half rented, is the more spectacular contribution to society whereas low cost housing is more profitable in the long run both to himself and to society.

Basing his address on "An Economist Looks to the Future," Dr. Cady warned that if America is to approach full employment at any time except during wars, or in the booms preceding depression, not only the investor but also labor, management, and the government must assume increased responsibility.

"Labor must clean house," he continued, "and prevent some of its leaders from feathering their nests; labor, consumer, management, and government must learn to operate efficiently and without the aid of any Hague-Kelly political machine. Above all, management acting on its own initiative must assume more than its contractual obligations."

End "Jackpot" Profits.

The chief of these obligations, Dr. Cady explained, was to consumer, labor and investor, whereby goods could be sold at low prices, the effect of which would be not "jackpot" profits but reasonable gains distributed over a long period and thus free of the boom-depression cycle.

"Another prerequisite of full time employment," Dr. Cady added, "is the complete abolition of monopoly. Despite the Sherman act, volumes on business ethics, and our ostensible hatred of cartels, monopoly persists in some degree in the pricing of nearly every product sold. In planning any attack on monopoly we must remember monopoly is made possible only by production control —and production control destroys jobs."

TREASON CASE IS EXPECTED TO GO TO JURY TODAY

Denver, Colo., Aug. 9 (AP).—With all testimony in, government and defense attorneys lined up their legal artillery tonight to clash in final arguments tomorrow over the guilt or innocence of three Japanese-American sisters charged with treason.

United States District Atty. Thomas J. Morrissey predicted the case would be handed to a federal court jury before noon.

None of the sisters—Mrs. Tsuruko [Toots] Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence [Flo] Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Tanigoshi, 32—testified in rebuttal of charges that they provided the means by which two German prisoners of war escaped from the Trinidad, Colo., internment camp. The break was made by Heinrich Haider and Herman August Loescher, former members of the routed Afrika corps, last Oct. 16. They were recaptured two days later and testified against the sisters.

WHEN BABY ARRIVES YOUR RENT CAN'T BE BOOSTED, OPA RULES

There is no ceiling on the cost of having a baby, but the OPA removed one possible added expense yesterday when C. L. Perkins, deputy rent director, ruled landlords can't claim additions to the family as "extra occupants" to raise your rent. And if the children are inclined to be noisy, the OPA will not help the landlord evict you, Perkins said. Neither will it help you get a home or apartment from a landlord who objects to children. They are matters for local courts, he said.

CHARLES' PAST IRKS PRESENT; RESULT: HAVOC

But New Mrs. Pearcy Loses to Court.

Charles Pearcy, 38, a truck driver, quickly yielded to other traffic in Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle's courtroom yesterday when his wife, Agnes, 22, chased his ex-wife, Marie, 30, around the tables.

Charles Pearcy.

Pearcy, of 5633 Washington blvd., was in court on a contempt citation obtained by his first wife, who was represented by Attorneys Sol R. and Irving Friedman. They said Pearcy owed $126 on the support of $54 a month which he was ordered to pay when she divorced him in June, 1943.

"Six Months or Pay."

"Six month in jail, or until you pay the arrearage," Judge Normoyle said to Pearcy.

The present Mrs. Pearcy, who had been a silent spectator, leaped from her bench with an angry cry and dashed for the former Mrs. Pearcy. She brandished a purse menacingly.

"Agnes!" Pearcy called in alarm, as he stepped out of the way.

Mrs. Marie Pearcy ran, the judge rapped for order, some one shouted, "Stop this turmoil!" and the two women raced in and out among the pieces of courtroom furniture.

Lawyer a Casualty.

As they circled the lawyers' table, Irving Friedman became entangled between them and was struck on the shoulder by the purse which Mrs. Pearcy attempted to bring down on ex-Mrs. Pearcy.

Mrs. Agnes Pearcy turned and ran from the courtroom, which is on the seventh floor of the County building.

"Get that woman!" Judge Normoyle ordered.

Bailiff Walter Duffy chased her into the hall. She beat Duffy to the first floor elevator. It was a local. Duffy caught an express, and was waiting for Mrs. Pearcy when she reached the lobby.

Judge Normoyle sentenced Mrs. Agnes Pearcy to five days in jail for direct contempt of court. Pearcy also was taken there.

Col. Armstrong Declines Executive Post in USES

Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, said yesterday he had declined the position of executive secretary and chief of veterans employment of the United States employment service, set up in the new G. I. bill of rights. "The selective service job in Illinois, one of the country's largest operations, must go on, and I hope to see it thru to a successful completion," he said.

CASH AND CANDY STOLEN.

Burglars took $24.10 and $19 worth of candy from the Dutch Mill candy store at 623 E. 79th st., Mrs. B. McCormick, a clerk, told police yesterday.

STINGER STUNG, OR GAS SNOOPER MEETS REVERSE

The office of price administration yesterday suspended from business for 10 days a Chicago filling station whose owners did a little snooping of their own.

The OPA target is the Martin Oil company, which operates a large station at 10408 Indianapolis blvd. Sometime ago, officials of the company reported to the OPA they had purchased gasoline three times without coupons and at over-ceiling prices from a station operated by Abe and Pearl Marrettick, 10335 Indianapolis blvd.

The Marretticks were summoned before John R. Allen, regional OPA hearing commissioner, who ordered them suspended for 15 days beginning July 31. However, the Marretticks appealed and filed charges that the Martin company evaded price ceilings.

After another hearing, Allen revoked the Marrettick suspension, and ordered the Martin company out of business for 10 days starting Aug. 20.

Lumber Yard Fire Causes Estimated $10,000 Damage

A quantity of lumber was destroyed and an office building was gutted by fire, causing damage estimated at $10,000, early yesterday at the Allied Lumber company, 2759 S. Kedzie av. First Deputy Fire Marshal Michael J. Cody said he believed a lacquer used to weatherproof lumber was responsible for the intensity of the fire. Telephone lines caught fire on Kedzie av., interrupting service which had not been restored last night.

VON PAPEN BACK FROM TURKEY, SAYS NAZI RADIO

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—The Berlin radio said today that Franz von Papen, former German ambassador to Turkey, had arrived in Germany from Ankara, following Turkey's severing of relations with the Reich. The broadcast said von Papen would report "immediately" to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Von Papen, the broadcast said, was aboard the first special train returning German nationals from Turkey.

[A report from Istanbul said a close friend of Von Papen in Turkey had received word that the former ambassador had been arrested immediately after he entered the reich.]

U. S. ARTILLERY HITS BULL'S-EYE IN NAZI REPORT

'Fires Effectively Even on Small Targets.'

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN FRANCE, Aug. 8 [Delayed].—The extreme accuracy and maneuverability of American artillery and our massive superiority in all materiel have received the commendation of Germany's 3d paratroop division in a report of the division which has fallen into American hands.

The 3d paratroop division had defended St. Lo during the heavy American attack between July 10 and 20 which eventually resulted in the capture of this strategic town by the American 29th division.

Paying tribute to the Americans as "hard fighters," the German division report said Nazi regiments were cut to shreds in the bitter hedgerow fighting before St. Lo. An equally high toll was taken on the American side but we had the advantage of bringing replacements in quickly.

"The Doctrine Followed."

"Enemy artillery," the report continued, "is distinguished by the accuracy of its fire and maneuverability. Employment in depth, changes of positions, self-propelled guns—during infantry attacks close to the main fighting line—is the doctrine followed. A great number of observation planes make it possible, by using considerable ammunition, to fire effectively even on small targets.

"The enemy overcomes the difficulty of hedgerow country by employment of artillery air observers. They fly over the battle zone in regular reliefs. Their reconnaissance is followed by strong bursts of fire with considerable expenditure of ammunition.

"Employment of fire and phosphorous bombs as well as high explosive ammunition with white smoke has been frequently observed. They cause stomach trouble and headaches."

Actually, the terrific shellfire leaves the Germans in a dazed and highly nervous condition, a checkup on prisoners reveals.

Supports Company Missions.

"The enemy uses his great arms superiority in fighting," the German report went on. "Not only has he employed heavy artillery and mortar fire for his attacks, but he also has used this strong fire to support assault and reconnaissance missions of company strength.

"The enemy supports his attacks in relatively small areas with tanks, fighter planes, and heavy artillery. He starts his attacks by accurate shelling and destruction of our weapons. This barrage usually plows up the area in which the attack is to be made.

"Infantry follows up the rolling barrage to occupy the disputed area. At the smallest resistance the infantry stops and retires, and a new artillery bombardment takes place to stamp out the remaining resistance."

This correspondent once heard a German sergeant complain that our doughboys relied on artillery rather than trade blow for blow. When it was pointed out that we had a great preponderance of artillery and used it to save lives, the prisoner had no answer.

"Extremely Sensitive."

The American soldier, said the report, is a "hard fighter only as long as he has good support from artillery and mortar units. During long and strong resistance and fire he falls back to his alternate positions where he gets support from units moving up. He is not afraid of attacks from the flanks, but is extremely sensitive to artillery and mortar fire." [The German soldier, too, is extremely sensitive to such fire.]

German paratroopers said our soldiers were excellent both on defense and offense, but asserted our tanks used in support of infantry did not show much enthusiasm in fighting tanks and had a healthy respect for anti-tank guns and close combat weapons, presumably bazookas.

The German report concluded with the statement that Americans have been "using cattle for discovering mine fields."

That might be a good idea, an American officer commented, but large numbers of dead cows, which clutter up the battlefields, are really victims of artillery or mortar bursts. No one has yet seen them used like the French used pigs before the Maginot line to detect mine fields. Perhaps, however, this is a Yankee secret weapon.

Report Quads for Father with 43 Other Children

BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 9 (AP).—The 75 year old father of 43 children today became the father of quadruplets, the newspaper El Spectador reported. He is Abjon Jaramillo, Amalfi artisan, who had 30 children by his first wife and 13 besides the new arrivals, by his second, the newspaper said, adding that details concerning the birth of the quadruplets were lacking.

back until an assault force could be brought up.

Pin Nazis in 70 Mile Pocket.

At the north central end of the allied front, American troops have advanced more than a half mile south of St. Germain-de-Tallevende, two and one-half miles below Vire.

A pocket of resistance was wiped out at Le Mesnil-Tove, some five miles northeast of Mortain, where the Germans threw in a heavy tank counter-assault a few days ago. The Germans are clinging grimly to positions in Mortain.

The Canadian and American drives were closing a pincers on a 70 mile pocket, apparently forcing the Germans to give up their attempt to split the Avranches corridor.

Beat Off Nine German Blows.

Tho there still was fighting around Cherence-Le Roussel, northwest of Mortain, and Mortain itself, the Americans just to the north along the Mortain-Vire road captured several villages. Among them was St. German de Tallevende, three miles south of Vire.

The Germans counter-attacked to the northeast, in the sector southwest of Caen where the British 2d army holds a bridgehead across the Orne. The Germans pulled back after eight assaults in nine hours.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Yesterday's broadcast German war bulletin said:

"In Normandy, very heavy fighting is going on on the entire front from south of Caen to the area east of Avranches. With the greatest array of material, the enemy, supported by numerous tanks and strong air forces, time and again rushed against our front. He succeeded only, however, in penetrating into our front south of Caen and south of Vire. Enemy assault wedges were checked deeply in German positions.

"In the remaining sectors, enemy attack groups were checked in front of our lines with the heaviest losses inflicted on the enemy.

"Embittered fighting developed in the Le Mans area, in the course of which the enemy penetrated into the town itself.

"In Brittany, American formations driving on Lorient and Brest were warded off and numerous tanks were knocked out. Hard fighting for St. Malo continues."

RE-ENFORCE PARIS DRIVE

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 9.—Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator, tonight said allied armored forces were being moved from Brittany to reënforce the columns racing toward Paris. He said the allies' aim was to trap the German forces in Normandy in a pincer movement, which is being greatly aided by the "superior allied air forces."

"It is no exaggeration," he said, "to say that in the last few days developments in France have been dominated by the all-out effort on the part of the superior allied air forces. It is the air forces which are helping the allies not only to pave the way for their own offensive, but also to restore critical situations resulting from German counter-attacks."

Another German commentator interpreted the allied moves on both the French and Russian fronts as indicating they hope to win the war before winter sets in by "concentrating all available resources into this gigantic blow." However, he said, Germany's "total mobilization" has altered the situation on the eastern front.

PARIS LIKE CITY BESIEGED; FOOD GETTING SCARCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Aug. 9.—Paris is like a besieged city, according to information reaching Switzerland. One Paris spokesman said food supplies are dwindling daily and soon there will be no more gas or electricity.

"Leaving Paris is practically impossible," foreign observers write, "since trains are getting increasingly rare and traveling dangerous. Now a trip from Paris to Lyons takes three days with many stopovers, train changes, and stretches where passengers must go by foot. It is not always possible to find shelter at night, and most Parisians are too exhausted from the lack of food to stand any physical strain."

Parisian women now wear only printed ersatz materials for their ever pretty dresses. The impossibility of leaving Paris has turned all the nearby countryside into resorts. Along the Seine, Oise and Marne rivers the worst village inns are making fortunes. Hotels at Barbizon, near Fontainbleau, charge $40 to $60 a day for board and room.

1,500 U. S. PLANES HIT STUTTGART, NAZIS' 'DETROIT'

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP).—More than 2,000 American heavy bombers and fighters from Britain and Italy attacked war targets today in Germany, Hungary, and Yugoslavia. Tonight, R. A. F. bombers battered flying bomb installations in France.

About 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an equal number of escorts flew thru soupy weather from England and bombed objectives around Stuttgart, "the Detroit of Germany," and in other sectors of southern Germany. Clouds were three miles thick.

R. A. F. Lancasters packing 12,000 pound bombs smashed at submarine pens in the U-boat base of La Pallice on the west French coast.

Italy based American bombers struck oil and plane facilities in Hungary and the Brod railway yards in Yugoslavia.

YANKEE ARMOR FIGHTS TO HEM IN FOE AT MORTAIN

Escape Lines Periled, City Encircled.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, Aug. 9.—Blasting to a standstill all German efforts to continue their counter-attacks north of Mortain, Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley today pushed out an armored column which reached the village of Ger, about five miles northeast of Barenton, and engaged enemy armor.

Capture of Ger will place the Americans squarely athwart all roads from Mortain except one. However, the Germans still are hanging onto Mortain, which has been encircled for days.

Yanks on Four Sides of Nazis.

Ger is seven miles east of Mortain. Thus troops of four German Panzer divisions fighting along the Mortain-Vire line now face American forces directly south and southeast of them, as well as west and north.

From their high water mark at Cuves, 11½ miles east of Avranches along the See river, the German counter-attack forces have been pushed back to Le Mesnil Tove. This is a village half a mile below Cherence-Le Roussel and 3½ miles west of Sourdeval.

An enemy pocket was mopped up today while the Americans pressed on with the business of straightening our lines. All along the sector between Mortain and Vire fighting continued but without changing the line much.

Americans Win Ste. Germaine.

Small penetrations were made by each side. One American force during a fairly big attack two miles south of Vire, captured Ste. Germaine de Tellevende and fought on 1,000 yards south against "fairly heavy resistance."

Southwest of Ste. Germaine there was "confused" fighting around Gathemo, where the Germans lost five tanks in a small but vicious counter-attack two days ago.

ALLIED ADVANCE MAY LEAD INTO CATHEDRAL CITY

One of the next milestones on the allied sweep to Paris probably will be the ancient city of Chartres, capital of the department of Eure-et-Loire and site of a famous cathedral. The city stands on the left bank of the Eure, 55 miles from Paris. It is an important grain marketing and a manufacturing center, with a population between 20,000 and 25,000.

Chartres is said to have been founded about 600 B. C. and was the center of early Gallic worship and the seat of the College of Druids. It was here that Henry IV. of Navarre was crowned king of France in 1594.

The Cathedral of Notre Dame, its spires a landmark on the plain of Beauce, "the granary of France," is one of the most notable Gothic buildings in France. The present crypt dates from the 11th century and the cathedral from the 12th or 13th century. The statuary of the portals, the stained glass and the Renaissance choir screen are all unique.

Chartres, called Autricum by the Romans, was burned by the Normans in 858 and unsuccessfully besieged by them in 911. It was taken in 1591 by Henry IV. The city was seized by the Germans in the war of 1870 and used as an operational center.

U. S. PLAN TO AID FRANCE AFTER WAR REVEALED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALGIERS, Aug. 9.—With the liberation of France well under way, it is possible to indicate the scope of plans for supplying the French people with food, clothing, and medicines and for the reconstruction of French economic life during the first three years after the end of hostilities, mainly thru assistance by the United States.

It is tentatively estimated that the relief program will involve the import into France of some 2,500,000 metric tons of goods, of which some 500,000 tons will come from the French empire. The cost of the relief program was put at $270,000,000.

The larger and longer economic program would cover the supplying of some foodstuffs, but would involve mainly the supplying of raw materials, industrial equipment, and transportation requisites. The tentative figure for the cost of this reconstruction program has been put at $2,000,000,000.

500 U-BOATS SUNK IN WAR; 17 OFF INVASION COAST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—More than 500 German submarines have been sunk by the allies since the start of the war, it was announced tonight in a joint British-American statement.

Issued under authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the statement added that Nazi U-boats were "ineffective during July, a month which has been so important for the success of continental operations."

The report said that the number of German submarines destroyed in July was "substantially greater than the number of merchant ships sunk." Seventeen U-boats have been sunk while attempting to interfere with cross-channel traffic since the first landings in France. "The U-boat fleet is still of impressive size," the statement added.

Lt. F. D. Freedel Killed in Action in France

Lt. Fred D. Freedel, formerly associated with Buckey, Dement & Co., was killed in action in France on July 4, it was reported yesterday by Homer J. Buckley. The lieutenant's mother, Mrs. Bessie Freedel, lives in Pittsburgh, Pa.

REPORT VICHY BESIEGED BY MAQUIS TROOPS

MADRID, Aug. 9 (AP).—Vichy is a besieged city with the garrison of 5,000 militiamen, mobile guardsmen, gendarmes, and state police battling French patriot forces attempting to seize the collaborationist capital, dispatches received here said today.

Pierre Laval, French collaborationist leader, is no longer able to live in his Chateldon chateau 10 miles south of Vichy because of the danger of ambush by Maquis forces along the road, the morning newspaper Ya said in a story from its Vichy correspondent.

The correspondent reported that numbers of the patriots already were inside Vichy. Even the garrison has Maquis in its ranks.

Elsewhere in France, partisan battles with Germans and collaborationists were reported increasing in fury. Maquis in southwestern France were said to have captured an important road junction between Bordeaux and Bergerac after heavy fighting.

REDS DRIVE TWO WEDGES IN EAST PRUSSIA LINES

Continue Drive on Riga to Trap Nazis.

LONDON, Aug. 9(AP).—The Nazis threw in savage counter-attacks at the Russians' closest points of approach to East Prussia today and summoned every able bodied man and woman from 15 to 65 to dig trenches against the imminent entry of the army onto the soil of the fatherland.

The Germans said the Russians had driven two breaches nearer to East Prussia on the northeast and southeast—on both sides of the region of the German counter-attacks.

The Russians in their midnight bulletin said the counter-attacks, east of the East Prussian border town of Schirwindt, were beaten off with heavy losses to the large German tank and infantry forces employed, and told of continuing hard won soviet gains at both ends and in the center of the 1,000 mile eastern battlefront against stiffening German defense.

Capture 280 Towns.

The threat to East Prussia, however, was the Germans' greatest source of worry, as indicated by their counter-attacks northwest of Mariampole, their drastic call-up of labor battalions and the continual harping of the German radio on the East Prussian defense theme.

In the north the Russians reported capture of 280 towns in twin drives northwestward toward Riga, Latvia, along both sides of the Daugava river, while they widened to the westward their trans-Latvian corridor to the sea that has cut off two German armies.

Widen Bridgeheads.

East of Warsaw and north of Siedlce they progressed with the ripping up of a large pocket of German resistance between the Vistula and Bug rivers. More than 130 miles southeast of Warsaw, they reported continued widening of their bridgeheads across the Vistula west of Sandomierz.

On the southernmost of the active fronts, the bulletin reported capture of the town of Skole, in the narrowing Carpathian valley where the road and railroad wind up to the Beskid pass and the Czehhoslovak border 20 miles distant.

The Germans admitted that the latest Russian salient had forced them to abandon the town of Raseinial, 53 miles northeast of the East Prussian city of Tilsit, and that they had reorganized their line to the westward. They later claimed to have pushed the Russians back out of Raseinial in hard fighting.

31 Miles from East Prussia.

Another soviet column was forking northward from Bialystok in old Poland, with fighting in progress west of Knyszyn, 31 miles from the East Prussian frontier. The Germans also attached importance to a soviet spearhead thrusting southwestward from Bialystok beyond Lapy down the railroad towards Warsaw.

The Warsaw siege front remained static, the Germans said, but they admitted that 130 miles farther south, in the Baranow area, the Russians made gains both north and south, extending their salient.

Thruout East Prussia, Danzig, the old Polish corridor to the sea, and the area beyond, the order for every one was "Dig!" The Germans admitted that they were pressing into this spadework many Poles and other nationalities, every one, in fact, who had the strength to wield a tool.

The Moscow radio, in a special air forces broadcast today, said all the digging would do the Germans little good, for soviet planes, with a sixfold superiority in numbers, were attacking the Nazi defenses at will. It confidently concluded:

"Soviet troops will advance farther and farther to the west until they link up with our allies."

The counter-attacking Germans lost more than 3,800 killed yesterday, said the soviet war bulletin, while another 120 enemy tanks were destroyed or knocked out.

FAMINE, RIOTS FACE FLORENCE; LOOTERS BUSY

Battle for Italian City Limited to Patrols.

ROME, Aug. 9 (AP).—The city of Florence, locked in a deadly vise formed by the British and German armies, was reported facing a series of food and water shortages and beset by looting and outbursts of civil armies, was reported facing a series strife today. Military operations in and around Florence were limited to patrol forays.

The battle lines had cut the city off from food supply from the surrounding countryside, and no food had been distributed on the German side of the city since last Friday.

German destruction of the power plant had deprived the city of light and caused an alarming water supply situation, with black marketeers demanding 20 lire [20 cents] for a bottle of water.

Long History of Civil Strife.

The Tuscan capital has a long history of civil strife and is a hotbed both of Fascist and anti-Fascist extremists. Fighting between these elements was known to have broken out.

Looting in some sections, both by German soldiers and Italian hoodlums, also was reported, causing the bulk of the population to remain indoors.

The enemy still held bridgeheads in two loops of the Arno river east and west of the city. The first extends 5½ miles from a point four miles east of the city's edge to a point three miles south of Pontassieve. In the middle of that pocket the British took a monastery on a hilltop.

British Recapture Ground.

The other is between Empoli and Monte Lupo 11 miles west of Florence, with the British holding Monte Lupo at the east end of the loop, but with German guns commanding Empoli.

There was virtually no change anywhere along the trans-Italian battlefront except in the area nine miles north of Arezzo, southeast of Florence, where the British recaptured Monte Grillo and beat off five enemy counter-attacks in a furious melee.

Along the American sector of the Arno patrols still crossed the stream both ways, probing opposing positions.

[The German war bulletin, as reported by the Associated Press, stated that the Allies made only local attacks southeast of Florence and in the area northeast of Arezzo. The Germans claimed all attacks were unsuccessful.]

TELLS HOW JAPS PLUNDERED FOOD FROM GUAMIANS

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUAM, Aug. 5 [Delayed].—A vivid account of how the Japanese took over Guam Island was told today by Manuel F. A. Leon Guerrero, 29, who formerly was a bookkeeper at the American Piti naval base.

The first attack, he said, was on the morning of Dec. 8, 1941, when enemy planes bombed the Pan American seaplane base in Sumay, Piti navy yard, oil storage tanks, and a United States minelayer. He said the attack was inaccurate.

Early on Dec. 10 the first Jap troops began landing, Manuel said.

Beach Lost by 7 a. m.

"It was all over on the beach by 7 a. m.," he added. "Our marines fought against pitifully huge odds, but then the Jap flag went up.

"There was a big fight in the Plaza d' Espanol [the government center] where 103 native guards stood off the Japs till six of our people lay dead and several were wounded. The guards then were disarmed and held prisoners until Feb. 1, when they were put to work.

"The Nips rounded us up and made us surrender matches and weapons, gave us each a cloth identification marker and warned us to go home and stay indoors. All supplies were requisitioned and stored in Agana, the island capital. American currency was converted to Japanese at 2 yen per dollar. Food rationing was instituted in the first few days and natives were able to buy only the plundered stocks."

Little Food Allotted.

He said the work ration was established at three ounces of rice and two pieces of vegetable per day. The only commodities purchaseable by the Guamians were rice, soya flour, sugar, salt, matches, sandals, and a little inferior silk.

"We never had bread, which we missed very much," Manuel said. "The farmers were smart. They would not honor the yen but made us townspeople give them clothing for food. Until June, 1943, when all labor was conscripted for military projects, we were allowed all most complete physical freedom, but what could we do, with our stores and theaters closed? As the military projects got under way all men were registered for military work and the women and the infirm were sent to the fields."

Natives Put in Camps.

Last July after American air raids on the island had begun, many natives were marched into the hills with a military escort, Manuel said. They were distributed among three concentration camps.

"Within 5½ hours 1,500 of us had come in," Manuel said. "Some fell ill by the wayside, babies were born en route and some were buried along the way. However, we were happy because the raids indicated the Americans were coming back."

FIVE GENERALS KEEPING VOW TO DIE IN HENGYANG

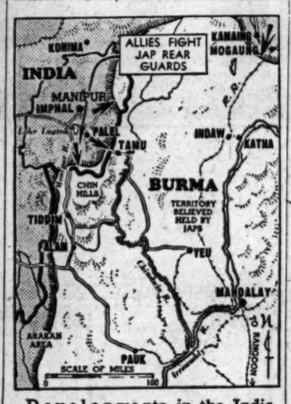
CHUNGKING, Aug. 9 (AP).—Chinese forces, headed by five generals, apparently were making good today their vow to fight to the death in battered Hengyang, opposing a Japanese assault to the last.

The Chinese high command said broken radio contact made the situation inside the city obscure. Tuesday night the five generals, headed by Fang Hsien-chuehn, 39 year old commander of the 10th Chinese army, sent a farewell message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declaring they would stick with their troops and die fighting.

In western Yunnan province Chinese troops have dislodged the enemy from all but three of their strong points on Sungshan mountain, a Chinese announcement said. The capture of this height would clear the Burma road from the nearby Salween river to Lungling, 25 miles southwest.

An announcement from headquarters of the United States 14th air force disclosed a group of American geenrals under Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, chief of the air staff under Gen. H. H. Arnold, had made a three day tour of China air bases, surveying the needs of this area.

Push Japs Back



Developments in the India-Burma war theater. Arrow indicates allied drive down Mogaung valley.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 9 (AP).—The allied drive to push the last Japanese invaders out of northeast India penetrated today to a point 54 miles south of Imphal, where Japanese rear guards were encountered.

It appeared likely that the last of the beaten 33d Japanese division would be chased over the Burma frontier toward Tiddim within another week. These retreating elements of the enemy still must pass allied "shadow" troops lodged in their rear and harassing Tiddim road traffic.

In the Mogaung valley campaign in northern Burma allied troops striking down upon the Mogaung Mandalay railway in the Taungni area encountered heavy opposition at Tigyaingzu, five miles northeast of Taungni and about 10 miles southwest of Mogaung.

YANKS KILL 1,072 MORE JAPS IN AITAPE SECTOR

GENERAL HDQ., S. W. PACIFIC, Aug. 10 [Thursday]—(AP).—An additional 1,072 Japanese have been killed in the Aitape sector of British New Guinea, headquarters announced today. This is one of the heaviest battle tolls yet taken in that area.

Americans have encircled Japanese front lines on the Driniumor river. Remnants of the Japanese 18th army trapped in the Wewak area who had attempted to break westward thru American lines now are on the defensive some 20 miles east of Aitape.

Headquarters also announced that an allied Liberator bombed a 2,000 ton Japanese freighter off Davao, Mindanao, in the southern Philippines Monday night. Other allied bombers raided Halmahera Island, between New Guinea and Mindanao, Yap island in the Carolines, and Sorong and Manokwari, Japanese bases in Dutch New Guinea.

Two Jap-Americans Fined for Brawling in Tavern

Joseph Anzai, 30, of 1246 N. Dearborn st., a machinist, and Joe Kodama, 37, of 1219 N. Clark st., a laborer, both Japanese-Americans, were fined $1 each yesterday in Chicago av. court by Judge Le Roy Hackett for a tavern brawl they had Sunday. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

POLISH PREMIER TO TAKE RIVALS' PLAN TO LONDON

MOSCOW, Aug. 10 [Thursday]—(AP).—Shortly after his second meeting with Premier Stalin, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, premier of the Polish government in exile, radiating optimism, announced today he would return to London with proposals concerning the rival Polish regimes on which "no definite agreement" was reached here.

"Premier Stalin has assured us of his desire for a strong, independent, democratic Poland," he told a press conference, adding he had a deep conviction that a durable, close, and friendly coöperation between Poland and soviet Russia must exist now and in peace time.

No More Statements.

As negotiations between the rival regimes, the government in exile and the soviet sponsored National Committee of Liberation, broke up, Mikolajczyk said, "We have agreed not to make statements and counter-statements," and declined to make any prediction about his own prospects.

[Members of the National committee left the Russian capital last night by plane for an unrevealed destination, the Moscow radio said. The dispatch, recorded in London by the soviet monitor, said high soviet officials were present to see them off.]

The premier, who saw Stalin last night, conferred with Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov Monday night and met the rival Polish group Aug. 6 and 7. He said certain proposals had been advanced by both sides which "will be considered in London." Asked if the negotiations would be resumed in Moscow, he replied:

"I think Warsaw, which is fighting now a terrible fight, would be the best place. It would be the easiest place to find an agreement."

Favor Underground Leaders.

He added that the people of the Polish underground seemed to him to be the ones who should lead Poland.

As the discussions ended, each party indicated a desire for renewal of the talks on a plan for fusion.

The national committee released a statement to the Moscow press charging that the talks collapsed because Mikolajczyk's delegation would not renounce the constitution of 1935, which it described as dictatorial, in favor of a "democratic provisional government" under the liberal constitution of 1921.

3 CHICAGOLAND MARINES HAILED AS GUAM HEROES

BY STAFF SGT. WARD WALKER.

[Marine corps combat correspondent on military leave from The Chicago Tribune.]

GUAM — [Delayed]. — While assault marines were still racing in from the beaches to assemble for their drive inland, two Chicagoland supply men were calmly pounding their dump signs into the ground in the midst of sniper and mortar fire.

They were Lt. David R. McGrew Jr., 36, whose parents live at 1120 Portland av., Park Ridge, and Master Tech. Sgt. Ralph Sheaks, 28, of Greenup, Ill. Because of their efforts, supplies moved smoothly.

One of the men who labored all of one day and night here recently carrying wounded to aid stations was Hospital Apprentice 2d Class Edward F. Moore Jr., 20, of 4218 Washington blvd., Chicago.

BULGARIAN BID FOR PEACE THRU TURKS REPORTED

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 9 (AP).—Unconfirmed reports circulated here today that Bulgaria has asked the allies for peace terms thru the medium of the Turkish government. Dr. Floyd Henson Black, former president of the American college in Bulgaria and now president of the American college in Istanbul, left Istanbul hurriedly for Ankara, and it was believed he had been called into consultation by the United States embassy because of his intimate knowledge of Bulgaria.

Late information available here indicated Romania also might be taking steps toward surrender. Any Romanian move, however, was said to hinge primarily on the terms of a Russian-Finnish armistice that may come soon.

POLISH LEADER ASKS FOR AID TO HOLD WARSAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—An appeal for allied help for the Polish underground army holding a large part of Warsaw was made tonight by Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander in chief of Polish forces in the field. Sosnkowski has been denounced by Moscow as a Fascist. His appeal coincided with the message from Gen. Bor, commander in chief of the Polish underground army, announcing that German artillery from emplacements in the suburb of Praga heavily shelled Polish Patriots on the western bank of the Vistula and fierce fighting is going on.

British Ask Stalin Advice on Captive Russians' Fate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Thursday].—The British government, it was reported this morning, has asked Premier Joseph Stalin what he thinks should be done with the 2,000 Russians captured while fighting or working with the German army.

HINTS ELECTION MOTIVE BEHIND TRANSIT STRIKE

Judge Discounts Racial Issue to Jury.

Act in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9 [Special].—The federal fair employment practice committee today ordered the Los Angeles Railway corporation to desist from refraining to hire Negroes as street car conductors, motormen, and bus drivers, or to upgrade present Negro employes when qualified to such jobs.

Representatives of both the company and of the AFL Amalgamation of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees told the committee at an opening hearing that enforcement of the hiring of Negro conductors, motormen, and bus drivers would result in a strike in this vital war area.

The company was given a "reasonable" time to carry out the order.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 9 (AP).—Federal Judge George A. Welsh charged a special grand jury of 11 men and nine women today to search out any political motive that may have been involved in the calling of Philadelphia's transit strike, declaring he could not believe that the strikers were actuated solely "by the thought that eight Negroes were going to be upgraded."

Judge George A. Welsh.

"I hope it [racial prejudice] was not the real reason," he said. He added:

"You have got to be cognizant of the fact that a national election is impending. God forbid that I should bring politics into this investigation but we want you to find out what certain men did and why they did it. We have to know what was in their hearts and minds that made them spring into action.

"Something that happens in Philadelphia today—something wherein the truths did not prevail—could have its repercussions in the length and breath of the land and have its effect on the national election."

Blow at a Sacred Cause.

The judge said the strike "caused serious disruption of war time preparations, caused chaos and confusion in a community that was doing its best in a crisis in the nation's history," and "struck a blow at a sacred cause" for which thousands of American boys are fighting.

"You are to determine the identity of the men who engineered such a strike," he said. "They should have made a declaration of any grievance.

"It came, however, as a bolt from the blue. The reason given for it was one of intolerance and racial hatred. . . . I hope it was not the real reason. . . .

"If race hatred was the real reason, we cannot take it lying down. We must punish the men who called such a strike."

Four of the strike leaders are free on bond awaiting hearing next Monday on charges of violating the Smith-Connally anti-strike act.

"The mere throwing of three or four men to the wolves will not solve this problem," Judge Welsh said.

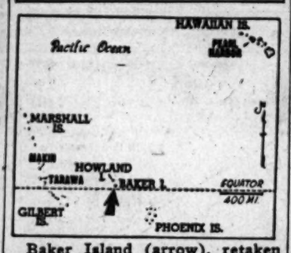
Judge Welsh, who observed his 66th birthday today, is a Republican, appointed to the bench by President Hoover in 1932. He is known as a conservative and defender of civil liberties.

Negroes Back on Job.

The eight Negroes resumed their training for trolley operating jobs today under protection of the army which took over the strike-bound transportation company Thursday night. They were ordered upgraded by the fair employment practices committee.

Litigation in reorganization of the Philadelphia Transit company was before Judge Welsh for six years, he recalled today in his statement to the jury, saying: "In order to get the true picture in this investigation, you must go into the corporate structure of the transit company, and also its labor setup, where you will find that four different labor groups were vying for domination."

Island Retaken



Baker Island (arrow), retaken by Americans without opposition.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—American sovereignty has been reestablished on Baker Island, in the central Pacific, from which American forces were withdrawn early in 1942.

This was disclosed by the navy today in a citation accompanying award of the distinguished service medal to Rear Adm. Arthur W. Radford for his service as commander of a task force during the landing activities in Baker, Makin, and Tarawa Islands in the Pacific. The Baker landings, last fall, encountered no opposition.

Reoccupation of the little island, an American possession since 1935, indicates that nearby Howland Island—about 60 miles to the north—also is occupied by an American garrison. Howland was evacuated at the same time American forces withdrew from Baker.

MECARTNEY SUES BIDDLE, HOOVER FOR SEIZED DATA

Civil Rights Violated, Lawyer Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Charges that Atty. Gen. Biddle and J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, have deprived Newell Mecartney, Chicago attorney, of his civil rights were contained in a petition filed in the District of Columbia federal District court today.

The petition asked the return of documents seized by the FBI when Mecartney was arrested on sedition charges in Chicago in September, 1942, and asked for an injunction to prevent Biddle and Hoover from "making unfounded charges or taking any illegal action" against Mecartney on the basis of the documents still held by the FBI.

Convicted in 1943.

Mecartney was convicted in federal District court in Chicago on three counts of a sedition charge Jan. 14, 1943, in the first sedition trial in Chicago since World War I. Judge William H. Holly granted him a new trial, but when the federal proscutor failed to bring Mecartney to trial for the second time, charges against him were dropped.

Convicted with Mecartney was Elmer W. Hartzel, Chicago auditor and statistician, and Elmer Soller. All were charged with printing and distributing scurrilous pamphlets designed to destroy the morale of the fighting forces and to provoke military insubordination.

No Evidence, Judge Says.

Hartzel's conviction was reversed by the United States Supreme court last June in a 5 to 4 decision.

The case against Mecartney was dropped, Judge Holly said, in granting him a new trial, because there was no evidence that Mecartney had helped distribute the pamphlets.

In his petition for injunction, filed by Atty. William Powers of Chicago, Mecartney said he had merely leased space to Soller in his offices at 800 North av., Chicago. He claimed he had no knowledge of Hartzel or that Soller was mimeographing the pamphlets allegedly written by Hartzel.

The petition stated Mecartney reserves the right to bring a separate action for damages against Biddle and Hoover.

Beg Your Pardon

It was stated incorrectly in last Friday's TRIBUNE that two salesmen reported they had been robbed by two women in the Mont-Claire apartments, 3719 Pine Grove av. Police records show the reported robbery took place in the Montclare hotel, 834 Montrose av.

South Chicago police records show that Aloysius Augustyniewicz, charged Tuesday with taking vegetables from a victory garden, gave his address as 8226 Crandon av. However, Mrs. Mae Bilski said she operates a beauty shop at that address and Augustyniewicz is not a resident there. His address is 8117 Coles av.

WPB AID, LINKED TO CIO, INVADES FLOOR OF SENATE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The presence on the senate floor of Herbert E. Schimmel, chief of special assignments of the war production board and acting clerk of a senate subcommittee, drew a protest today from Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.], who said later he was informed Schimmel had been in "constant contact" with the CIO political action committee during the senate's debate on reconversion bills.

Wherry made the protest in the senate when he observed Schimmel walk up to the rostrum to speak with Sen. Overton [D., La.], who was temporarily presiding. He demanded to know "under what rule is a person not a member of the senate permitted to address the chair?"

Overton Defends Action.

Overton explained it was customary for senate employes to have access to the floor, and besides, Schimmel merely wanted to ask how many senators had listed their names to speak on the reconversion issue.

Wherry said senators were entitled to "know what is being said when anyone addresses the chair" and that employes were not customarily accorded "full privileges of the floor."

Later, he told reporters:

"It has been reported to me Herbert Schimmel is in receipt of numerous telephone calls, and is in constant contact with the political action committee.

Draws Pay from WPB.

"Neither the political action committee nor any other committee with special interests to serve ought to have a representative on the floor of the United States senate, advising senators and conferring with the chair."

A WPB official said Schimmel was loaned to the Kilgore subcommittee at the subcommittee's request, and that he remained on the WPB pay roll.

U. S. AGENTS EYE JOSEPH WEBER, CIO ORGANIZER

Federal agents are investigating Joseph Weber, the Moscow educated "organizer" for the CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union, it was disclosed last night. Weber caused six anti-Communist members of the International Harvester company local to be expelled from his union, and demanded that the company discharge them from their jobs.

Weber was sought last December by the immigration department on a charge of entering the United States illegally from Yugoslavia. The immigration office reported last night that the federal bureau of investigation has taken jurisdiction. Spencer J. Drayton, agent in charge of the FBI office in Chicago, was not available.

Weber has been involved since 1930 in strikes that led to serious clashes, his record shows. He is a graduate of the Lenin Training school in Moscow, which teaches strike violence strategy and other direct action tactics.

PAPER SALVAGE SATURDAY HAS A $50,000 GOAL

Chicago service men's centers, Boy Scouts, and civic organizations will benefit to the extent of nearly $50,000, if Chicago reaches its goal of 5,000 tons of waste paper in a one day concentrated paper pick-up Saturday, a spokesman for the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association said yesterday.

This income, however, is a secondary consideration in the drive, said William L. McFetridge, chairman of the Chicago salvage committee. The paper is needed desperately to make more than 700,000 items for war purposes, he said, including blood plasma containers and artillery shell bands. The latter protect the rifled edges of the shells to help accurate fire.

Six hundred civilian, army, and navy pick-up trucks will begin moving shortly after 8 a. m Saturday in 18,000 Chicago city blocks.

KILLED IN ELEVATOR FALL.

BRIDGES CALLS BIDDLE A FLOP, DRAG ON TICKET

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9 [Special].—Harry Bridges, radical west coast CIO leader, whose deportation as an alien Communist has been dragging on for more than six years, today gave vent to some of his choicest uncomplimentary opinions of Atty. Gen. Biddle, who ordered his ouster from the country but has been accused of failing to act decisively in the matter.

Atty. Gen. Biddle.

Harry Bridges.

"As a liberal attorney general, as a defender of civil liberties, as a protector of the nation's security and the war effort, he [Biddle] is a big flop and a danger to the common American people," Bridges said in his "On the Beam" column in the Dispatcher, official organ of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union.

He accused Biddle of failing and delaying to prosecute many so-called anti-American groups in the country, particularly "red baiters," and said the attorney general is "a disrupter of unity and a drag on the Roosevelt-Truman ticket."

Berwyn Paralysis Case Eleventh in County Area

A 9 year old Berwyn boy Tuesday became the 11th person in Cook county outside of Chicago to be stricken with infantile paralysis, the office of Dr. Edward Piszczek, county health director, reported yesterday. Fourteen cases had been reported in the county up to Aug. 8 last year. No deaths have resulted this year from infantile paralysis.

HILLMAN FAILS TO TELL WHY HE CHANGED NAME

New York, Aug. 9 [Special].—Sidney Hillman, who is directing the 3 million dollar CIO fourth term campaign for President Roosevelt, has neglected to apprise his biographers of the reasons for his change in name from the one of his birth in Lithuania 57 years ago. He is the son of Schmuel Gilman, a small wheat trader of Zagare, Lithuania, and the grandson of a rabbi.

Sidney Hillman.

Since his rise to the top New Deal labor political post, he has been known as Hillman, and the reams of copy written about him fail to explain the discrepancy. Associates assume he Anglicized the name when coming to this country in 1907.

Investigators for the Dies committee said their records did not disclose the background for the change. Hillman registered for the draft under his new name. He is widely known in Chicago for having led a clothing workers' strike in 1910.

Hoover 70 Today, but Isn't Complaining About That!

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 9 (AP).—Tomorrow is Herbert Hoover's 70th birthday, but the former President says there'll be no celebration. Returning from an inspection of Utah mining properties, Hoover declined to grant an interview. Earlier this week when a reporter here commented that he looked in fine health, Hoover responded with: "I have some complaints, national and international, but no physical ones."

4TH TERM FOES IN GEORGIA USE A FUSION PLAN

Anti-New Deal Democrats in Georgia, headed by former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, have combined with the "lily white" Republican faction to enter a slate of uninstructed Presidential electors on the November ballot, it was reported yesterday to the American Democratic national committee.

The committee's national secretary, Robert E. O'Brian, who conferred with the two groups, said the uninstructed electors would run under the label of the Independent Democratic party, which, directed by Talmadge, entered a slate in 1940 and won a place on this year's ballot.

Furthermore, said O'Brian, the fusion group believes it has contrived to present a ticket acceptable to all Democrats in the state by carrying in the independent column, after the electors, the names of all regular Democratic candidates from congressman down. The strategists hope that registered Democrats who oppose the fourth term will see this as an opportunity to vote against President Roosevelt and at the same time maintain their party standing.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN ASSAILS GROUPS FAVORING LUCAS

Tyrrell Says Democrats Aided Leaders.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Recipients of Democratic largess, one worlders, and persons who were clamoring for war long before Pearl Harbor form the core of so-called independent committees organized to help Sen. Lucas, Democratic nominee for reelection, Republican State Chairman John T. Tyrrell said yesterday.

Col. A. A. Sprague heads the Chicago division of the Businessmen's League for Lucas. In 1942 he was the nominal leader of an independent committee opposing Sen. Brooks, Republican. Sprague has received $373,500 under the Democrats as trustee for the elevated lines and receiver for the Aurora and Elgin and Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroads, a survey showed.

"Sprague's independence may be measured by the $373,500," Tyrell said. "There is no Kelly pay roller who has got a fraction as much as Sprague."

Named to Post by Horner.

Robert E. Straus, banker, is treasurer. He was appointed chairman of the Illinois development council by the late Henry Horner, Democratic governor.

Otto Gerken Beich of Bloomington heads the downstate branch with headquarters in Springfield. A candy manufacturer, Beich was appointed to the normal school board by Gov. Horner. In 1940 he was chairman of the greater Chicago committee supporting Harry Hershey, Democratic nominee for governor. Hershey was beaten.

"Here again we find the key to the independence of the committee," Tyrrell said. "Nearly all of the men who gathered with Beich were recognized New Dealers.

"Citizens who want to get rid of the New Deal once and for all will have nothing to do with these self-styled independents. Scott Lucas is one of the leading New Dealers and his sudden affection for businessmen betrays his fear of his overwhelming defeat Nov. 7 by Richard J. Lyons, Republican."

Group Backs Mrs. Douglas.

Another "independent" committee has been formed to aid the Democratic candidacy of Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas for congress-at-large. Miss Eleanor E. Perkins of Evanston is chairman and an office has been opened at 160 N. La Salle st.

Among the internationalists in this group, said Tyrrell, are Courtenay Barber Jr., erstwhile leader of Fight for Freedom, Inc., Mrs. Emmons Blaine, wealthy subsidizer of interventionism; Clifton Utley and Mrs. Quincy Wright of the Council on Foreign Relations, and Mrs. Sara Sommer of Peoria, a supporter of Federal Union, Inc., the Union Now group.

"There can be no surprise that the one worlders and New Dealers are supporting the Democratic nominee who echoes their views," Tyrrell said. "But Republicans and innumerable Jeffersonian Democrats will vote to reelect Rep. Day by a larger majority than ever before."

EDGE WARNS U. S. AGAINST 1-MAN MAKER OF PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Gov. Edge of New Jersey, after a conference here with Gov. Dewey, issued a statement today warning against another self-willed President being in office when peace terms are drafted to end World War II. He obviously was referring to President Roosevelt and to the late President Wilson.

Earlier in the statement, Edge quoted Dewey as defining the term "peace forces" in the Republican foreign policy plank as embracing "everything from an editorial to a 16 inch gun." Insofar as disclosed, however, there was no deviation in the conversations from the party's platform opposition to any world state or world police force.

Also from New Jersey and also participating in the conference were 10 Republican congressmen, two candidates for congress, and H. Alexander Smith, Republican nominee for the senate.

Courtney, Mrs. Douglas to Speak in Barrington

State's Atty. Courtney, Democratic candidate for governor, and Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, candidate for congress at large, will speak at a public meeting in Barrington tomorrow night after a reception in the afternoon at the Barrington Country club. The meeting will be held in the school.

Mrs. Luce Opens Campaign; Woman Named to Oppose Her

Brands F. D. R. 'Boss'

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 9 (AP).—United States Rep. Clare Luce was renominated by acclamation for a second term tonight by the 4th district Republican convention and she immediately hit out at the administration in a speech which bristled with criticism of its policies and a condemnation of Communism.

Clare Boothe Luce.

Pledging herself to a "clear cut, definite labor policy," Mrs. Luce, at one point in her acceptance, asserted the war man power commission had "fumbled and finagled" the man power problem; that the new WMC ceiling plan was a "labor draft," and that Communist interests had rooted themselves deep in the Democratic party.

She called administration officials "ramsquaddled, do-gooding New Deal burocrats" and termed President Roosevelt a "super-duper, highly cultured political boss—not a real dictator."

Bilious Labor Policy.

At another point she described the Smith-Connally act, framed to prevent strikes in war time—as "the natural spawn of Mr. Roosevelt's febrile and bilious labor policy.

The congresswoman also criticized the present cabinet, saying the administration had "failed to appoint and vest with authority a competent secretary of labor."

Concerning post-war economy, Mrs. Luce observed that "the present administration is just as incapable of preventing a new depression, as it was incapable of curing the last one."

"There is not a single thoughtful man in Washington today," she declared, "who does not tremble for the economic welfare of the country if the present administration stays in power."

Communism Deadly Blight.

Declaring that she would say something "the President has not dared to say since war broke out," Mrs. Luce declared that "next to Fascism, Communism is the most deadly blight that has ever hit the spirit of man."

"For there never has been a period," she asserted, "in all the history of civilized nations, when their peoples and their rulers have not admitted that their rights and powers derived from a higher being or beings. I challenge any one to tell me the name of any one great nation since the dawn of history whose peoples and rulers have not worshipped at some divine altar."

Concerning the withdrawal of Russian support of political action in this country, Mrs. Luce said:

"Since Mr. Roosevelt's fourth term announcement, 50,000 of them, [American Communists] the zealots and fanatics have gone underground. Under-ground into the Democratic party. Mr. Roosevelt knows this quite as well as you and I do.

"It is because I see a distinct trend toward Communist substandardization in certain sections of the Democratic party—that win or lose in November, I am glad to be a Republican."

Meet Miss Connors

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 9 (AP).—Margaret E. Connors was happy but a bit sleepy today after a night of excitement which saw her chosen unanimously as the Democratic candidate for Congress in Connecticut's 4th district.

Margaret E. Connors.

The nomination of Miss Connors brought the first all-woman, majority party, congressional contest in the east since 1942 and one of the few in political history.

Graduate of Yale.

"It's too early to make plans and I'm too happy to think about them now," said Miss Connors.

Graduate of Wellesley college and of the Yale law school, Miss Connors is no stranger to public speaking nor to public office. At 25 she was deputy secretary of state, youngest person ever to hold that job and the first woman.

During her years at Yale, she worked one vacation in the New Haven office of the department of justice, earning newspaper mention as "Connecticut's first G-woman."

Plans Serious Campaign.

In Bridgeport, her law practice is mixed but she takes few criminal cases. Despite a substantial clientele she finds time to keep up with tennis and golf, as well as to interest herself in industrial advisory work at the Y. W. C. A.

One of her sisters, Jane, has a radio program over a Hartford station, while another, Geraldine, works for a federal agency here.

They are daughters of James W. Connors, vice president of a nationally known chain of men's clothing stores.

Tito and Yugoslav Army Staff Visit Vatican Church

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 9 (AP).—Marshal Tito and members of his Yugoslav army staff made an incognito visit yesterday at St. Peter's basilica, the Vatican news service said today.

QUEBEC ELECTION INDECISIVE; 2D VOTE POSSIBLE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 9 (AP).—The Union Nationale party, headed by Maurice Duplessis, 1936-'39 premier, won a bare over-all majority of one in the 91 seat Quebec legislative assembly, complete unofficial returns for yesterday's election showed tonight.

Thus French Canada, comprising almost a third of the dominion, placed before the rest of the country a firm announcement of its displeasure with the war time regulations of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's Liberal government.

At the same time the French Canadians rejected the ultra-Nationalists and their program attacking "imperialism" and Canadian participation in "foreign wars."

Against War Restrictions.

The election gave the Liberals 38 seats, cutting them from their former 59; gave the Union Nationale party 46, an increase from 15 and a majority of one; the new bloc Populaire, four; deferred [Charlevoix Saguenay], one, and others, two.

This represented a sharp rejection by Quebec voters of the bid of Liberal Premier Adelard Godbout, provincial partner of the King government, for endorsement of his full coöperation with the federal government's war program. Former Premier Duplessis was favored. His party campaigned on a platform of federal noninterference in provincial affairs and against war time restrictions as infringements on provincial rights.

Some Contests Close.

It brought up the question whether Premier Godbout would resign and recommend to Lt. Gov. Eugene Fiset that Duplessis be called upon to form a new government, or would decide to meet the new legislation with the possibility of support of the other members added to his Liberals.

A new election at an early date was a possibility. Official counts for the next 10 days will be watched closely, since in several seats the contests were hotly contested, and the official returns might give the Union Nationale less than the 46 seats indicated in the unofficial returns.

The governor will return from a speaking engagement in South Bend, Ind., to cut a huge cake at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Shearer, 1327 Sherwin av. Mr. Green and a daughter, Helen, with whom he resides in Milwaukee, are guests of Mrs. Shearer.

Also to be present are another daughter, Mrs. Eugene Ince of Hammond, Ind., a son, Thomas H. Green of Bloomington, Ill., and two grandsons who are enrolled in the navy's V-12 program at Purdue university.

Fulbright's Lead Mounts to 31,000 in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 9 (AP).—Rep. Fulbright's lead over Gov. Homer M. Adkins in their race for the Democratic senatorial nomination to succeed Hattie W. Caraway mounted to more than 31,000 tonight with fewer than 150 scattered precincts unreported. The vote in 1,965 of 2,087 precincts gave Fulbright 110,616 and Adkins 79,330.

BRITON BLAMES OPTIMISM FOR U. S. ARMS LAG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The news that American war production is behind schedule has been given much space in the British press, and tonight the Star's New York correspondent, P. H. Powell, tells readers that the slowdown is due largely to a belief by American workers that the war is as good as over.

Editorially the Star says that while "the same appeal has not become necessary in Britain" there is "a timely warning for our own war workers in the call to American production to increase output by 20 per cent in the next five months."

Powell says that the American workers' conviction that the war is as good as over and that production can slow down "is not altogether the workers' fault. They have been praised frequently and told that American output is so great that the allies have been supplied with everything from planes to pills."

NEW 4TH TERM SPEECH BY F.D.R. EXPECTED SOON

'Rediscovery' of War in Pacific Indicated.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt will make the second speech of his fourth term campaign within the week, it was reported in congressional circles today.

In it he is expected to shift his bid for retention as commander in chief from the Atlantic to the Pacific, now that the Nazi war machine is crumbling on two European fronts.

The speech will be broadcast over networks at home and overseas as a report to the nation on the chief executive's absence from the White House in the performance of his "constitutional duties."

Bid for Election Expected.

Nonetheless, congressional observers said, the speech will be a bid for reelection in November. It is expected to avoid sedulously any direct reference to politics.

In his speech Mr. Roosevelt will rediscover the Pacific, which the administration has regarded as a secondary theater of the war, according to congressional sources.

Should the Nazi war machine collapse before November, which is expected in some capital circles, the Pacific front will constitute Mr. Roosevelt's only claim to support as commander in chief.

Coincides with Convention.

Mr. Roosevelt timed his recent visit to the Pacific area to coincide with the Democratic convention and delivered his acceptance of the Democratic nomination July 20 from a west coast naval station.

He gave no hint where performance of his constitutional duties would take him, and the censorship code bars speculation on his movements as a military secret. It can be said only that the White House has not announced his return to the capital.

If he characterizes the impending speech as a report to the nation, Mr. Roosevelt will be following a practice established in previous reelection campaigns, of refusing to acknowledge political activity.

"Inspection Trips" Recalled.

In seeking a second term in 1936 he toured large areas of the country on "nonpolitical drouth and flood inspection trips." He did not formally acknowledge he was campaigning until Sept. 30, 1936, altho he had showed himself to millions of voters and made a number of speeches.

In 1940, when he was seeking a third term, he referred to tours of the country as "defense inspection trips." He did not make his first admitted speech of that campaign until the first week of October of that year.

CHICAGO ENSIGN WINS ACE RATING IN TASK FORCE 58

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 9 (AP).—VF-50 fighter pilots, operating from an Independence-class carrier in famed task force 58, shot down 59 Japanese planes—and acquired five new aces—during the first three weeks of the Marianas campaign.

When the Japanese attacked task force 58 west of Guam on June 19, VF-50—popularly known as Fighting Fifty—shot down 12 planes. More than 400 Jap planes were destroyed that day, the largest air toll ever exacted in a single naval action.

The squadron's aces include Ensign William A. McCormick Jr., 502 W. Aldine av., Chicago, four fighters, one bomber.

CONVICT HELD IN $60,000 BONDS.

Robert Sullivan, 40, of 827 Lawrence av., an escaped convict from a Georgia penitentiary, was held to the grand jury under bonds of $60,000 by Judge Francis Borrelli in Felony court yesterday on three charges of assault to rob.

THE ANSWERS.

George McCallum, student, Grosse Pointe, Mich.—It must have looked strange to see eight people in formals crawling around on the lawn on their hands and knees at 2:30 o'clock in the morning. We were looking for my missing car keys and after an extensive search gave up. My passengers had to wait until I obtained another set.

Gladys Carter, pay roll clerk, 6328 S. Elizabeth st.—While on a school picnic I lost my house keys. I looked, but they weren't around. When I returned my folks were gone and it was raining so I went to a friend's house. My parents had gone to a funeral and when they returned I still wasn't home. They really were worried.

Sherman Massingham, student, Grand Rapids, Mich.—I misplaced my car keys while downtown and did such a thoro job of it that I had to take a long ride on a street car to get home. Dad was so disgusted with the whole situation that he gave me his keys and made me get back on the street car and drive the car home.

Mildred Marshall, mail clerk, 1920 W. 64th st.—On a train trip to San Francisco I lost the key to one of my suitcases. Three sailors noticed I was in distress and volunteered to open the case. They tried knives, hair pins, other keys, and everything they could think of. Finally they pried it open and everything fell into the aisle.

Agatha Reich, addressograph operator, 1528 Roscoe st.—The last one in at night in our family is supposed to lock the door. If I'm last, I always forget to lock it. One morning I said, "Dad, I'll be home late, but lock the door because I have my key." I came home at 2:30 a. m., and had to ring the bell because I forgot the key.

Marie Keating, typist, 1210 W. 100th pl.—After a rather late date my friend took me to the door and left. I reached in my purse for the door key and couldn't find it. Then I dumped everything out of my purse but there was no key. It was too late to ring the bell so I sat on the front porch until morning.

The action on the Kilgore-Murray-Truman bill resolution was taken in connection with adoption of one from the collective bargaining committee which stated that all future guild contracts contain "reopening clauses to keep wages in line with the rising cost of living, if no wage increases have been obtained."

The little steel formula [permitting wage increases of 15 per cent] was called "outmoded."

Earlier the delegates indorsed the candidacies of President Roosevelt and Sen. Harry Truman for Vice President.

MOVIE 'WILSON' IS BARRED FROM U. S. ARMY CAMPS

Considered Fourth Term Ballyhoo.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—The motion picture "Wilson," with its political slant and plea for internationalism, today was barred from army camp screens by the selection board of the army's morale division.

The picture was the second turned down in two days by the board on the ground that to show them on army screens at home or overseas would violate title 5 of public law 277—the soldiers' vote bill. The other picture tossed out was "Heavenly Days," starring the radio comedians, Fibber McGee and Molly.

These are the only pictures the selection board has banned because of their political content, a war department spokesman said. The board was established in the early days of the war with instructions to select pictures that the soldiers would enjoy.

Board Reviews Films.

When the soldiers' vote bill was enacted the board was instructed to review the pictures not only for their entertainment value but also with an eye to the subject matter.

"Wilson" portrays the life of President Woodrow Wilson, his election campaigns, our entrance into the first World war, his futile efforts to put the United States into the League of Nations, and finally his collapse on a speaking tour while trying to sell the League idea to the public.

The late President is shown as a man of great idealism whose plans would have prevented the current war, while the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge is cast as a political villain who sabotaged his hopes.

Boost for Fourth Term.

Generally, the picture is a cry for some sort of an international police force and is generally regarded as intended to aid President Roosevelt in his bid for a fourth term. It had its premiere in New York City Aug. 1—reportedly with a $250,000 ballyhoo job—and probably will show in most of the movie houses in September and October, just ahead of election time.

The picture is a 20th Century-Fox production. Darryl F. Zanuck produced it and the cost, including promotion, is expected to exceed 5 million dollars.

"Heavenly Days" got the army thumb because it was regarded as strictly a satire on the New Deal, with the voluble Fibber going to the mat with congress and the burocrats and Mollie doing her bit to picture the plight of housewives plagued by government restrictions.

U. S. PORT CHIEF AT CHERBOURG DIES IN ACTION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Capt. Norman S. Ives, United States director of the port of Cherbourg, France, has been killed in action. The navy disclosed this today, but gave no indication of how the 47 year old officer met death.

A veteran of duty with submarines, Ives played a large part in development of safety devices which have saved the lives of many men serving on submersibles. Among them was the "lung" which has made possible the escape of many crewmen from sunken submarines. Ives won the navy cross for this work.

Ives, a native of Galesburg, Ill., was named port director at Cherbourg last month. He was the first allied naval officer to become director of a captured French port. Ives' widow, Mrs. Florence E., lives at Portsmouth, N. H.

Capt. John O'Hara and his bride in his parents' home yesterday.

Capt. John O'Hara of the marine corps returned yesterday to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray O'Hara, 523 S. Scoville av., Oak Park, bringing with him his bride, Docia Tingey O'Hara, from Wellington, New Zealand. The captain, who saw service in Samoa, on Guadalcanal, and Tarawa, met his future wife the day he landed in New Zealand early last year. They were married Sept. 17, 1943. After a 30 day leave, Capt. O'Hara will report for duty on the west coast. Before joining the marines, Capt. O'Hara was associated with his father, an impresario.

LOSS OF CIVILIAN PHYSICIANS SEEN AS DRAFT RESULT

America's civilian population is threatened with a 15,000 decrease in the number of available physicians by 1948 if selective service persists in its present policy of not deferring pre-medical and medical students, the council on medical education and hospitals of the American Medical association declares in the current issue of the association's Journal.

The council's comments are in reply to statements made in a letter from Maj. Gen. Hershey, national director of selective service, to Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] defending draft policies in regard to medical students.

The council concedes that medical schools should turn out 40,000 graduates between 1942 and 1948, as against 31,215 during the six years immediately preceding the war, but asserts that the 8,785 increase by 1948 indicated by these figures is misleading.

"This entire surplus physician population would be absorbed by a standing army of 1,757,000 men at five medical officers per thousand men," the council says. "Should the standing post-war navy require 5,000 physicians and the veterans' administration 10,000, the physician population available to civilians actually would be reduced by 15,000 instead of increased."

CHICAGO CAPTAIN HELPS TO BURY SAIPAN MARINES

[By 2d Lt. Jim G. Lucas, marine corps public relations office, distributed by the Associated Press.]

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands—[Delayed].—Close to the water's edge is the cemetery of the 4th marine division. Marines dug the graves and buried their comrades while Japanese snipers shot at them and enemy shells landed in a ceaseless barrage.

In charge of this group were Capt. Lewis M. Nutting, Syracuse, N. Y., and Warrant Officer H. L. Thompson, Washington, D. C. Assisting them was Capt. Ralph L. Robinson, 4423 N. Seeley av., Chicago, Ill., a regimental burial officer.

The men of this detail dug the first grave on the beach on D-day plus one. A half mile away, the enemy was entrenched, firing into the ranks of marines as they streaked onto the beach. Every time the men went out to collect the dead, they risked their own lives. A captain was killed by a sniper's bullet as he walked up to the body of a marine.

NEWSMEN HELP WHEELER MARK 70TH BIRTHDAY

Two hundred Chicago newspaper men last night helped Charles N. Wheeler, veteran reporter and war correspondent, celebrate his 70th birthday in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. Wheeler, now political editor of the Chicago Daily News, has been connected with Chicago newspapers for 45 years.

He started his Chicago career on the old Inter-Ocean. He was a war correspondent for THE TRIBUNE before and after the first World war. He was with the Herald and Examiner from 1921 until it suspended publication in 1939.

Gov. Green attended in his capacity as a member of the Chicago Press veterans. Warren Brown was toastmaster.

Born Calcium-Poor!

MOTHERS, did you know that babies are born calcium-poor? Their bones are soft and need calcium to strengthen them.

SCIENTISTS recognize that, to be on the safe side in developing sturdy, well-shaped bones (and sound teeth), growing children should get EXTRA calcium every day... considerably more than just the daily governmental minimum requirement.

NOW many popular foods are completely lacking in calcium. Others supply very small amounts. MILK is our best food source of calcium, but many children refuse to drink enough milk.

SO IF YOU have a young "milk rebel" in your family, try this! Give her Cocomalt with her meals every day. Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium it makes 3 glasses of milk equal a whole quart in calcium value... gives her that important "extra". (Also extra iron, phosphorus, and Vitamin B_1 and her day's need of Vitamin D!)

AND Cocomalt's delicious, chocolatey flavor turns milk into a treat she loves! Get Cocomalt today—serve it every day.

ROOSEVELT'S PROGRAM FOR INFLATION.

Every intelligent American is worried about the possibility that the end of the war will be followed by an explosive rise in prices. He reads with apprehension about the war time expansion in money outside of banks from 6 billions to 20 billions; of the increase in bank deposits from 54 billions in 1939 to 108 billions in April; and of the purchase of 35 billion dollars of war savings bonds convertible into cash. And he cannot help but be fearful about prices when the holders of the extra 14 billions more in cash, the extra 54 billions in bank balances, and the 35 billions in cashable bonds try to spend the money accumulated while the industries of the country devoted their production to the war.

Washington in planning for after the war is not allaying, but adding, to the apprehension of the thoughtful citizen. Mr. Roosevelt and his associates have been convinced by John Maynard Keynes, a British professor, that the nation has more to fear from declining prices than from rising prices. Every one of the three post-war plans put forth by the President and the New Deal members of congress is calculated to sustain or boost the price level. As if the specter of inflation doesn't appear real enough, the administration is seeking to make it more so. Consider the three proposals already advanced. They are all related and directed toward the common purpose.

1. The international financial and monetary conference at Bretton Woods last month brought forth two devices to enable the people of other countries to acquire more American dollars. The "fund" makes it possible for them to bring in their own dubious money and get dollars in exchange. The "bank" makes it possible for the other countries to borrow American dollars. Both would add to the supply of spending money which would compete with the dollars owned by Americans for the supply of American goods. Keynes, the author of the plan, says that the Americans "of their own free will have offered us a far reaching formula of protection against a recurrence of the main cause of deflation." Ignoring the real hazard of an uncontrolable inflation from our excess of dollars, the Bretton Woods scheme would add more billions to the pile. As Keynes puts it, it makes "a great addition to the world's stock of monetary reserves." The Germans after the other war also made a great increase to their monetary reserves, by the printing press, and with unforgettable consequences.

2. The proposal to pay unemployment benefits running up to $35 a week is No. 2 in the administration's inflation or nondeflation program. The scheme was first described in a speech in New York by Assistant President Jimmie Byrnes and it bears the name of Kilgore-Murray-Truman, one the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee and the other two stanch party men. The alleged purpose of the measure is to help war plant workers to get back into peace time jobs. But the benefits provided in the lower pay ranges would exceed the amount earned in the war plants. And the $35 rate would greatly exceed the pay that most of the beneficiaries earned before they went to work on munitions. The average pay of factory workers just before the war was $27.50 a week. The benefits proposed are so high as to discourage many from being in any hurry about finding post-war jobs. The Kilgore scheme is a key plank in the program to keep up the national income and prices by spending. It is on a par with WPA, only to get the pay it wouldn't even be necessary to lean on shovels.

3. Another measure aimed at preventing deflation is the bill of Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.]. It would keep prices up by withholding from the market durable war supplies and property for a period of three years. Such supplies to be withheld would include ships and airplanes, but also wool and cotton and products made out of them. The object is to keep up prices. Apparently this accumulation of goods is to be withheld so that similar goods could be made and sold without competing with the existing stock.

Johnson's proposal of an ever normal granary of bed sheets, blankets, nails, and so on is especially mischievous. The government, heavily in debt, ought to seek to realize the utmost from its stock of goods. These war supplies will yield the most right after the war is over and that is the time to do the marketing. In five years goods deteriorate and become obsolete.

If war surpluses are to be disposed of so as to interfere with employment as little as possible, the time to do the marketing is at once. Right after the war there is certainly going to be a boom in all the industries producing goods for the civilian. After the last war there was actually an acute labor shortage. If ever jobs are going to be plentiful it is then. The coming boom can scarcely last more than five years. By selling war supplies now the present boom will be tempered and the depression that will follow that boom will be milder.

Bretton Woods and Kilgore would lift prices by increasing demand, while Johnson would contribute to the same result by cutting supply. The country doesn't need to concoct schemes to bring on soaring prices. It needs more goods to keep prices from going into the clouds. Expanded production means jobs for the returned soldiers and ex-war plant workers. If conditions are made sufficiently attractive for the launching of new business enterprises there can be a job for every one. That can only come about if there is a complete overhauling of the tax system. There will be no real prosperity after the war on corporation taxes running up to 80 per cent and individual taxes running up to 90 per cent. Business risks cannot and will not be taken with such levies. Congress will have to shake off the New Deal leadership if V day is not to be followed by chaos.

WASTE PAPER CRISIS.

The war production board reports that 75,000 tons more waste paper will be needed during the last quarter of the year than have been heretofore collected. This crisis is due entirely to increased demands for waste paper to manufacture articles wanted by the army and navy. The manufacture of blood plasma boxes is 30 days behind schedule, and the army and navy say they are 5,000,000 shell containers short. There also is an increased demand for prisoner-of-war boxes, which are used to ship food to our men in enemy prison camps. It takes 2½ pounds of waste paper to make one of these boxes.

Saturday a campaign for the saving of waste paper is culminating in a curb collection in every ward of the city of Chicago and in 60 suburban towns within a radius of 50 miles of Chicago. Paper collected in Chicago will be sold at current prices, and the proceeds will be divided among the Chicago service men's centers, the Boy Scouts, and other youth organizations participating.

Every scrap of paper, or other material made of pulp, should be collected and made ready for pickup on Saturday morning. Tie your newspapers and magazines in two separate bundles. Make a third bundle of your corrugated boxboard, brown papers, and the contents of your waste paper baskets. Have these bundles on your curb before 8 o'clock Saturday morning so that they may be picked up by the vplunteer workers who are manning the trucks which have been donated for this important occasion. Here is one way in which every man, woman, and child can do something really effective to help our fighting men.

THE QUEBEC ELECTION.

The provincial election Tuesday in Quebec resulted in the overthrow of the existing administration. The Union Nationale party, led by Maurice Duplessis, who formerly held the office of premier as a Conservative, won a bare majority of the 91 seats in the provincial legislature. The Liberal party, led by Premier Adelard Godbout, saw its comfortable majority of 59 seats melt away to 38 in the new assembly. Minority groups won six seats and one remains to be contested.

The Quebec election returns were a reassertion by the people of that province of the right of self-government. Premier Godbout's party had to carry in the campaign the burden of the unpopularity of Mackenzie King's Liberal party government of the dominion, and the burden proved too heavy. In Canada, as in the United States, the federal government has been oppressive and overbearing, usurping the rights of the states and oppressing individual citizens.

By a combination of financial control and political censorship the newspapers of the dominion had been reduced to the status of government organs, and at the behest of Prime Minister King's government have sought to intervene improperly in American domestic politics as partisans of the prime minister's political ally, Roosevelt. The war has been made the excuse for the same sort of onerous interference in business and in personal habits to which citizens of the United States have been subjected, and also for serious abrogations of civil rights, against which American courts have afforded us a greater measure of protection than Canadians have been able to find in their courts.

We take the election in Quebec as a harbinger of the decision which the people of the United States will render this fall. Roosevelt, urged on by his Communists, his Rhodes scholars, and his colonial minded snobs, is using every ounce of the vast power to which he has been unwisely entrusted to destroy free government in this country. The American people will assert themselves overwhelmingly at the polls in November to rebuke and end this assault on their institutions.

ON SLOGANS.

The slogan, "An American Paper for Americans," which made its appearance recently under the flag on the front page of this newspaper, was suggested to the editors by Howard Cliff, one of THE TRIBUNE'S watchmen. We hope that the Chicago Herald-American, which for a long time has called itself "An American Paper for the American People," will not object to the obvious similarity. Surely there is ample room for two pro-American newspapers in the city of Chicago. Chicago's other dailies of general circulation, unfortunately for the people of this city, have no ground for complaint.

DO IT WITH DOUGH!

[New York World Telegram.]

"I hope we get 25 million dollars. We want all we can get. The more we get, the more we can spend. The more we spend, the better congress we will have. The more we spend in Pennsylvania, the better state legislature we will have. It's as simple as that."

That quotation on practical politics—on the old and cynical theory that anything can be had at a price—isn't from Mark Hanna, or Boss Tweed, or Boies Penrose, or any of the other famous advocates of the boodle-bag in elections.

It was spoken in Harrisburg, Pa., by David J. McDonald of Pittsburgh, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers and finance chairman of the PAC, before 300 CIO representatives. "Go out and get the dough if you want political action to succeed," McDonald continued.

Nothing noted but the price. A completely frank revival of the old, old theory that money will do anything in politics.

"Go out and get the dough, boys"—so we can have government of the people by the CIO and for the PAC.

Inscribe these quotes along with those other two famous sayings born of the "new moral climate": "Spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect," and—

"Keep your friends in power."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

FOR THE HALL OF FAME.

This being a week especially dedicated to winning the war by conserving paper, the Line's hat [formerly the hat of Autolycus] is off to Margaret Russell Dillon of Elmhurst, who sends us a poem typewritten on a beautifully embroidered handkerchief of fine linen. We trust the statesmen in Washington who hand out those E-for-Excellence flags will not overlook this patriotic poet. May we also suggest that they send her [unless forbidden by the Hatch act] enough nylon stockings to last her thru the war.

* * *

It requires no extraordinary imagination to foresee that a nation-wide application of the Elmhurst lady's idea would bring magnificent results. Not only would many tons of paper be saved, but the rapidly created scarcity of linen handkerchiefs from coast to coast would invite the investment of a huge risk capital in a post-war weaving industry of such scope as would absorb the dreaded hosts of the unemployed.

And even if the movement were confined to the Line alone, even if none but the poets and paragraphers of this consecrated rectangle were to write their stuff on linen, the Lineprotemaster now and the regular Linemaster soon would accumulate such stores of linen as to thumb and blow their noses in complete independence of the kleenex shortage. Incidentally, nobody has been wealthy enough to send us manuscript on that legendary fabric.

* * *

We have firmly vetoed the suggestion that the dillonkerchief be laundered and returned to the poet for repeated use. But we are printing [below] the lines that now adorn it.

LINES ON LINEN.

To a lot of folks he may not count,
That wee little boy next door;
But to me he always will amount
To my dreams of my sons at war.
I watch him tearing their place apart,
Destroying each shrub and vine,
And sadly wish in my empty heart
That the wee little boy was mine.

How They Talk.

Here is the way these educated newscasters sound to me:

"One prong of our fast moving tank army has entered the outskirts of Wong; another is reported nearing Dong; a northerly arm is feeling around Jong; British patrols are fighting in the streets of Bong; French underground report bridges knocked out in Wonz; stiff fighting is going on around Nonce; aerial attacks were made on Schwanz; paratroops are reported in Wince; the Oo river has been crossed on a 40 mile front, while the Say, the Lay, the Cay, the Day, the Ar, the Er, the Ir, the Ur, and the Or are still unheard from."

We Doubt It.

Three marines were stranded on a South sea island beach and soon after were captured by cannibals, who were highly pleased with themselves and had visions of rich rewards from their chieftain when he realized the very tasty dish they had prepared for him.

The captives were rushed to the camp and placed in the kettles with the necessary herbs and condiments.

The chief was promptly told of his good fortune by the worthy men, who had not so much his comfort as their own reward in mind. The chief, however, had spent two years at Harvard and knew a thing or two. He decided to have a talk with the captives to see if any of them were perhaps his fraternity brothers. When he learned they were marines he was highly incensed.

"Why," said he, "you would have to boil them for weeks before they would be tender enough. You know how long we had to boil that shipment of shoes before we could eat them. Fuel is too scarce to try such a noble experiment."

This was reprimand enough to send the bravest of the brave to his hut, but when the chief realized it was Friday he was even more angry. "Just because they call them marines," he said, "does not mean they are fish," and, looking into the kettles, he added, "This is a fine kettle of fish."

That, dear children, is how the term started. The marines were allowed to go free, and lived happy ever after—we hope.

The G. I. law requires that the "residential property [be] owned by the veteran and used by him as his home" before the administrator may approve a loan for repairs, alterations, or improvements thereon. Application would have to be submitted for a loan to obtain a "determination" of eligibility in your case.

RETAINING FUNCTION IN ARTHRITIS.

WHEN arthritis settles down into a chronic malady, we must accept the situation and make the best of it. It is assumed that every effort has been made to locate and rout out all sources of infection, that nutrition has been brought to par, and that every plan designed to build resistance has been adopted. Besides watching the diet we must make certain that elimination is adequate and that an out-of-door program, with plenty of sunshine, has been adopted.

There are a number of procedures which will enable the patient to move his joints with greater facility despite a certain amount of discomfort. He realizes that activity is his main hope. Should illness interfere for a few days or confine him to bed, his hinges will become more rigid and he may be twice as long, perhaps, in limbering up.

There is no occasion to give way to depression on account of this universal disorder. We can keep everlastingly busy, not only on our bread and butter job, but in combating the ailment.

Among our most useful allies is Old Sol and every arthritic [unless afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis] should acquire a mahogany tinted skin by the end of the summer season. Thereafter, the process may be maintained by means of an ultraviolet lamp. As we know, sunlight manufactures vitamin D in the skin and, in this form, it will act as a neutralizing agent.

The best home aid is the bath tub. This may be looked upon as a type of fever treatment. The patient can remain submerged at a temperature of 110 for 20 minutes. At the end of this interval, the mouth thermometer will show approximately 102 degrees Fahrenheit. On emerging, little heat will be lost if the individual will dry quickly and go to bed immediately. In consequence, metabolism will proceed at a markedly increased rate. For many, this measure can become a daily chore. It will not prove weakening if followed by sufficient rest.

Dry heat is also helpful and a simple cradle device, supplied with a few electric bulbs, can be placed over the back, the hips, or almost any joint. The temperature of the area will be raised, which will mean improved circulation. This régime may be pursued 15 to 20 minutes once or twice daily. Thereafter, movements and massage will add to its value. If one can manipulate his own muscles, more blood will flow to the parts, and old, toxin-laden vital fluid will be squeezed out. If a professional masseuse is available, so much the better.

The point of this whole matter is—"keep going." The one who settles back into invalidism may become progressively helpless. We can use sunlight, wet and dry heat, and massage not only to obtain comfort but to retain function.

LOW PRESSURE.

T. W. writes: After giving blood three times, my pressure registers below 110. Could the donations be responsible?

REPLY.

Probably not. A desirable situation, however. A low blood pressure is conducive to longevity.

HIGH CHAIR.

Mrs. K. writes: At what age can an infant use a high chair?

REPLY.

Only after the spine has developed to the point where it will support the trunk. As a rule, about the 10th to the 12th month.

OTHER CHECKS.

C. M. writes: Does pulmonary tuberculosis show up in a blood test?

REPLY.

No. Skin tests, on the other hand, are of value. The best diagnostic aid is an X-ray film.

NOT A PART.

J. L. writes: Does fever appear with the cutting of teeth?

REPLY.

Not unless infection accompanies the process. Teething is not a disease. If a temperature develops, hunt for some other cause.

Reading at War.

What men do, think, and read on the eve of combat has been one of the finer subjects of parlor controversy on the home front. What they think must always be a personal matter, but word of what they read quite often gets around. It is obvious that they read for escape, and one school of thought shouts that they read only comic books. This may be a judicious bit of propaganda planted by the comic book manufacturers, just as the three-on-a-match nonsense was started by the match makers in World War I., or it may be partially true.

The truth comes in small bits. There is the young private who wrote from Normandy asking for books and added: "But please don't send me mysteries. I tried them while waiting for D-day, and they pollute one's literary tastes." And there is the pilot of a B-29 who took only one book overseas with him, a paper bound "Pocket Book of Verse," and wrote home, just before he was reported missing over Manchuria, "Please send me another copy. The one I brought with me is literally worn to tatters."

But, as usual, it remains for those articulate warriors, the marines, to tell all. Writing under the date line "en route to Guam," a marine combat correspondent, Tech. Sgt. Theodore C. Link of St. Louis, analyzes the situation as a cook-librarian sees it after two years on a hot, crowded transport in the Pacific. For two years the transport has been slipping in and out of thitherto Jap held islands to land troops and supplies [and for its pains it and its three sisters have been dubbed the Unholy Four by the Japanese]. Two years ago it had a library of 200 books. Now it has 1,200, crammed into a tiny cabin amidships. And, as it carries marines to battle, often a quieted pawn in mid-Pacific as the strategists plan the next chess board move, the library is what the marines seek out.

The ship's cook, a gentleman named Wilfred Booth, is the volunteer librarian. He refutes the theory that marines will read anything. He says their tastes are catholic, but choosy catholic. Right now they like fiction, and at a latitude of roughly 12 degrees and a longitude of 145 degrees [this department's guess at somewhere near Guam] the leaders were:

"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," by Betty Smith; "Random Harvest," by James Hilton; "Wine of Good Hope," by David Rame; "The Sun Is My Undoing," by Margaret Steen; "Skies Over Europe," by Frederick Prokosch; "Careless Virgin," by Glen Watkins, and "Tidewater," by Dowdey.

Books about Adolf Hitler were great favorites months ago, but the cook-librarian says they are about played out now, altho "Thirty Seconds Over Tokio" and "Guadalcanal Diary" are still in smart demand. Two copies of the book of a navy wife, "Suds in Your Eye," by Mary Laswell, are in constant use, and Rose Franken's series, "Claudia," "Another Claudia," and "Claudia and David" are undiminished in popularity.

Three western stories are highly popular: "Return of the Rio Kid," by Don Davis; "Destry Rides Again," by Max Brand, and "Ramrod," by Luke Short. A newcomer to the library, Lytton Strachey's "Elizabeth and Essex," is a surprising favorite.

No one can say just why, but three nonfiction books with a strong circulation among the marines are Sigmund Spaeth's "Old Songs—Read 'Em and Weep," Abbott's "Approach to Music," and Brooks Atkinson's "American Plays."

Volume I. of "Lee's Lieutenants," by Douglas S. Freeman ["From Manassas to Malvern Hill"], is avidly read by both officers and enlisted men, but Sgt. Link says the readers feel they are "left leaning," for Volume II. never arrived, and they are left breathless in the second year of the Civil war with nothing around them but the uninformative waters of the Pacific ocean.

As for Ellery Queen, his mysteries gather dust on the shelves, for convenient, pocket size editions of all his works have been in circulation so long that "every one from Tongbatu to Tunis" has read them since December, 1941.

PAY FOR LOAFING.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The immediate post-war period is going to be one of tremendous business uncertainties. Everybody will have to take a chance. Some will take a chance on merely doing nothing and waiting for something to turn up with nice pay—meanwhile hoping the government [i. e., the rest of us] will support them. The spearhead of reconversion will be made up of those who will instead take a chance on doing something to enable them to produce and pay taxes—the business man who will take a chance on offering a little higher wages and doing a little more advertising at lower sale prices than the uncertainties of the times would seem to justify; the wage worker who will take a job at a little lower pay than he thinks he ought to have, in order to stand as nearly as possible on his own feet; the farmer who will plant and harvest, at imminent risk of loss, in order to help feed a devastated world.

It should be obvious that any sane government at Washington would set up a policy aimed at rewarding those who will lead, or at least follow along as promptly as possible, in thus feeling out the way toward reconversion of production—in full confidence that their pay or profits will go up as business hits its stride and demand grows. Yet what do we see at Washington? A steady succession of plans for rewarding instead those who will hold out, as long as a year or more, for the sort of pay they think they ought to have, before they will condescend to do as the rest of us do and take the best we can get.

New Deal statisticians are prophesying a jobless super-army of 20 millions or more. New Deal policy-makers seem determined to make the prophecies come true. God help us if they're given the chance to do it!

GETTING READY FOR THE CELEBRATION.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—In view of the possible ending of the European phase of the war at an early date, I have been told that the employes of a large store have already been instructed how to clear the store of customers at the sounding of a gong; the idea being that when the good news comes thru, some people may go wild and wreck the store. Another man has a plan worked out for his office personnel, which shows foresight.

My memory of the antics of certain individuals celebrating the armistice at the end of World War I. prompts me to recommend that all companies follow a similar procedure of suggested employe behavior. Naturally it will be a cause for great jubilation for all, but let's try to keep our heads and do nothing rash. Since we took time out for prayers for help on D-day, it would seem only appropriate that we repeat the process with a prayer of thanksgiving on V-day—when victory is ours.

WAR PRISONER'S SISTER.

NOBODY TOLD THE LAMBS.

Chicago, Aug. 7—The opening chapter about the Drake hotel murder mystery by Capt. Thomas Harrison was interesting reading. However, the captain would probably be more accurate if he referred to the killer as wearing a black Iranian lamb coat. The country of Persia several years ago was officially changed to Iran.

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE TO TRUMAN.

Alton, Ill., Aug. 4—Friends of this administration who believe the king can do no wrong may decry the outburst against the commando in chief's message of congratulation to Tom Pendergast's former protege on the ground that it is a small matter. That may be but the President's action breached a large principle which even King Henry VIII. of England would have shied at. The Western Union official who excused his company by saying if the President made a law he had the same right to break it, raises some fine points. 1. The President is put in office to execute the law and not to make it. 2. If he made it, the Western Union was wrong in obeying it. 3. Also the official who accepted the message after rejecting many like messages from other people revealed a very friable backbone. 4. There must be a penalty imposed for the infraction of any law, even if it is only a reprimand because if a law carries no penalty it is invalid in the first place and cannot be used as an excuse to reject messages from anybody. 5. If Mr. Roosevelt can make a law he is a dictator, and he says he is not a dictator.

The whole thing reminds one of the old Yankee Doodle limerick about Yankee Doodle had a wife, which runs in part: "She makes the laws and breaks the laws and makes the people pay her."

WILSON ANECDOTE.

Chicago, Aug. 6—John McCutcheon's cartoon in Sunday's TRIBUNE brings up a newspaper man's recollection about Mr. Wilson while he was speaking in St. Louis, Sept. 15, 1919. A news photographer trained his big camera on the President from the gallery of the St. Louis Coliseum, and let go with an old fashioned flash gun. It sounded like a shot. Mr. Wilson remained calm, but he muttered "O, sugar!" This was plainly heard by the few of us lucky enough to be seated directly in front of the speaker. Tom Brahany, who was Wilson's chief clerk in the White House, said "O, sugar!" was the strongest invective Mr. Wilson had ever used.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The Jedge says Missouri is in the bag in his letter from Mountain View, Mo. This is an interesting and hopeful report, but please note that while Missouri has made substantial gains in the number of Republican congressmen, their present number is eight, not 13, as stated.

WANTS REFUND OF DEPOSIT.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—After I made a $15 deposit on a $500 fur coat I decided not to buy it. The furrier tells me I will have to take the coat or he will keep my money. 1. What can I do to get back the $15? 2. Can he make me take the coat?

H. M.

1. If the seller is ready to carry out his agreement, then it seems probable that you have no legal remedy against him. 2. No, but see 1.

RUSSIANS HIDE MOST FACTS ON WAR FROM U.S.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Russian authorities will not reveal military information to American representatives unless giving such data contributes to the defeat of Germany, Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, chief of the American military mission in Moscow, said at a press conference today. Gen. Deane recently returned to Washington after 10 months in Russia.

Maj. Gen. Deane.

"The Russians are reticent," Gen. Deane said. "They won't give us information for information's sake. For example, they say they haven't time to tell us how many squads they have in a platoon. But they will do anything to help us that will aid in licking Germany."

See Few Factories.

Asked if members of his mission were permitted to visit Russian war factories, Gen. Deane said such visits had to be arranged and that permission wasn't asked unless there was a good reason for an American to see a particular plant. "You ask permission today and maybe you'll go next week," was the way the general summarized the procedure.

Gen. Deane had high praise for the military strategy and tactics responsible for the recent sweep of the Russian armies now threatening the eastern boundaries of the reich, but said that 50 per cent of the transportation equipment supporting the drive was American trucks.

"The Russians rate trucks as the most valuable aid they are receiving from us," Gen. Deane said. "Next in order are planes and food. But they appreciate our trucks so much that Russian babies are being named for popular makes of American automotive equipment."

Prisoners Disheartened.

Gen. Deane said German war prisoners, including two generals, whom he interviewed in Russia, were unanimous in their opinion Germany had lost the war. The generals, he said, emphasized the effect of allied bombing offensives on German morale, as revealed in letters they had received from home.

Establishment of American shuttle bombing bases on Russian soil complicated Russian supply lines and violated Russian customs, Deane said. "But the sacrifice was willingly made because the bases contributed to the war on Hitler," he added.

Much of the equipment for the American air bases in Russia entered Russia thru the Arctic port of Murmansk, Gen. Deane revealed. Russian mechanics worked side by side with American soldiers in establishing the bases, he said.

JUDGE UPBRAIDS COUPON THIEVES AS SABOTEURS

Burglary charges against John Walek, 39, and William Daddano, 31, arrested Sunday in the Halsted Exchange National bank with sacks containing ration coupons worth millions of points, were continued yesterday until Sept. 5 by Judge Francis Borrelli in Felony court. Judge Borrelli set bond for each at $50,000 and upbraided them for attempting to "sabotage the war effort." Federal warrants charging attempted robbery of a national bank also have been issued for Walek and Daddano.

BURGLARS' LOOT TOTALS $290.

Burglars yesterday entered the home of Mrs. Sophie Lisitsa, 2142 Iowa st., and stole a $55 watch, and $235 in cash.

4 NAMED ON GAS COUPON BURNING FRAUD CHARGES

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 9 [Special].—A laundry fireman who salvaged gasoline rationing coupons good for 10,000,000 gallons from a furnace in which they were supposed to have been burned, was named with three other men to whom he said he sold them in federal warrants issued here today. Investigators said the janitor theoretically made more than $200,000.

The janitor is Charles Cline, employed by a St. Joseph, Mo., laundry. In a signed statement, he explained that twice a month, men from the Tootle-Lacy National bank of St. Joseph took bundles of ration stamps to the laundry to be burned in the furnace.

When the officials left, Cline hastily scooped out the coupons and sold them, he said, to Jack Arnold Ross, filling station lessee; Byron Stafford, a driver for the laundry, and Marion Bolder, Kansas City filling station attendant.

Order Theater Owner's Arrest in Fire Law Case

Judge George B. Weiss in License court yesterday issued a warrant for James Bradley-Griffin, owner of a theater at 1219-1225 N. La Salle st., for failure to answer a charge of violating city fire ordinances. Chief John L. Fenn of the fire prevention bureau said the theater has no rear exits, no fire curtain, and no sprinkler system, and scenery is not fireproof.

BERLIN HOTTEST SPOT, SAYS VET OF 107 AIR RAIDS

A flying gunner with 107 missions to his credit, the highest record in the army heavy bomber service, arrived in Chicago yesterday as the guest of the army air force material command, 111 W. Jackson blvd. He is Tech. Sgt. Lewis Coburn, 26, of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Holder of seven decorations, including the flying cross with two oak leaf clusters and the Purple Heart, Sgt. Coburn will visit industrial plants, including one at Freeport today, and will make a radio appearance Sunday.

Tech. Sgt. Lewis Coburn.

Berlin was the "hottest spot" he encountered, Sgt. Coburn told reporters who questioned him about his 72 missions in the Southwest Pacific and 35 over Europe. He enlisted in the air force in 1938, transferred to the infantry—"that's a real fighting army" he said in tribute—and after two years returned to the air force and was sent to the Philippines.

At Mindanao, P. I., shortly after the Japs attacked Manila, Sgt. Coburn and a buddy, Eugene Schmitz of Los Angeles, were slightly wounded by strafing machine gun bullets as they equipped their plane on the ground.

NEW DEAL SEEKS COMPROMISE ON POST-WAR DOLE

Bill Termed 'Invitation to Permanent Emergency.'

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Facing certain defeat of their original bill to regiment millions of post-war jobless persons thru federal unemployment payments, New Deal forces in the senate today hastily offered a series of compromise amendments.

As debate went into the second day of consideration, however, it was reported that most of these conciliatory proposals would be rejected by the combination of Republicans and conservative Democrats which appears to hold a majority of the votes.

Apparently scheduled for adoption, possibly on a vote tomorrow, is the measure sponsored by Sen. George [D., Ga.] which adds 3½ million more workers to the 30 million employes and 11 million in military services now eligible for unemployment compensation, and retains state control over the benefits.

Offer Score of Amendments.

The George bill also has been amended from its original form to follow lines suggested in the Baruch-Hancock post-war policy report, but the essential feature of state control is left untouched.

Senators Kilgore [D., W. Va.] and Murray [D., Mont.] sought to answer some of the arguments advanced against their bill by introducing more than a score of amendments. Notable among these was a provision that no qualified ex-worker should be denied unemployment benefits because of a refusal to "accept transportation, training, or education" under the act.

The Kilgore-Murray bill had gained the label "national service for the unemployed" under original provisions which would have permitted a federal work administration to move the jobless, their families, and household goods about the nation at will, denying benefits to those who protested this enforced migration.

Vandenberg Raps Bill.

Other amendents eliminated large sections of the bill and substituted milder provisions, but the substitution of federal payments ranging as high as $35 a week in place of state controled payments now averaging between $15 and $22 a week, remained in the measure.

Senators Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Revercomb [R., W. Va.] dominated the debate with Senators Pepper [D., Fla.] and Murray attempting to answer for the administration.

The theory of the Kilgore-Murray bill, Vandenberg said, was that "the citizen is the ward of the state," and he continued:

"It invites a permanent emergency. The maximum payments provided are twice as great as any ever known in war or peace and would afford a basic wrench to our economy. It is an attempt to ambush the state systems to their doom and is the beginning of permanent federalized unemployment insurance.

Makes Loafing Profitable.

"The bill makes it more profitable for millions of persons to loaf than to labor when they can get as much for sitting on a front porch as at a work bench. We are not a nation of malingerers but we are notorious bargain hunters. How long will the worker remain at his bench when he sees his neighbor get practically as much for going fishing?"

Revercomb said the original administration bill not only permitted ordering jobless from place to place but probably permitted the administration to issue a rule requiring them to belong to "a certain organization."

He expressed the belief that the idea for "this strange and unusual setup" came from the allied nations food conference of 1943 which recommended enforced migration within nations and across international boundary lines to meet agricultural needs.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

BY GAIL COMPTON.
Aug. 9, 1944.

THE combine, tractors, and hay baler have been breaking down so often the last week the men are beginning to wonder if they would be better off using horses. When a piece of farm equipment breaks down these days the men can figure on losing from a half to a full day because parts and mechanics are so scarce.

Horses seldom collapse or need repairing, and altho they are slow, they usually can be counted on for a full day's work. When the men started to total up the number of man hours lost because of machinery failures, they almost were convinced horses would have done a better job.

What Breakdowns Did.

The combine was out of action for half a day. This meant the men lost the chance to harvest around 10 acres of oats. The baler was out for a day and a half during which time around 1,000 bales could have been packaged. The tractors were stopped for half a day during which time they might have mowed six acres of hay, plowed six acres, cultivated 20 acres of corn, or done many other jobs.

Horses certainly would have been cheaper to use. It costs approximately 10 cents an hour to run a horse, while a tractor cost about 80 cents an hour. Of course, one man with a tractor can do considerably more work than one man with a team of horses.

Tractor Has the Advantage.

A two horse team, for example, can plant about 14 acres of corn a day. With a tractor, the man could plant 24 acres in a day with a two row planter. A team of six horses pulling a nine foot field cultivator can handle 19 acres a day, while a tractor will cover 31 acres.

The time it takes in the morning to feed, water, and harness a team of horses is about equal to the time needed to gas, oil, and grease a tractor. Outside of this equality in time, the tractor has a great advantage over a team of horses.

Men Hanker for Fishing.

Altho the men rant and rave when the belt lacing on the baler breaks one minute, and the shuttle cable snaps the next, they still would pick tractor powered farming.

The oats are all harvested and the straw has been baled. Now, before the second cutting of hay begins, the men are hankering to steal a day off and do a little fishing. They have been working 12 and 14 hours a day for more weeks than they like to remember. They have done a good job.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have or plan to make August plantings in rows which have produced a 1944 crop will be wise to use commercial fertilizer to insure maturity of the late crops. This is necessary, not only to replace plant nutrients consumed by earlier crops, but also to help the late plantings mature in the shortest possible time and thus escape early frosts.

It is not advisable to plant seeds just after commercial fertilizer has been applied to the ground, because the chemicals may have a toxic effect on the seeds. At least two days should elapse between time of fertilizing and seeding.

If late plantings already have germinated, the fertilizer should be applied in a two-inch trench alongside the seedlings. After the fertilizer is placed in the side trench, it should be thoroly moistened and covered with topsoil.

SCARED OF ARMY, FINDS TOO LATE A CELL IS WORSE

Frank E. Stack's willingness to join the army came too late yesterday to save him from a year and a day sentence in prison on a charge of failure to register for the draft.

Stack, who is 33 and resides at 3938 S. Talman av., told Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw that he was "scared" to register before, but was willing to enter the service now. After spending three weeks in jail awaiting trial, he prefers the army to further incarceration, he said.

"You might be willing," the court retorted, "but I doubt if the army would be willing to accept you."

Assistant United States Atty. George D. Kelly told the court that when Stack was arrested by the federal bureau of investigation he told them he had a 4-F classification but had lost his card.

The court also sentenced John Impalea, 40, of 617 Madison st., a native Brazilian, to a like term for failure to register. Impalea explained that he was 37 at registration time and also was afflicted with a physical disability that he believed would bar him from serving.

F. D. R. REJECTS LETTER OPENER MADE FROM JAP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The White House said today some well wisher had sent President Roosevelt a letter opener which was claimed to have been carved from the bone of a Japanese soldier.

Mr. Roosevelt, the White House said, ordered that it be returned to the sender with the explanation that he did not wish to have such an object in his possession and with the suggestion that it be given burial.

The information was made available here after the Vatican news service in Rome said recent publication of a story about the letter opener had resulted in a request from the Catholic archbishop of Tokyo for "respect for the laws of humanity even in total war."

10 LITTLE OCTANE NUMBERS that will help end the war sooner!

TODAY'S SUPER-FUEL is 100-Octane, as compared with 90-Octane pre-war.

This difference of 10 octane numbers is definitely contributing toward hastening the day of victory, because these extra octane numbers represent extra fighting power . . . extra range and carrying capacity for our big bombers . . . extra speed for our fighter planes!

In thirty months, U. S. production of 100-Octane Aviation Gasoline has been multiplied ten times. Our facilities for producing this precious, fighting, super-fuel can now deliver 21,000,000 gallons daily. Think of it! This is a greater quantity of aviation gasoline alone than the combined total of all petroleum products available to Axis Europe.

Phillips Petroleum Company, among the first to take 100-Octane gasoline out of the laboratory and into mass production, is now one of the nation's five largest producers of 100-Octane, despite the fact that Phillips operates only in the Middle West.

This production achievement suggests how competently and completely Phillips is devoting itself to the war effort, with similar special emphasis on butadiene for synthetic rubber.

Until that great day comes, when you can say "Fill 'er up with Phillips"... and the service man cranks into your tank a new and improved Phillips gasoline . . . remember that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasoline, lubricants, and fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, 14 ★★★★★ Thurs., Aug. 10, 1944.

SENATOR BARES 'COINCIDENCE' IN U.S. HOTEL DEAL

Army Got It in Slump and Quit as Boom Came.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 [Special].—The army failed to consult as it was supposed to the federal board of hospitalization before it leased and converted the luxurious Breakers hotel at Palm Beach, Fla., into a general hospital which is now proposes to turn back to its owners, Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] disclosed today.

Brewster is on the special senate committee to investigate national defense [formerly the Truman committee] which is now probing the army's seemingly inconsistent program of requisitioning some of the country's largest hotels for rest centers and hospitals while abandoning other similar properties used for the same purpose.

The senator emphasized the "interesting coincidence" which saw the "acquisition of the Breakers hotel at the beginning of the real estate and tourist depression in 1942 and its equally precipitious release now that the tourist movement is on again."

"Invites Speculation."

"I don't mean to imply anything too irregular," he said, "but the army's taking on this property when the Bradley gambling interest had no use for it, and turning it back suddenly when tourist trade is beginning to boom again, certainly invites speculation."

[Col. E. R. Bradley, the millionaire sportsman, is the owner of a gambling casino at Palm Beach.]

Brewster was critical of the army's failure to consult the federal bureau of hospitalization which was established 20 years ago to coordinate all government owned hospitals to avoid duplication of facilities and expenditures.

"It was established [the FBH] during the Harding administration to avoid just the thing the army seems to have done in the Breakers hotel incident," Brewster said. "Yet, altho the agreement for coördination by the FBH was reasserted just a year ago, this agency did not know the army had converted the Breakers into a hospital at a cost of about $300,000. It will cost another $300,000 to reconvert, besides other expenses," he added.

Fail to Take Golf Course.

The army acquired the property in 1942 but took over only the hotel building, leaving the 400 acre golf course to the owners. Brewster said the veterans bureau, charged with establishing permanent hospitals, needed in addition to buildings 400 acres of ground around them for veterans to exercise.

"But at the Breakers [now the Ream general hospital] the men can't move an inch over the line bordering the golf course without being guilty of trespassing—and there have been protests when they have done so," Brewster said. "They are not welcome on this 'sacred soil' which belongs to Col. Bradley."

TRIBUNE STORY BRINGS SOLDIER CHILD CARE AID

The telephone in the home of Corp. and Mrs. George B. Hungerford, 3518 Pine Grove av., rang constantly yesterday as Chicagoans responded to the soldier's appeal, carried in yesterday's editions of THE TRIBUNE, for a woman to aid his wife in the care of their son, Danny, 2.

The corporal said last night he had hired a woman after interviewing a number of applicants.

Mrs. Hungerford, injured July 3 in a train wreck, must wear a body cast which makes it impossible for her to lift or care for the child.

With no relatives to aid him, the soldier spent 12 days of his emergency furlough in a futile attempt to locate help thru service groups and employment agencies. Yesterday, as a result of The Tribune story, he received more than 40 telephone calls.

W. R. SKIDMORE ESTATE'S VALUE IS PUT AT $350,000

The estate of William R. Skidmore, Chicago gambling and political figure who died Feb. 18 in the federal penitentiary in Terre Haute, Ind., was estimated at $350,000 in the inventory filed yesterday with Frank Lyman, probate clerk, and approved by Probate Judge John F. McConnell.

The widow, Ethel, who lives at the Drake hotel, was given a widow's award of $25,000. The inventory listed 24 parcels of real estate, including six farms, 1,441 acres in McHenry county, and the Portage Bank building, 4717 Irving Park rd.

SWIMS TO DEATH IN LAKE AFTER JEST WITH CHILD

"Want to see me swim way out?" a man tentatively identified as Elmer E. Burton, 42, of 115 N. 6th st., St. Louis, Mo., asked a small boy playing on the lake shore near Adler planetarium last night.

Then he placed on a rock social security and draft cards bearing Burton's name and jumped into the lake. When he failed to reappear, the boy called the park district police.

Coast Guardsmen recovered Burton's body two hours later. They found some small change in his pockets.

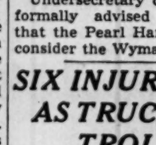
EXPAND INQUIRY OF PEARLHARBOR TO ARMY DEALS

Board Scans Wyman's Hawaii Contracts.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 [Special].—The army Pearl Harbor inquiry, it was announced today, has been expanded to include contract award methods of Col. Theodore Wyman Jr., under fire of the house military affairs committee for his associations with a German born contractor charged with contributing to the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster by failing to complete on time an aircraft warning system.



Col. Wyman.

Preliminary to Court Martial.

Announcement of extension of the inquiry beyond the scope of actual "on the scene" responsibility for the catastrophe, indicated that the three man special board was ready to delve into every army aspect of the disaster, including the question of whether proper warnings of the international situation were dispatched from Washington.

The special board, headed by Lt. Gen. George Grunert, is making preliminary inquiries necessary before court martial proceedings. Its recommendations will decide the fate of Maj. Gen. Walter S. Short, commanding in Hawaii at the time. A similar navy board, also under a mandate from congress, is investigating navy responsibility, especially that of Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel.

Received Several Contracts.

Col. Wyman, now overseas, was criticized by house investigators, including Rep. May [D., Ky.] for social associations with Hans Wilhelm Rohl, German born construction contractor. Wyman's friendship with Rohl developed in 1939-'41, while Wyman was army district engineer at Los Angeles and later in Hawaii.

A Rohl controled company received various defense construction awards from Wyman.

Undersecretary of War Patterson formally advised congress today that the Pearl Harbor board would consider the Wyman case.

ILLINOIS FARMS DETASSEL 87,000 ACRES OF CORN

Volunteers from the city to help farmers detassel their hybrid seed corn were so numerous many areas in Illinois and Iowa had a surplus of labor, according to reports from agricultural colleges of the two states. In Illinois, farmers were able to handle 87,000 acres of seed corn with little delay or trouble.

Indiana reported a good supply of town help for its 23,000 acres A large percentage of the volunteer help were boys and girls who used their vacation time to help the farmers. Many white collar workers also spent their vacations on farms detasseling, the reports declare.

AIR COMPANIES PROTEST CITY'S SPENDING PLANS

Air lines that have offered to lend the city $1,200,000 for construction of a terminal building at Chicago Airport are not satisfied with the Chicago Plan commission's proposal to spend $534,000 for the building and $416,000 for accessory paving, landscaping, and incidental improvements, the lines' technical committee informed Public Works Commissioner Hewitt yesterday.

A. F. Heino of United Air Lines, the chairman, said that when the committee made its offer two years ago the air lines contemplated that the works projects administration would bear the cost of constructing aprons, roadways, parking lots and landscaping. If total cost is limited to the $1,200,000 loan, the terminal will be inadequate, the committee reported.

Commissioner Hewitt said the city's reply probably would await Mayor Kelly's return from his vacation.

Temperatures of 95 to 100 Are Forecast for Today

It's going to be hot again in Chicago today, H. A. Jacobson, government forecaster, said last night. The all-time high for the city of 104.8 degrees was set on July 24, 1934.

MYSTERY OF 1907 RISES TO HAUNT ALIEN IN COURT

Echoes of a mysterious slaying 37 years ago on a lonely farm near West Hurley, N. Y., were heard yesterday in the federal court of Judge Elwyn R. Shaw, where Frank Gurtler, 76, of 1116 Addison st., a machinist, once accused of the murder, sought to obtain American citizenship.

Gurtler stood in silence, his hands clenched, while Immigration Inspector Patrick J. Dillon recalled to the court details of the slaying.

The victim was Mrs. Barbara Klamert, who had been engaged as housekeeper by Gurtler upon the farm he purchased in 1907, five years after he came to the United States from Austria.

Gurtler, Dillion recounted, was accused of the slaying, but was adjudged insane. A year later, in 1908, he was released as recovered. In 1914 he came to Chicago.

He admitted his wife and children are still in Austria and Judge Shaw said:

"If you have lived here 42 years without becoming a citizen, you can continue in that status."

3 DIE, 9 HURT AS BUS CRASHES BRIDGE; BURNS

Wrens, Ga., Aug. 9 (AP).—A heavily loaded Southern Stages bus blew out a tire, crashed into a bridge rail and burned near here late today, killing at least three persons and injuring nine others including the driver.

Wrens' Police Chief C. W. Brown said the charred body of a white man was removed from the wreckage and that evidence was found inside the burned vehicle showing two others perished in the flames.

Brown said the bus, en route from Macon to Augusta, made frequent stops and an accurate check on the number aboard at the time of the accident was not possible immediately.

Dr. W. H. Rowan, Wrens druggist who visited the scene, said witnesses told him there were some 20 persons aboard but several escaped without injury. Two white persons and one Negro were taken to an Augusta hospital for treatment of burns.

LT. BOOTH, 32 YEARS ON POLICE FORCE, TO RETIRE ON SATURDAY

Lt. Albert Booth, 58, of the Stanton av. police station will retire Saturday after 32 years' service. He received creditable mention 20 times and extra compensation six times for brilliant police work. Lt. Booth received The Tribune's $100 hero award for July, 1926, for advancing under fire in a dark areaway to kill a Negro desperado who had slain a Chicago policeman.

Among Lt. Booth's other exploits was the arrest of the Spotlight gang, five young men who for months terrorized Chicago motorists during robberies at outlying traffic signals. He also arrested John Sovetsky, west side fence, whose loot totaled more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Late this month Lt. Booth, his wife, Elizabeth, and daughter, Betty, 18, will leave their home, 8233 Eberhart av., for Arizona. The Booths have two other daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Kappes and Mrs. Helen Mooney, and two sons, Willard, a seaman 1st class on a minesweeper, and Marvin, also a seaman 1st class, stationed in San Francisco.

Also retiring Saturday are Sgt. Robert A. Wells, 63, of the North Damen av. station, and Patrick J. Hart, lockup keeper at the Warren av. station. Each has a record of 38 years with the department and each has received creditable mentions.

1,192 DROPPED FROM RELIEF ROLLS IN JULY

The Chicago relief roll was reduced 1,192 persons, to a total of 30,865 in July, the first month of the ninth year of the Chicago office. It was the 47th consecutive month in which a reduction was shown, so that for approximately half the time the office has been operating, the roll has been declining.

The Chicago relief administration, later known as the Chicago welfare administration, took charge of local relief in July, 1936, when the city had 75,720 cases with an average of three persons for each case, George J. Klupar, administrator, said yesterday.

The 1,192 persons removed this July was twice the number removed in June. Approximately half those dropped in July were in families which had been receiving funds from the Chicago relief office to supplement state aid to dependent children grants. This was because many of the children went into summer jobs, Klupar said. The relief office obtained jobs for 355 persons in July and 71 per cent were under 21 years old, he added.

Lake Geneva's Events Assure Gay Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., will be gay this week-end with a repetition of last year's successful fathers and daughters' sailing regatta at the Lake Geneva Yacht club Sunday and one of the few dinner-dances of the season Saturday at the Big Foot Country club. The fathers, uncles, and other male relatives who usually make a critical gallery for the feminine sailing races will be put on the spot Sunday when the men act as skippers with daughters or nieces serving as crew.

In case of heavy weather another daughter, or even a borrowed daughter, will be added as a second crew member. Among the contestants will be one husband and wife combination, Edward A. Wheeler and Mrs. Wheeler, the former Barbara Wakeley, who is fleet captain of the club. Among the father-daughter combinations competing will be William C. Grunow and Valerie, Col. Lawrence H. Whiting and Barbara, C. Wallace Johnson and Angeline or Joan, Philip K. Wrigley and DeeDee, Dr. Horace R. Lyons and Jane, and George P. Rinn and Joyce.

The Big Foot's annual Feast of the Seven Sacred Pools, its largest "pow-wow" of the summer, will be held Aug. 19. Lake Geneva Garden club members are looking forward to a garden tea next Wednesday at Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank's home, the Butternuts, with Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest as guest speaker. Mrs. S. Austin Pope will entertain the club's officers at luncheon at the Lake Geneva Country club before the meeting.

Lt. and Mrs. Clayton R. Gaylord are arriving from Columbia, S. C., today to spend a few days in Lake Geneva with her mother, Mrs. A. Frederick Gartz Jr. Frederick Crane Gartz, who will receive his degree in engineering at the University of Chicago Aug. 18, and his wife then will have a short holiday in Lake Geneva with Mrs. Gartz and with young Mrs. Gartz' mother, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien.

Members of the Lake Geneva Fresh Air association are congratulating themselves on their recent rummage sale for the benefit of Holiday home. By 3 p. m. the crowd of 800 bargain hunters had swept Horticultural hall clean of every garment, dish, book, or cooky, with $2,300 net profit.

"Guest in the House" will be presented by the Belfry Players starting tonight and continuing thru Aug. 20 at the Players' theater in Williams Bay, on the shore of Lake Geneva.

Service Notes.

A week's leave from his post at army air forces headquarters in Washington, D. C., is giving Lt. Col. Arthur MacDougal Wood a chance for a reunion with his parents, the R. Arthur Woods of Highland Park, and his many Chicago friends. Col. Wood, one of the north shore's popular bachelors, will return Sunday to Washington, where he shares a house in Georgetown with a group of officers. One of them, Lt. Robert Hogue of the naval reserve, came home to Highland Park last week on a brief leave. Another of the tenants, Lt. Gordon Palmer of the naval reserve, has been spending his leave with his mother, Mrs. Potter Palmer, and sister, Pauline, in Bar Harbor, Me. Miss Palmer also has been working in Washington.

Col. Wood's brother, Maj. Robert Macpherson Wood, is abroad flying a twin-engine bomber, having recently returned from China to his post in India. His wife and 5 months old daughter, Peggy, are with her parents, the Samuel Marshall Beatties, at their summer home in the South Carolina mountains. The Woodses will go south this winter to see their daughter-in-law and granddaughter, but meanwhile they are hoping for a visit from them in Highland Park shortly after Labor day.

Lt. George W. Merck Jr., who received a citation from Adm. Halsey for action last August, has received a second citation, signed by Adm. Nimitz, "for courageous conduct" in the South Pacific last November. Lt. Merck and his wife, the former Betty Meade, learned of the second

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Shorthand at Sea.

A letter describing the struggle of a mere man learning stenography was received by Doris La March Gihon from her husband, John, former Chicago newspaper man who enlisted immediately after Pearl Harbor and is now in the Pacific. He wrote:

"When I woke up this morning, presto! I was a chief yeoman.

"It wasn't quite that magical, however, as for the last month I've been working like a dog. The shorthand requirement of 80 words per minute was my principal drawback. At first I thought I couldn't master it, but then I began thinking of all the youngsters I have met who were expert stenographers, so I decided I could be. I popped out of my bunk at 5:30 a. m. on the first day of last month and grabbed a pencil and notebook, devoting five or six hours a day to the silly stuff—and have been doing that ever since.

"I was handicapped by lack of dictation practice, but my inventive genius solved this in a jiffy. I would go out on deck and shout across the bay, notebook and pencil in hand. A few seconds later back would come the echo, which I would diligently transcribe. I got along famously, except that there was some objection to my shouting such tripe as: 'You will need a keen memory when you go to the market today,' or other gems from the text book, at 5:30 in the morning. Anyway, I passed my examinations."

Office Discourse.

Beware of the girls who aren't in love,
You never know what they're thinking of.

Beware of the girls who are engaged;
You smile at them—they grow enraged.

Beware of the girls in love with themselves;
They wind up, methinks, on spinsters' shelves.

Beware of the girls who do not care—
Perhaps 'tis best to just BEWARE!
RICK MORAN.

Note to the Real Word Expert.

While you're about it, you might tell the Real Word Expert the word "few" is also a word with two meanings: "Not many" and—used colloquially, "quite a few" meaning "quite a number." The latter expression is better English, but Webster gives "quite a few" and certainly it is endorsed by common usage. VRS.

Opportunity.

Women mold the minds of children; they set the standards for domestic life; they influence fathers, husbands, brothers, employers, and friends. Pioneer women give us a heritage such as the women of no other nation can claim. No properly qualified woman can complain of lack of opportunity today." —Jane E. Goode in The Woman C. P. A.

There's Beauty in Fur Coats of Medium Price

BY REA SEEGER.

Smart fur coats designed for petite silhouettes—usually sizes 9 to 15—have comparatively moderate price marks. This is accomplished with medium priced pelts which include such inexpensive furs as mouton lamb and South American Andean lamb skins. Both are special fashions for the winter wardrobes of college girls, high school girls, and budding career girls—all shoppers who count pennies yet appreciate furs as much as women with unlimited clothes allowances.

These coats are knockout. Many are short and swagger, to swing at knee line length over dresses, skirts, or suit costumes. Many are long, showing only the hem line of dress or suit skirt. Details are as distinctive as in the costlier models, so the finished products are sleek, streamlined beauties. Sleeves and shoulder lines are cut and fitted, almost moulded into lines of smooth perfection, and collars are shallow and snug so as not to look bulky on short women, a fashion trick greatly appreciated by pint size shoppers.

Even with the luxury tax and other war time taxes on furs, the mouton lamb coats are unquestionably the best buys in the shop. The dye jobs are flawless, the good looking fawn affair, for example, being a slick shade of beaver brown. The light color, called "butter cream," also of mouton lamb, is surprisingly like the honey beige of luxury lynx. As another choice, but costing more money, are the stunning gray coats of Andean lamb, which are the same effective steel and light gray blended shade as expensive Persian lamb.

Contest Picks Ten Adelines on North Side

Ten pretty girls, all war plant workers, all with the first name Adeline, were chosen by patrons of the Aragon ballroom, Lawrence av. and Broadway, last night as potential queens of the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field Aug. 19.

Only one queen will be selected ultimately, and she will be picked from a field of 20 candidates, including last night's 10, who came from the north, northwest, and west sides, and 10 others, from the south side, who were picked at the Trianon ballroom Tuesday night.

The winner will be known as Chicago's sweetest "Sweet Adeline," and the title will be appropriate because whoever the winner, her real first name will be Adeline. The 10 selected Tuesday night were so named, as were last night's 10.

"Sweet Adeline" was entirely the mode and theme at last night's Aragon competition. In the presence of 2,000 dancers the Adelines marched one by one upon the stage, to the accompaniment of the famous air, played by Eddy Howard and his orchestra. Each girl carried a large number.

The girls were introduced by Philip Maxwell. Then ballots were distributed among the Aragon guests, who voted their choices by number. Selection was based on popularity rather than the customary charm or beauty. The winners, on the basis of the vote tabulation supervised by Nelson J. Goodsell, accountant, were:

Miss Adeline Borta, 21, of 2606 Iowa st.; Miss Adeline Blaski, 25, of 1644 N. Mozart st.; Mrs. Adeline Collopy, 26, of 1400 Monroe st.; Miss Adeline Dullins, 19, of 1223 Darrow av., Evanston; Miss Adeline S. Krochmal, 22, of 2639 S. Kildare av.; Miss Adeline Kornfeind, 19, of 2834 Edgington av., Franklin Park; Miss Adeline V. Kusek, 18, of 2631 S. Kildare av.; Miss Adeline Pacelli, 23, of 525 N. Marshfield av.; Miss Adeline Rosz, 22, of 1846 S. Ashland av., and Miss Adeline Testa, 25, of 1033 S. 23d av., Bellwood.

The 20 winning Aragon and Trianon contestants will appear at the Chicago Theater of the Air concert in Grant Park Saturday night, at which the field will be reduced to 10. The "sweetest Adeline" will be selected from these 10 at the pre-festival luncheon in the Morrison hotel Aug. 18. The winner will be crowned at the festival next night by Harry Armstrong, composer of the famous song, "Sweet Adeline."

With the festival nine days off, more than half of the reserved seats in Soldiers' field have been sold. They are available at the Tribune public service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and in the lobby of Tribune Tower, or may be obtained by mail. Checks or money orders payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., should be sent to festival ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Prices are $1.25 and 80 cents.

Two Way Radio Will Be Used at Music Festival

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

For the first time in entertainment history, a device called a handie-talkie will be used to facilitate communications at the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival, to be held Saturday night, Aug. 19, in Soldiers' field. The instruments are the product of the Galvin Manufacturing corporation and are used by all branches of the military services to provide two-way communications.

Miss Doris Mann of International Friendship Gardens Music festival staff, with handie-talkie,

Henry Mau, chief electrician of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and his son, George, electrician foreman, will handle the handie-talkies at the festival. They will be located on the stage, on three colonnades, one on each speaker tower, and one at the south Gate O. The instruments will be tuned in thruout the evening's performance and any instruction given by either of the Maus will be heard by those holding the handie-talkies.

The instrument consists of a miniature power station supplied with current from dry cells, a radio transmitter, a receiver, and a telescoping aerial, all encased in a lightweight cabinet.

The stage to be used at the north end of the field is the finest ever to accommodate the festival entertainment. Its use was made possible by the Rev. E. J. Kelly, executive director of the Holy Name society which sponsored the Holy Hour in Soldiers' field June 18. Father Kelly left the huge stage for the music festival.

The stage is 30 feet above the field level and is 42 feet deep and 110 feet wide. It will hold the festival orchestra of more than 100 members, with plenty of room left for choruses. The platform will be in solid white. Seventeen festive banners, 20 feet high, will rise at the rear of the stage. Twenty foot wide steps lead to the stage.

The 10 winners of the Cook county vocal contest, held last week in the Drake hotel, will be heard Tuesday noon at the Chicago Rotary club luncheon in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. The invitation came to winners from Chesley Perry, club president, and R. E. P. Kline, chairman of the program committee. Key workers for the festival will be seated at the speakers' table.

Thru the Looking Glass

Yesterday we told you about a hot oil treatment for pre-shampoo use that will help give hair the sheen and texture of satin rather than of straw. Today we want to tell you about a companion piece to this oil, to be used between shampoos, that will keep your hair infinitely more manageable and shiny from day to day.

This is a scalp cream, extremely rich, to be used immediately after your shampoo and later as you need to use it. With all such products you have to work out your own program to some extent, to synchronize the application with your individual needs. We know women who profitably could use this scalp cream every day—the excessive dryness of scalp and hair would justify it. Others might use it only after a shampoo, others a couple of days a week.

It's rather important, if your scalp is chronically taut and inclined to acquire dry scales, to use it after the hair is washed and rinsed well, and before it's dry. Use just a tiny bit [there is a special blue tinted version for women with gray hair] while the hair is still damp, massaging it in directly, and then rotating and lifting the scalp vigorously. Then grab your brush, which should be immaculately clean, and brush your hair. It's important, according to the maker of this cream—and she is a hair specialist of authority—to brush UP. Brush, always upward, with all the vigor and endurance you can muster. If you can get someone else to do this for you, so much the better. Then dry as you always do and set your hair.

If your scalp scales over between shampoos and your hair reflects the dryness use your scalp cream—again sparingly—a couple of nights a week, followed always by a brisk brushing.

This is well worth the trouble it takes. It will leave your hair clean and glossy. ELEANOR NANGLE.

22,000 Hear Miss Bampton and Orchestra

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Conservatism has clamped down on Grant Park's concert counting, once exaggerated with such astronomical gallantry to visiting stars, so when the estimators said about 22,000 people attended the season's lake front début of the Chicago symphony orchestra last night, it probably was only a modest appraisal. At any rate, a lot of people swarmed around the bandshell to hear Fabien Sevitzky's guest conducting and the return of Rose Bampton, whose earlier appearance had been rained out at intermission.

Miss Bampton came back in creamy voice and gown to match, her flowing cape inviting the breeze, her voice pouring lambently into the microphone as she sang Massenet's gentle aria, "Il est doux, il est bon," and added for an encore the gleaming "Bel raggio" from Rossini's "Semiramide." For an ex-mezzo, this last was superior vocalizing, and Miss Bampton probably started working on the aria to add lightness and brilliance to her singing, tucking it into her reportory when she discovered how chormingly it fits her voice. Mr. Sevitzky gave her sympathetic accompaniment, and she returned later for a group of songs with Robert Macdonald's piano accompaniment, the best of which were Hageman's "Do Not Go, My Love," and a particularly charming Spanish encore that seemed made for singing on a summer night.

Some of these days, I hope Grant park's acoustics are perfected to the point of doing the Chicago Symphony orchestra justice. Nowadays the inadequacies of amplification too often turn it into a kind of symphonic wandering minstrel, its vaunted tone a thing of shreds and patches. This was sadly true of Brahms' First Symphony, a risky outdoor performer at best, with which Mr. Sevitzky chose to open his concert. I couldn't really tell you how good it was, because I heard it so spottily. This Russian nephew of Koussevitzky, who also plays the double bass, as you may have suspected by the way he holds his left hand, suffers a bit from curvature of the baton. The best I could hear the Brahms it had some beautiful playing, but until the end it was all soft, voluptuous curves, without the dynamics of drama. Harl McDonald's "Two Aramaic Poems," which sustained the Sevitzky reputation for featuring American music, also emerged as more intent on tone color than structural backbone. But I don't trust my own ears with orchestras at Grant park. What the performance was and what you hear in the front row aren't necessarily the same thing at all.

Sally Asks Aid for a Family of 6, Fire Victims

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

We feel sure our readers will be interested in contributing furniture to a family which recently was burned out. The father is in service, and there are five children in the family, including a tiny baby. The fire occurred four days after the mother returned home from the hospital following the birth of the last child. All their possessions, including furniture and clothing, were destroyed. The family now has a temporary home with relatives.

A remodeled garage is now being prepared as a home for them, but a gas stove, ice box, dressers, dishes, linen, bedding, and all other items of furniture, including rugs and curtains, are needed. Beds have been supplied already.

Clothing for the children is also needed. The boys wear sizes 14, 12, and six, and shoes size 5 and 12. The girl wears size 7 and shoes size 1. The mother also requires dresses, size 10 or 12, and shoes 3½ or 4.

Their future home is located in a small town just southwest of Chicago. Offers from that general vicinity can be called for at the least expense.

Methodist Worker to Be Missions School Speaker

The Geneva School of Missions, which last Sunday opened a week's leadership training school at Conference Point, Williams Bay, Wis., will have as principal speaker at tonight's general session Mrs. Merle English, chairman of Christian social relations and local church activities in the Rock River conference of the Methodist church. She will have for her topic "Christian Social Relations."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 9.—"A Bell for Adano" is finally out of the clutches of the war department and Norman Reilly Raine is putting it into screen form. Henry King will direct, and Darryl Zanuck is still wooing Gary Cooper. . . . Columbia bought an original by Laura Hobson titled "Threesome." She's at the studio now, putting it into film form. Story deals with an unusual triangle, and will star three top rankers. Gosh! I didn't know there was an unusual triangle left. . . . I hear Columbia is bidding on "One Touch of Venus" for Rita Hayworth—in technicolor. Is that bad? . . . The greatest story in show business is Irving Berlin's. From "This Is the Army" the army emergency relief has already taken nearly $10,000,000. Irving has devoted two and a quarter years to it, and aims to go on to the South Pacific, so the boys over there can see it. . . . Joyce Reynolds is begging her boss, Jack Warner, for just a little part in "San Antonio" so she can go back to her home town for shooting of the picture. . . . Charles Coburn is so important [he is, too] that Twentieth Century is holding up "Czarina" until he's finished his stint with Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer in "A Woman's Privilege."

They Can't See the Light.

With television already perfected in some parts of the country and ready to go when the time is ripe, our picture producers' attitude about radio is still infantile. Instead of combining with this great medium, they take the attitude that if they do nothing about it, it will go away. Well, that's the way I feel about M.-G.-M.'s radio show, but it doesn't go away. Each time I have to jump up and turn off the knob. Now there is a company with the greatest stars, writers, stories. It should have an hour's show weekly, so good listeners will look forward to it. Instead it has one so bad that brass hats themselves won't discuss it. . . . When I hear Bing Crosby is overlooking his allergy to high altitude on this trip to the South Pacific, I can say it isn't true. He's making the trip by boat, jeep, or any other vehicle that stays on the ground, just as Jimmy Cagney did when he went to England last year.

Short Shorts About Our Town.

Sight of the town: Preston Sturges having his fortune told by the light of the moon at Orson Welles' swimming lake. . . . Giggle department: The famous star who invited a visiting player to come and dip his body in her pool, but told him to be sure and shower off before he came. . . . Have you noticed how much Vera Vague sounds like Mary Boland? . . . When 12 year old Donald Smetzer heard Warners had bought "Voice of the Turtle" he took his pet turtle to the studio and asked how much they'd pay him for it. . . . Kay Kyser is taking his bride, Georgia Carroll, to meet the home folks at Rocky Mount, N. C. . . . George Pembroke, the Judas in the Pilgrimage play, is wanted for a Broadway show this fall. . . . I never did think Mrs. John Wayne would divorce her husband. She's not the divorcing kind.

Rearin' to Go—That's Beatrice.

Beatrice Kay said if she ever got a Hollywood contract, she'd buy out New York shops and trail with her the best wardrobe ever seen here. Well, she must have something besides bodies in those seven trunks she brought out to go with "The Diamond Horseshoe."...It's Ramsay Ames and Artie Shaw at the gay places. . . . A fan letter asks about Mary Brian. She's in Italy with Jack Haley. They stopped 15 times in 40 miles to give soldier shows, and they met up with Lt. Comdr. Doug Fairbanks and Lt. John Howard. . . . Ray Bourbon is looking for a Manhattan site in which to open a duplicate of his Hollywood hangout.

'Miss Lieutenant' . . . . . By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Ines Eliot.)

INSTALMENT X.

UNEXPECTED GREETING.

The garden at the back of the castle was deserted and had a neglected air. Tall weeds grew where a crew of conscientious Italian gardeners had once wrung surprising richness from the stubborn and barren Riviera soil.

"So now what?" Bright asked, close to her ear.

"So now you help me down."

Carol felt there was no time in which to be frightened. Her only need was to satisfy that need for haste. Bright's strong, well-trained body took the jump easily and she followed into his uplifted arms. As she had hoped, the door of the toolshed was ajar.

"You get into that fox-hole," she said. "If anybody but me shows up, play dumb like a gardener. I'm going to look around. If Lita is alone, I'll be right back for you. If I'm not right back . . . ?" He nodded and stepped into the little building.

The grounds at Le Bastion were far larger than the castle's outward appearance indicated, and everywhere there were the same signs of neglect.

Even the animals, her sister's pets, were missing. She crossed the garage courtyard. Then opening the door which led out from it, she emerged into the sweeping gardens and the graveled driveway which lay before the main entrance. A big limousine was parked on a curve and in it a chauffeur, hatless and with tousled hair, slept soundly.

Then suddenly, as Carol approached the door, the quiet was broken by the rippling silver of the Liebestraum, played by a skilled pianist. Her heart gave a great bound. Lita! It must be Lita! This was the love song which she had played for Jacques a thousand times since their marriage. It was a sort of constantly renewed statement of their happiness. If Lita were playing the Liebestraum, things could not be so very wrong. That glimpse of Jacques in the car—there must be some simple explanation for that. In another moment she would know. And yet somehow the music did not sound like Lita. There was some quality of tenderness missing.

With a sudden loss of confidence she crossed the driveway and ran up the shallow steps to the heavy door. It yielded to her touch. Inside, the flagged entry was cool and dark, its musty damp odor familiar and friendly. The music was louder now, clear and beautiful, swelling into its magnificent crescendo. Carol waited until the notes of the last phrase died away and then flung open the drawing room door. Lita was nowhere in sight, and the room was occupied by German officers.

The man at the piano was facing her, and at her appearance he arose, his strong, thick hands still resting lightly on the keys. At first glance she knew that his face was familiar to her and then with a shock she realized that this was because a thousand photographs and cartoons had made it so. The smooth Nordic features, the narrow-lipped mouth were not in themselves remarkable, but his actor-like manner said plainly that this was Marshal Karl Herman Janner, high-ranking nazi, the butcher-minded swine who had treated Paris to such brutalities in the first days of the occupation that he still remained one of the best-hated of the conquerors. Now he was here, probably to mete out the same sort of treatment to the hapless people of the newly-taken-over-Riviera.

He was smiling at her with a certain repellent charm and his eyes were bold and intimate. He bowed slightly from the waist.

"We have missed you, Mme. Cassard!" he said, and the tone was that which covered an understanding to which the others present were not a party. Carol could scarcely credit her senses. A younger officer who had been lounging in a big chair put down the bottle from which he had been in the act of pouring himself a drink and got to his feet a trifle unsteadily. He came toward her and kissed her hand, looking at her hungrily.

"Schoene frau!" he said. "You are as ever lovely." Coming slowly into the room she looked about in a daze. The room was just as it always had been — full of flowers and books and the ordered disarray of comfortable living. It was obvious from their dress and from their attitude that Janner and the two older men who might be his aides were quartered here. They had the air and the attitude of welcome guests. Her quick eye noted the major's cap which lay on the floor beside the drinker's chair. Evidently a visitor but to judge from his greeting of her, a familiar one. Janner followed her glance.

"Our little Fritz has invited himself to dine again," he said smiling. "I hope your good Victorine will not object!"

So Mme. Victorine was there! Thank God for that! These men obviously took her for Lita, but a Lita with whom these strangers were far more recently familiar than her own twin was. What attitude did Lita take toward them? How did Lita address them? Had Lita possibly developed any little trick of speech which would make Carol's lack of it betray her? Most important of all, where had Lita been, how long had she been gone—an hour, a day, a week? Was she upstairs at this very moment and about to make a possibly disastrous appearance? If so, some way must be found to get word to her of Carol's arrival, something planned to explain it.

"You are all most gracious," she said quietly. "And Victorine is resourceful. Fritz is welcome."

"So, it's Fritz at last!" he said happily. "We will drink to that in some of your excellent Moselle, sweet hostess!"

It was sickening. Evidently she had just barely managed her cue. She had thought it impossible for Lita to have joined Jacques in his attitude of collaboration. Yet the evidence certainly pointed that way. Every moment she remained in that room was fraught with increasing danger. She would have to chance walking out of one door and having an unsuspecting Lita walk in at the other. In her present complete ignorance of the situation Carol was helpless. With a tremendous effort she managed a little smile.

"And now, gentlemen, you must excuse me. I will see you later."

As she left the room, walking swiftly, she saw that the men exchanged glances. Had she overdone it, perhaps? Had she been untowardly cordial, or not cordial enough? She made her way as quickly as possible down the narrow passage and into the wide kitchen with its quaint open hearth and its splendid American electric fixtures.

Mme. Victorine was there alone.

Child Should Learn to Use Money Wisely

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"We don't worry about Joey and his money," said a mother the other day. "He puts every cent he gets directly into his piggy bank. I buy him the various things he fancies.

"But Dick likes to spend. He'll put money in his bank, but he doesn't leave it there. He hasn't any idea how to save. Money runs thru his fingers. He doesn't always tell me when he uses his money, either, and that worries me. . . . "

Dick, I happen to know, is 8 years old and Joey not yet 6. This mother spoke as if young Dick was almost taking and spending something that didn't belong to him.

What would I do? I would give the boy a small allowance to spend. I would let him learn thru experience how to spend it. I'd provide plenty of sweets at home so his money wouldn't always go for candy, and occasionally I would make a suggestion. But on the whole, I'd let him feel that it was his money to manage as he wished. There's a good feeling, as we all know, about having your own money to spend.

Perhaps Dick will waste it, at first, in buying something that will only hold his interest for a while. Sometimes he'll purchase a gadget so flimsy it will almost fall apart after one or two usings. But he'll soon learn.

The great mistake that many parents make when they give a little son or daughter an allowance is that they expect the money to be put into his little bank—all of it. Then when the amount is large enough the small bank is emptied, and with great ceremony the coins are carried to the "big bank" where the money permanently passes out of the child's possession.

This, they sincerely believe, is teaching a child the value of money. But it isn't. It is only teaching a child to save; it is only teaching him to keep money—to hoard it. There is no character value in this; no development follows in the train of this procedure in which he takes no actual part.

What a child needs to learn is to spend money, to use it well. That teaches him the value of money. To have it simply pass thru his hands into a bank is no money experience.

Give your child an allowance, no matter how small it may be. If you're companionable, he'll probably consult you now and again or be glad to have you with him when he makes his purchases; but let him use it as freely as possible. In the natural course of events, he probably will want to set some aside for a special purpose, such as gift buying for those he loves.

Supplies of Apples for Civilians to Be Short, Experts Say

There will not be enough apples for civilians to make up for the shortage of doctors, experts agreed yesterday at the 50th annual convention of the International Apple association meeting in Hotel Sherman.

Out of the estimated crop of 123 million bushels, from eight to 10 million bushels will go to the army and navy, 36 million bushels will go for lend-lease, and the civilians will have to scramble for the rest of the "just average crop," the experts said.

BY MARY MEADE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A small refrigerator is a headache in summer. Many a city dweller, trying to squeeze in a melon and make room among the milk bottles for a bottle or two of soft drink, swears that after the war she'll have the world's biggest refrigerator.

Summer's fresh fruits and vegetables need to be kept cold; a tray of ice cream or frozen dessert limits the space for ice cubes, and, if there's a left-over problem to contend with, the poor old refrigerator is going to be working long hours and building up a thick coat of ice on the freezing compartment, a coating which will need frequent removal.

Inadequate or not, that refrigerator will have to last until the war is over, so it's only sensible to treat it kindly. Overcrowding often may be avoided by removing foods which don't need refrigeration to a pantry shelf. Vegetable shortenings, jars of jam, jelly, and pickles, for example, belong in the pantry, not the refrigerator. Bananas should be kept at room temperature, for cold hastens their decomposition, strangely enough.

Some foods will spoil readily if not kept cold. Preferred refrigerator space should be allotted to fresh meats, dairy products, foods prepared with dairy products and eggs, such as custards, potato salad, and creamed foods which readily pick up spoilage bacteria at room temperatures, and are responsible for many cases of summer "food poisoning."

Cooking just enough food for the family to eat at one meal is economical and avoids the refrigerator clutter of left-overs.

Everything in the refrigerator, excepting meat and whole fruits, should be covered, for moisture from uncovered foods collects on the freezing unit, deepening that layer of ice. As the frost gets thicker, refrigerator temperature goes up. Flavors from uncovered foods also may permeate meat or eggs, incidentally.

The refrigerator should be defrosted as soon as more than ¼ inch layer of ice has accumulated on the freezing unit. To defrost quickly, turn off the current and replace ice cube trays with a pan of hot water, being sure that the defrosting tray is in place to catch the drippings. Wipe refrigerator walls, racks, and freezing unit with warm water and soda, wipe dry, and turn on the current again after replacing ice trays filled with fresh water.

Care should be taken not to open and close the refrigerator door frequently or to leave the door open for more than the necessary time to take something out or put something in. When ice cream is being made, the cold control should be turned down as soon as the cream has frozen in order to prevent an overworked motor.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Col. T. C. Gerber, director of safety for the army service forces' safety and security division of the ordnance department and also field director of ammunitions works, has reported that safety records in munitions plants employing women have improved in proportion to the number of such workers.

"I am not prepared to say that the increased safety record is directly attributable to women alone," Col. Gerber said, "but statistics show that, since women went to work in the nation's powder plants, the scale of safety has gone up."

Work for women in explosives plants now is the safest in the country, United States department of labor records show. Col. Gerber's division, with national headquarters in Chicago, supervises safety in 220 ammunition and explosives plants.

Information in the files of the safety division indicates women are more safety conscious than men employes. They more readily accept precautionary measures, which include complete work wardrobes cleaned daily in plant laundries [workers never wear their street clothes on the job], nonsparking tools, safety shoes, eye shields, and dustproof masks. They also closely follow industrial hygiene rules which call for daily showers with soaps designed to counteract irritants, special nutrition programs, the use of disposable tissues instead of handkerchiefs, and daily taking of salt pills to prevent heat fatigue.

Every powder plant has a continuous program of safety training, inspection, and "good housekeeping." A large part of the half million employes in explosives plants now are women, who have entered the industry from virtually every peace time profession and from the home.

Women as well as men workers now are turning out seven pounds of ammunition per day per soldier. The feminine munitions workers do all types of jobs except those requiring exceptional physical strength. They load projectiles, including cartridges, hand grenades, bombs, anti-tank mines, artillery shells, 155 millimeter howitzer shells, and rockets for bazooka guns [rocket launchers]. They work on fuse lines, bag-load propellant powder, and act as plant guards, bus and truck drivers, chemistry laboratory assistants, and operators of smokeless powder presses. New jobs for women are opening constantly in the munitions field.

Each year the nation's powder plant employes compete for the Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell Jr. trophy, awarded to the plant with the best safety record. Gen. Campbell is the army's chief of ordnance. A new contest for the award opened last month.

Col. Gerber said that many more women are needed in the industry, which trains employes and does not require previous experience. Jobs may be obtained by application at any office of the United States employment service, whose main Chicago bureau is at 308 N. Michigan av.

Ordnance plants in Illinois include the Elwood and Kankakee works in Joliet; the Green River plant, Dixon; the Illinois works, Carbondale; the Rock Island arsenal and ordnance depot, Rock Island; Sangamon ordnance, Illiopolis, and the Savanna depot, Savanna.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Don't Always Be in a Hurry to Take a Trick

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

At times it is literally impossible for a player to know just what defense will produce the desired result, but if he can defer his decision for even one trick his partner may be able to give him priceless advice. For example:

South, dealer.

NORTH
♠ Q 7
♥ K 4 3
♦ A 10 8 7 2
♣ Q J 3

WEST
♠ 10 9 8 6
♥ A J 9 8 5
♦ 6

EAST
♠ 4 3 2
♥ 7 6 2
♦ K 5 4 3
♣ 7 5 4

SOUTH
♠ A K J 5
♥ Q 10
♦ Q J 9
♣ A K 9 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's two no trump was light, but there was nothing wrong with the final contract since a successful diamond finesse would have made it a laydown. Even tho the finesse was off side, South made his slam—but only with East's help!

West, looking for a lead that would not jeopardize a trick, made the sound selection of the spade ten. Declarer won with the ace and immediately let the diamond queen ride. East promptly grabbed the trick—and then went into a long but fruitless huddle over what to return. Actually, a heart return was safer and sounder than a club, but from East's point of view it was just a toss-up, and, to his misfortune, he finally decided in favor of the minor suit. Thereupon declarer could claim the rest of the tricks.

Aside from the fact that a heart return was better because there was less chance that the king in dummy gave declarer a solid heart suit at least four cards long, East could have known how to proceed if he had merely held up his diamond king for one round on the chance that West could give him a vital signal on the second round of diamonds. Obviously, West would have been delighted to play the nine of hearts!

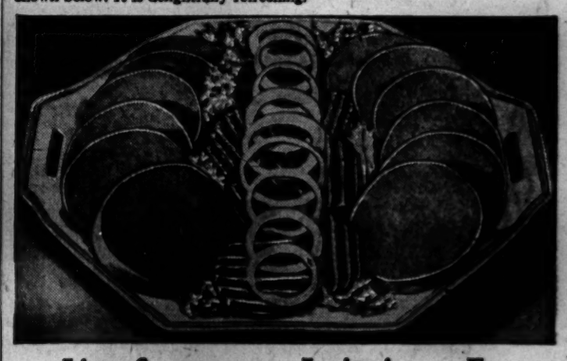
HOT NIGHTS CALL FOR A COLD PLATTER

"Rain, rain go away, come again some other day," we used to chant as children. Many women feel the same way about work on hot evenings. You can chase much of the work out the window and keep the temperature in the kitchen down at the same time by serving a cold platter such as the one shown below. It is delightfully refreshing.



Liver Sausage—an Invitation to Eat

PLATTER TO PLEASE ALL

Don't those good thick slices of liver sausage look inviting? They'll taste as good as they look if you ask your meat dealer for Wilson's Certified Braunschweiger Liver Sausage.

In the middle of the platter are sliced pickled beets and onion rings, both zesty companions for liver sausage. If your Victory Garden is producing enough beets to can, you'll surely want to pickle some. Here is my favorite recipe for making a mild, sweet pickle:

Pickled Beets

2 cups sugar
2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
1½ sticks cinnamon and (or)
1 doz. whole cloves

Simmer syrup about 5 minutes, pour over hot cooked beets (whole small beets or large beets, sliced) in hot, clean jars and seal. Makes enough syrup for about 4 pint jars of pickles.

• • •

GOOD DINNER!

With today's cold plate I suggest for the one hot dish, savory scalloped potatoes, a mixed vegetable salad including kohlrabi (or sticks of chilled kohlrabi instead of a salad), plenty of rye bread and for dessert, peaches and cream or peach shortcake.

You make the potatoes "savory" by adding chopped green onions and red and green peppers, all fresh from your garden. If time is limited, here's a short-cut method of scalloping potatoes. Slice them in milk and heat on top of stove. Add the chopped vegetables and to make it an extra-tasty dish, distribute generous chunks of Wilson's Clear Brook Butter (points permitting) or Wilson's Certified Margarine throughout the potatoes. Transfer to a buttered casserole and cover for the first 15 min. of baking, uncover and let brown for another 15 min.

• • •

CHEESE ADDS VARIETY

Scalloped potatoes with cheese are extra delicious. For a delightful change, grate Wilson's Certified American Cheese and sprinkle between layers of the hot potatoes as they are placed in the casserole. Either way you prepare the potatoes, they'll be a grand accompaniment for the truly remarkable Wilson's Certified Braunschweiger Liver Sausage.

Cordially yours,
GEORGE RECTOR

ALL-STAR LIST COMPLETE; 72 ARE ON ROSTER

Five Guards Among Final Additions.

Call for Musicians

MUSICIANS who wish to join the College All-Star band, which will appear in Dyche stadium the night of the All-Star game, Aug. 30, are asked to communicate with Ray Dvorak, director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ALL-STAR ROSTER ON NEXT PAGE.]

Five Western conference guards, three of whom played on championship teams in the last two seasons, are included in the group of nine players who today complete the All-Star squad. The All-Stars will begin training Saturday for the game in Dyche stadium Aug. 30 with the Chicago Bears. Seventy-two men are listed in today's final tabulation of the college squad.

Lindell Houston and Bob Jabbusch, regular guards on Ohio State's 1942 Western conference championship team, and Dick Barwegen of Purdue, most valuable player on the Boilermaker eleven which tied Michigan for the 1943 title, head the group of guards. No less proficient are Alex Kapter, Northwestern star at the same position last season, and Bob Kolesar, who finished his competition for Michigan in 1942.

Players Will Report Saturday.

Robert Ruman, Arizona half back for three years, rated as one of the great forward passers of the southwest; Don McCafferty, Ohio State tackle on the 1942 title squad; Vic Schliech, Nebraska tackle, who played against Stanford in the Rose bowl, and William Dellastatious, Missouri half back, complete the roster.

The All-Star coaches, headed by Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, will greet more than half of the college squad Saturday in Dyche stadium. No definite time has been set for the players to report because of the individual problems of transportation, but equipment will be issued as the men check in at the stadium dormitory. Nearly half of the athletes are service men and many of these will not report until next week.

Eight Buckeyes on Squad.

Houston, who played at Massillon, O., High school, won two varsity letters at Ohio State at right guard and was honored nationally in 1942. Houston is a private in the army and is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Jabbusch, as a sophomore, was the left guard on Ohio State's 1942 title team. His home is in Elyria, O., and he now is in the army and stationed at Camp McCoy, Wis. Jabbusch weighs 195 pounds. Addition of this pair of Buckeyes and McCafferty brings the number of 1942 Ohio State players on the All-Star squad to eight. The others are Jack Dugger, left end; Bill Willis, left tackle; Gordon Appleby, center; Paul Sarringhaus, left half, and Gene Fekete, full back.

Barwegen Helps Beat Redskins.

Barwegen, a hard hitting 215 pound guard who had a share in defeating the Washington Redskins last year, has received two varsity football awards at Purdue. He was a stalwart in the best line in the conference last fall until he and the other navy trainees were transferred. Barwegen now is stationed at Charleston, S. C.

Alex Kapter, one of the finest guards in Northwestern's history, also was a member of the 1943 All-Stars when he was a V-5 navy reserve. Alex played for the Wildcats last fall and now is in the Monmouth, Ill., navy preparatory school.

Ruman was a triple threat half back for Arizona and on one occasion threw four touchdown passes against Kansas State. He weighs 185 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. Last year he was chosen quarter back on the midwest all-service team. He is a cavalry lieutenant and is stationed at Camp Polk, La.

Schleich, stationed at the navy flight preparatory school at Wooster, O., weighs 230 pounds. He played tackle three years for Nebraska and was a main stay in the Cornhusker line in the Rose bowl game with Stanford.

INVESTMENT IN THRILLS

Touchdown runs . . . breath-taking forward passes . . . high, booming kicks . . . fierce tackling . . . slam bang drives against a human wall . . . all these, and more, will keep you in a high state of excitement the night of Aug. 30 when the Collegians battle the Chicago Bears in Dyche Stadium, Evanston, in the 11th annual College All-Star game.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

ARLINGTON PARK and Washington Park have brought grass racing up from the status of a fad to a big time competition. . . . One of the high points of the coördinated meeting will be reached this afternoon with the running of the Meadowland handicap, the second of two $10,000 turf course stakes presented during the coördinated meeting. . . . Grass racing strips are difficult to build and maintain, and as a result, very few American tracks are equipped for this kind of sport, but it has proved so popular with Chicago fans that Ben Lindheimer and John Jackson feel well repaid for their efforts. . . . The daily turf races spice up the program and add a picturesque variety to the competition. . . . A number of grass course specialists have been developed including Beautiful IL, Blueberry Pie, Put In, Take Wing and, more recently, Valdina Foe, winner of the $10,000 Grassland during the Arlington meeting. . . . John Marsch, who has had pretty much of a corner on the Futurity situation, now is bidding for a similar ascendancy in the Grass racing field. . . . He'll accomplish this if his Valdina Foe scores again in today's race. . . . The Washington Park turf course was the first in the country to have banked turns, making it much safer, as well as faster. . . . Lt. Frank Leahy is in San Francisco, awaiting orders to fly to Pearl Harbor where he will report to the commanding officer of the submarine fleet in the Pacific. . . . Postmaster Freddy Lindstrom of Evanston has discovered that fame is indeed fleeting. . . . When Fred appeared at third base in a softball game in the suburb the other night, a teammate kindly instructed the former Cub and Giant star in the proper methods of playing the position. . . .

President Will Harridge of the American league says the greatest tribute ever paid to Connie Mack was the crowd of more than 29,000 which reached Shibe park the night of Aug. 4 for ceremonies honoring Connie on his 50th year as a big league manager. . . The transportation forced thousands of fans to walk for miles, yet the larger part of the throng was in the park by 7 p. m. . . . Lefty Grove, winner of 300 major league games, who fanned 2,271 batters in 17 years in the big time, never was credited with as many as 12 whiffs in a single game. . . . The number 11 was his jinx, Bob reaching that figure in one game four different years. . . . Chicago yesterday was host to two of the west coast's most widely known sports editors, Bill Leiser of the San Francisco Chronicle and Braven Dyer of the Los Angeles Times.

BEARS THROWING HOOSIER VITTLES FOR BIG LOSSES

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Collegeville, Ind., Aug. 9.—The Chicago Bears, deep in the white bantam corn country, went to work today in their new training quarters on the campus at St. Joseph's college of Indiana. They have the run of the place, which in peace time has an enrollment of 500 boys and men. It was founded in 1891 by the Fathers of the Precious Blood.

Every one agreed at the end of a busy day that a perfect start had been made in the three-weeks program of teaching and conditioning the 1944 Bears for their rendezvous the night of Aug. 30 with the College All-Stars in Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

They Like New Camp.

Methodical as always, the coaching department separated the 50 candidates into three divisions. Heartly [Hunk] Anderson took charge of the linemen, instructing them in the various blocks. Luke Johnsos and Carl Brumbaugh took the five quarter backs for instructions and Paddy Driscoll was in command of the other backs.

The hot sun, with occasional threads of lazy breezes, and the well conditioned sandy loam field brought favorable comment. The field is adjacent to the fieldhouse, newest bulding on the campus. The squad is quartered in Drexel hall, once a school for Indians. It is off the main maple bordered highway and nestles among maple and elm trees. The St. Joseph's property includes 1,600 acres of fine farm land and the food set before the hungry athletes is home grown, including beef, chicken and a huge supply of sweet corn. The Bears may have plenty of worries, but none about ration points, in this rural atmosphere.

Can't Remain Pessimistic.

The coaches have been unable to maintain a 24 hour front of pessimism. Already they've been favorably impressed by the actions of several new men.

Ralph Brizzolara, acting president, who spent the day here, said Bulldog Turner, star center, will arrive sometime this week. Bulldog is bringing along a big tackle from Hardin-Simmons, his alma mater.

The Bears had been prepared for today's twin sessions and subsequent ones by a two hour meeting last night when each coach turned orator. Anderson told the athletes of the Bears' traditional will to win. Driscoll recounted feats of other Chicago Bears teams, adding that this one faces one of the biggest jobs in the club's history.

Melton Is Fined $100 for Missing Great Lakes Bus

The Fugitive Years.

I am grieving tonight for the fugitive years
That have fled down the vale of the past,
And my heart that loved gladness is shrouded in tears—
Tears of sorrow and gloom at the last.

Time has dimmed the illusions that used to bring joy
And has stripped life of all its allure,
It has pilfered the gold and left all the alloy
And my life has grown barren and poor.

It has filched the good friends who were mine long ago,
And has filled me with anguish and pain,
And the clouds of depression have shut out the glow
Of youth's sunshine, and brought on the rain.

But I still must plod on with the hope that ere long
I shall come to the trail's end forsooth,
Where the fields will be flooded with sunshine and song
And I'll find all the friends of my youth.

Jazbo's Journal.

From a news story of a recent divorce hearing: "Mrs. Dodge was handed a check for a million dollars, whereupon her attorney handed the lawyer representing Mr. Dodge a pasteboard carton." Sakes alive, that talk of a carton shortage must be on the level.

A portion of the ceiling fell upon the heads of an audience watching a movie in a loop theater. Wonder what the name of the film was. It's been ages since we've seen one that brought down the house.

9 TO RUN TODAY IN WASHINGTON TURF HANDICAP

Record Threatened for Grass Event.

Meadowland Field

NINE were entered overnight to compete over a mile and a quarter in the $10,000 added Meadowland handicap on the turf course today at Washington Park. The field in order of post positions follows:

	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Take Wing	114	F. A. Smith	3-1
Devalue	114	No boy	15-1
Martian	108	J. W. Martin	10-1
Put In	120	W. Bailey	3-1
*Olympus	110	No boy	15-1
*Bric-a-Brac	100	No boy	15-1
Maejames	100	No boy	20-1
Valdina Foe	122	O. Grohs	2-1
*Welco's Pass	110	No boy	15-1

*J. J. L. Powers entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The track record of 2:02 3-5 for the mile and a quarter on the grass will be the target of nine horses named to start today in the $10,000 Added Meadowland handicap at Washington Park.

Three American record holders, Mrs. Clyde Troutt's Take Wing, John Marsch's Valdina Foe, and G. J. Stempel's Put In, top the entry list, with J. J. L. Powers sending three to the post, Welcome Pass, Olympus, and Bric-a-brac.

Take Wing, which holds the American record for 1 1-16 and 1⅛ miles on grass courses, 1:44 and 1:51, respectively, will carry 114 pounds, eight less than top weighted Valdina Foe. The Marsch horse equaled Take Wing's mark for the mile and an eighth in winning Arlington Park's Grassland handicap.

Sir Bim Steals Show.

Put In, which will carry 120, holds the American record for 1 3-16 on the turf, a mark established at Washington Park last year in the Grassland, then run at that distance. The Meadowland and its companion piece, the Grassland, are the country's two outstanding grass course events, being the richest in value and the most important races of their kind.

Don Ameche's Sir Bim needed no cameras to prove his superiority over a field of eight 2 year olds in the $2,000 Inspector B. purse, third race on yesterday's program. While the event was not given top billing, it proved to be the day's most talked about race. The screen and radio star's son of the great Bimelech, coupled with J. H. Rouse's Go Devil, was held in such esteem by the management that, even tho nine horses started, there was no show betting permitted and the entry went postward at odds of 1 to 10.

Favorite Wins in Daily Double.

Sir Bim, ridden by Conn McCreary, scored by five lengths over A. B. Gay's Lexingtonian after leading all the way in the six furlong sprint. John Marsch's Valdina Aide was third, while Sir Bim's running mate finished eighth.

The daily double paid $71.60 when the favorite, Mount Vernon, II., scored in the first race and That-A-Boy in the second. Mount Vernon II. was ridden by Willie Bailey and paid $6. Tony Skoronski brought in That-A-Boy at $12.20.

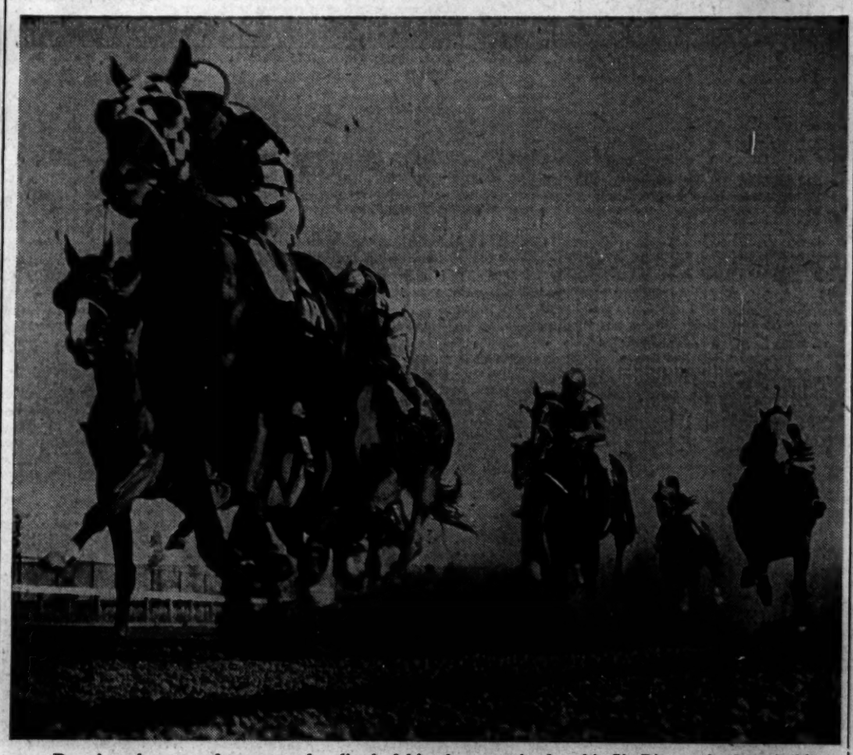
SIR BIM SHOWS DON AMECHE HE'S QUITE A HORSE



Don Ameche, star of screen and radio, had his glasses trained on his Sir Bim as the 2 year old son of Bimelech galloped to a five lengths victory in the $2,000 Inspector B. purse yesterday at Washington Park. Sir Bim is seen taking command in the back stretch and pulling away from A. B. Gay's Lexingtonian, which finished second. John Marsch's Valdina Aide placed third. Nine horses started in the six furlong sprint, but Sir Bim paid only $2.20 to win. Ameche arrived in Chicago Tuesday to watch his horse run in the race.

HAMBLETONIAN IS WON HANDILY BY YANKEE MAID

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP).—Leaving no doubt as to her rank as the top 3 year old trotter of the year, the Kansas owned and Kentucky bred Yankee Maid today easily won the 19th Hambletonian as a crowd of 15,000 welcomed the return of the harness horse feature to the rural atmosphere of Good Time park.

Driven by Henry Thomas for his third title and owned by A. L. Derby, Wichita, Kas., ollman, the bay filly took the first heat by five lengths in 2:05 and won the second by four in 2:04.

Winner's Share $18,467.

The crowd, one of the largest to see the event in recent years at Goshen, made Yankee Maid the favorite to take down $18,467.42, the winner's share of the gross purse of $34,427.12. She paid the unusual odds of $3.90 to win, $5 to place and $3.90 to show in the first mile but for the second she was backed down until the across the board figures read, $2.20 $2.40, and $2.50.

Foaled on Henry Knight's Almahurst farms in Kentucky, Yankee Maid came up to the Hambletonian with one defeat in four stakes this season after being crowned the 2 year old champion of 1943.

Six Divide Purse.

Six horses divided the purse, with Yankee Maid earning $18,467 as her share. Emily Scott took second money of $6,715; Enac third, $4,029; Ruth's Day, entry with Enac, fourth, $2,014; Rapid Hanover, fifth, $1,343, and Fighting Scott, sixth, $1,007.

All pari-mutuel records for betting at the park were broken as the crowd wagered $211,832, of which $77,919 was bet on the two heats of the Hambletonian.

Women's Golf Champion and Sessions Win

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The defending champion and medalist are still in the party today as the 44th annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association enters its quarter-final phase at Lake Forest's Onwentsia club. It is a traditional rarity for winners of the qualifying medal to be around at this late stage but Sally Sessions, the diligent one from Muskegon, will be on the tee at 1:15 p. m. to battle comely Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., in today's first match.

Today's Target, Too!

Champions are perennial targets in any tournament, but there is no doubt about the titleholder's right to be on hand today. Dorothy Germain, the personable Philadelphian who won the crown at Evanston last summer, yesterday made one of the most explosive finishing drives in W. W. G. A. history to move along with a 5 and 3 victory over Jean Hopkins, Cleveland district champion.

Yesterday's eight second round matches produced golf as fine as the old event has seen in years. Miss Rucker was four under par for the 13 holes she required to eliminate Ruth More of Peoria, 6 and 5. Miss Tainter, former western junior champion, needed two par holes for a two under par 73 after winning a 4 and 2 match from Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, 1943 Illinois state winner.

Dorothy Really Rallies.

But to get back to the Germain lady. Dorothy, who also was runner-up for this year's Open championship at Park Ridge, found herself one down to Miss Hopkins, 23 year old Smith college graduate, after nine rather unhappy holes. In the rally which saw her win all of the next six holes, she played in a two-under-par blast that included an eagle and a birdie.

Second round results, championship flight:

UPPER BRACKET.

Sally Sessions, Muskegon, Mich., beat Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 1 up.

Georgia Tainter, Farro, N. D., beat Mary Lindsay, Decatur, 4 and 2.

Phyllis Otto, Omaha, beat Jae Ochiltree, St. Charles 1 up.

Mary Jayne Garman, Hammond, beat Mrs. L. H. Selz, Northmoor, 1 up.

LOWER BRACKET.

Betty Jean Rucker, Spokane, Wash., beat Ruth More, Peoria, 6 and 5.

Dorothy Germain, St. Charles, beat Jean Hopkins, Cleveland, 5 and 3.

Mrs. H. M. Sims, Evanston, beat Mrs. Charles E. Beardsley, Sedalia, Mo., 4 and 3.

Peggy Kirk, Findlay, O., beat Virginia Nilles, Rolling Green, 2 up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 9.—Cousin Jim Dykes, father of two navy sons, is not the kind of a fellow who would spoil a navy inductee's farewell to his public. Dykes' White Sox today for instance, contributed much—or was it little—to the Boston good-by to Tex Hughson, soon to be a sailor. The Chicagoans submitted grandly as they waited till two were out in the ninth to make their run in a 9 to 1 Boston victory.

An enthusiastic crowd of 11,215 turned out to say ta-ta to Hughson, who will leave tonight for a visit in his Kyle, Tex., home before reporting at the Sampson naval training center on Aug. 28.

18th Victory for Hughson.

Hughson gained his 18th victory of the season, beating the White Sox for the fifth time this season and the Red Sox scored their 13th victory over the White Sox in 15 tries—their eighth in Boston, where the Chicagoans have not won this year.

The Red Sox made five runs off Bill Dietrich in the first three innings. The Bostons' seven hits in this span included a two run homer by Bob Johnson, two triples by Bobby Doerr and a double by Skeeter Newsome. The Red Sox made only four hits against Jake Wade in the last five innings, but they yielded four more runs. A homer by Jim Tabor scored two and triple by Hal Wagner added the other pair.

DAVIS SPACES 10 HITS; WYSE IS NO PUZZLE

Victory First in Ten Games vs. Chicago.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Brooklyn's lowly Dodgers furnished indications yesterday that they are about filled up with their role as Cub cousins, an act they did so well that it led them into the National league cellar. Instead of performing normally so that Charley Grimm's lads could wallop them for the 10th time in a row and the 13th for the season, they turned on the latter to fashion a 5 to 2 victory in the Wrigley field homecoming before 11,687. Unfortunately for the welcoming committee, it was the Cubs' third successive trimming since their 11 game streak.

The Dodgers asserted themselves thru the medium of a few well timed as well as lengthy base hits, the bulk of them cutting down Hank Wyse to a six inning appearance. He suffered one jolt when Lou Olmo peeled off a two run homer in the fourth and was dusted off for keeps when four singles furnished the Dodgers their second pair of runs in the sixth. The other Dodger got across the plate in the ninth while Hy Vandenberg was serving.

All Cub Hits Are Singles.

The Cubs' attack, all of it conducted against Alumnus Curt Davis, equalled that of the Dodgers in numbers but in other ways it didn't have the same effect. All of the Cubs' 10 blows were singles, more than a few of them of the scratch variety, and to make it all more aggravating they couldn't put on the pressure to any extent when Davis was weaving.

As a sample of the veteran's state, nine of the hits were made against him in the last four innings and he sweetened it with one pass. But seven of these died on the bases.

The only pass awarded by Wyse went to Galan at the start of the fourth and it wasn't long before Olmo dumped his homer into the left field runway.

Koch Starts Rally.

The next hit off the domestic right hander was a single by Barney Koch, who opened the sixth and, after Augie Galan had sacrificed, Dixie Walker beat out a hit to short. Olmo popped out to make Wyse a bit more comfortable, but Schultz and Owen followed with singles, each producing a run. Schultz also figured in the ninth inning incident against Vandenberg. He led off with a double and two bunts shoved him across the plate.

Dom Dallessandro slapped a single into center with one out in the seventh for the Cubs' third hit. He scored on singles by Andy Pafko and Don Johnson, but what had the earmarks of an important rally was exterminated with a double play grounder by Dewey Williams. With one out in the ninth, Dallessandro survived again, this time on a pass. Pafko and Johnson again paired singles to fill the bases and they remained filled when Williams flied to short left. Len Merullo batted for Vandenberg and beat out a roller to score Dallessandro. Then Stan Hack tapped to Koch, and that finished everything.

Hunters Get 2 Breaks on Shells, Ducks

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—Hunters will have a longer open season on ducks this fall and more ammunition to shoot them with. Liberalized regulations for shooting migratory birds were announced today by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, after which war production board sources estimated that about 65 per cent of the normal ammunition supply will be available for civilian purposes between now and Oct. 31. Last year the supply was about 12½ per cent of normal.

Because the waterfowl population is on the rise the season will be 80 days instead of 70 and hunters will be allowed a bigger daily bag of mallards, pintails, and widgeons than last season.

The daily bag limit on ducks remains at 10, except that each hunter is allowed an additional bag of five mallards, pintails, and widgeons, singly or in the aggregate. If the day's bag includes five or more from those species, the general limit is automatically increased to 15.

The open season on wild ducks, geese, brant, and coot will be Sept. 20 to Dec. 8 in the northern tier of states; Oct. 14 to Jan. 1 in the intermediate zone, and Nov. 2 to Jan. 20 farther south. Open seasons also were announced for mourning or turtle doves, woodcock and other migratory game birds.

FIND EMPLOYES PUT OWN LIMIT ON TIRE OUTPUT

WMC Study Shows 'Quotas' Are Set.

Akron, O., Aug. 9 [Special].—A deliberate retarding of production by rubber workers has been responsible for much of the lag in output of heavy tires for artillery, large trucks, and other vehicles which has threatened the success of the allied invasion in Europe, it was learned today.

The charge has been officially confirmed by an eight week man power utilization survey just completed by the war man power commission in plants of Akron's four largest tire companies.

Limitations on production have been self imposed by workers, it was said, because employes are apprehensive of a return to the speed-up methods of pre-union days, when increased production was apt to mean cuts in piecework rates of pay.

Seek to Keep Earnings Up.

Leaders of some of the locals of the CIO United Rubber Workers of America were said to have supported the production limits on the theory these would help them keep earnings up after the war, when they expect to return to their pre-war six hour day, which has been replaced by the eight hour day.

Employes in one of the biggest Akron companies, the survey found, initiated their limitations of production—variously termed "limits," "goals," quotas" or "levels"—back in 1937 and 1938, and have extended them thru vital war production days in "key" departments affecting tire production.

Finding that the workers could easily exceed their limits if they desired, and that they were definitely retarding production by not doing so, the survey revealed that men in the tire-building department and many others making tire components did not work for periods ranging from half an hour to 1½ hours at the end of their eight-hour shift.

Reach Self-Set Limit.

They obviously had reached the limit they had fixed for the day, altho both time and material were available for further production, the study brought out. The idle time was in addition to the 38.4 minutes allowed for lunch and rest in an eight hour shift.

Evidence that the men were limiting production was discovered in that hundreds had the same hourly and daily piece-work earnings for two or three months at a time. Experienced and inexperienced, young or old, strong or weak, did not vary as much as a penny.

Harry C. Markle, WMC area director, declined to make public the report of the survey, made with the coöperation of management and labor, or disclose any of its contents on the ground it was a confidential document and he had agreed with both sides to keep it in that category.

Believe Charges Confirmed.

However, copies of the document were distributed among interested parties, and information concerning it was learned from other sources.

Management officials expressed conviction that the survey largely confirms their charges, and they would like to see the report published, with its findings and recommendations. They doubted, however, that it ever would see the light of day because of the political connections of the CIO and its political action committee, and the latter's status as a principal vote getting and financial supporter in the campaign to reëlect President Roosevelt.

Altho Markle declined to disclose contents of the report, he did say that overall tire production could be increased 10 per cent with the present labor force if all the detriments to production found in the survey could be removed.

Railroad Plans Big Purchase of Equipment

The New York Central Railroad company applied to the interstate commerce commission yesterday for permission to issue $15,500,000 of equipment trust certificates. They would be used to finance about 75 per cent of a $21,067,000 purchase of cars and locomotives.

The road proposed to purchase 4,000 steel box cars, 1,000 steel hopper cars, 50 locomotive tenders, one locomotive and tender, 30 diesel switching locomotives, and one diesel passenger locomotive.

The certificates are to be issued at par, in 10 series maturing between Sept. 1, 1945, and Sept. 1, 1954. The road has invited bids from 194 firms and institutions, the dividend rate to be determined by the successful bid.

Union Station Asks Bids.

Refunding operations of two major railroad terminal companies got under way with an invitation for bids on a large bond issue by the Chicago Union Station company and announcement of an offering today of Cincinnati Union Terminal company bonds.

The Chicago company asked for bids on $37,800,000 of first mortgage series G bonds to mature July 1, 1963, and on $6,200,000 of guaranteed serial notes with 19 maturity dates from 1945 to 1954. Proceeds of the sale would be applied to the redemption next Jan. 1 of 44 millions of first mortgage series E 3¾ per cent bonds outstanding.

Offer Cincinnati Issue.

A group headed by Lehman Brothers is offering the 24 million dollar issue of the Cincinnati company's 2¾ per cent bonds, series G, due Aug. 1, 1974, at 101.85 per cent. Proceeds will be applied toward the redemption on Nov. 1 this year at 106 per cent of a similar amount of outstanding first mortgage 3½ per cent bonds, due May 1, 1971.

Narragansett Electric company, Providence, R. I., asked the securities and exchange commission's approval of an issue of $31,500,000 of 3 per cent first mortgage bonds due 1974, to be offered under competitive bidding. Proceeds with other cash would be applied to the redemption at 105½ per cent of 3½ per cent bonds, due 1966, of which $31,732,000 is outstanding.

U. S. TO START RAIL TRUST SUIT 'IN FEW WEEKS,' SAYS BIDDLE

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 9 (AP).—Atty. Gen. Biddle today asked the support of western business men for a government suit he said would be started against western railroads "within a few weeks to halt violations of the Sherman anti-trust act."

Addressing the Spokane Bar association in his first speech of a west coast tour, Biddle said an investigation of the "western railroads" was being completed. He said it had revealed "that a commissioner, who is not a representative of the government, but a sort of Will Hays of the railroad industry, says what the railroads may or may not do . . . and they bow to his order."

"Some people seem to have the idea that the railroads are exempt from Sherman act control, but the act does apply to them and to freight rates and the Supreme court has so held," Biddle said.

In Chicago, H. M. Sims, public relations director for the Western Association of Railway Executives, described Biddle's charges of discriminatory freight rates as "simply a smear that is being perpetuated by the anti-trust division of the department of justice for political reasons."

Stocks Higher as Favorites, Utilities Gain

Bond Value High

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—For the first time in the long history of the New York Stock exchange both the par value and market value of listed bonds exceeded 100 billion dollars on July 31. The exchange reported 1,065 bond issues were listed with a par value of $101,559,186,057 and a market value of $102,284,657,208.

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—Low priced utilities and a scattering of industrial favorites improved modestly in the stock market today and gave the list a firmer tone.

The power and light group lost some support in the final hour, but this was balanced by an easing of the selling pressure which had some of the recently active motors down as much as a point around midsession.

The developing allied drives thru France heightened investment caution in view of talk of effects on industry of a sudden Nazi breakdown.

United States Steel tacked on ⅝, and other leading gainers in light turnover included General Motors, Chrysler, Standard Oil [N. J.], and Texas company.

Hupp Motors, Packard, and Graham-Paige, under pressure most of the session, pared their losses and closed down minor fractions.

BOND CHANGES NARROW.

New York, Aug. 9 (AP).—The bond market produced a mixture of small gains and losses in routine trading today. Of the five major groups in the Associated Press averages, two ended 0.1 point higher, two were unchanged, and one lost 0.1 point.

CHICAGO LIST DIPS.

Prices declined on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in decreased turnover of 32,000 shares.

BUS AND TRUCK TIRE SUPPLIES BOOSTED 25,000

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The OPA today added 25,000 large sized tires to the 60,000 allocated earlier for rationing in August.

The increased total, however, is 50,000 short of the July quota of 135,000, and is 80,000 units short of the estimated need for 165,000 monthly to meet essential civilian requirements, OPA said.

A "slight increase" in heavy tire production made it possible to boost the August quota, OPA said.

Triangle Restaurant Co. Buys Wabash Av. Building

The Triangle Restaurant company yesterday bought for $225,000 the four story building at 223-25 S. Wabash av., which one of its cafes occupies, and the three story building adjoining it on the north, at No. 221, used by the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad as a loop station. The buildings were purchased thru Mark Levy Realty company from Frances Isham Shelton of Bridgeport, Conn. The land is 53 by 172 feet. There will be no change in occupancy in either building, said Dario L. Toffenetti, president of Triangle. Ben H. Matthews of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, was attorney for the seller.

Montgomery Ward Sales in July Mount 5 Per Cent

July gross sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. were $43,888,354, an increase of 5 per cent from the $41,811,462 reported in July, 1943, the company announced yesterday. Sales for the six months ended July 31 decreased 7.3 per cent, from $302,341,971 in 1943 to $280,299,546 in 1944.

Warns Higher Price Will Cut Washer Sales

Consumer demand for washing machines and other household appliances after the war may not be as large as is generally expected because high prices may discourage buyers and taxes may cut deeply into purchasing power, Bernard J. Hank, president of the Conlon corporation, said yesterday.

Hank is chairman of the markets estimation subcommittee of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association, which is holding its summer conference in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Hank told the delegates that various estimates which placed the back-log demand for home washing machines as high as 4,250,000 were not realistic.

Price to Be Major Factor.

"All estimates of back-logs of replacement sales will be reduced in proportion to how much higher our post-war costs are than our pre-war figures and in proportion to the use of the optional spendable dollar to purchase other appliances," he said.

"The price of a product has a direct relationship to its sales. If that price goes up, buyers weigh the difference against other items obtainable at the old price, or at less of an increase. Even tho individual incomes as a whole have risen, it also will be true that the less our price is up in comparison with other products, the more we can hope to sell."

He said consumers repeatedly have demonstrated their ability to make articles last well beyond the normal periods of usefulness, and that a recent nation-wide survey by the office of civilian requirements showed that fewer than one-fifth of the households interviewed will dip into savings for even one appliance.

Taxes Cut Spendable Income.

"Also, no one can plan sales or production without considering the effect upon them of federal taxes," Hank added. "Whatever money Mrs. American Buyer has left after paying living costs and taxes represents the optional spendable money we can compete for. With higher taxes a greater certainty than before the war, the only sure answer is greater productivity at the lowest possible cost, and distribution at the most economical figure possible."

One of the most important factors which will affect post-war prices will be labor costs, he said.

"Labor must give serious thought to the part it plays and to what it can do to or for an industry or to or for this country, especially where labor constitutes a high proportion of each dollar of expenses," he said. "If virtually unlimited wage costs force prices of articles to unreasonably high levels, the consumer may continue to make his old possessions 'do' for another year or two."

BETTER STEERS SELL STEADY AS OTHERS DECLINE

The range of prices in the cattle market widened abruptly yesterday as receipts of grass fattened stock increased. The small number of highly finished steers sold steady at $17.50 to $18.00 a hundred pounds, but from $17.00 down prices were cut 25 to 50 cents.

Heifers were weak to 25 cents lower and many cows remained unsold with best bids 50 cents lower.

More lambs also arrived from the range and prices fell unevenly 15 to 40 cents in dull trading. The $14.75 top, off 35 cents for the day, was paid for Washington lambs.

No changes occurred in the market for hogs. Almost all stock offered brought OPA price ceilings.

Northwest's Passenger Traffic Climbs in July

The total of revenue passengers carried from Chicago in July by Northwest Airlines almost doubled that of a year earlier, J. J. Fauteux, district traffic manager, announced yesterday. The 5,069 passengers took up 89.3 per cent of the available space during the month, he said. A total of 2,570 passengers was carried a year ago.

BIG AIRCRAFT BUILDER TO GET PLANT ADDITION

United Will Lease 74 Million Unit.

The Defense Plant corporation is providing an estimated $74,078,529 in additional emergency plant facilities to the United Aircraft corporation on lease, United informed stockholders yesterday. The company holds options to purchase the plants.

In the first half of 1944 the government paid in full the remaining balances due the company on certain completed emergency plant facilities, reducing this item in the balance sheet by $11,628,525.

United and its wholly owned subsidiary in the six months ended June 30 earned $8,450,113, equal to $2.93 a common share, compared with $8,120,913, or $2.81 a share, in the first half of 1943. Shipments amounted to $419,925,815, against $333,798,455 in the 1943 half year.

Certain-teed Profits Rise.

Net income of Certain-teed Products corporation in the first half of 1944 was $290,076, equal to $4.30 a preferred share, compared with $240,676, or $3.57 a preferred share, a year ago. The increase was achieved despite an increase of $34,291 in taxes and $210,527 in expenses arising from the abandoned recapitalization plan proposed by the prior management, said Rawson G. Lizars, chairman.

Sales in the six months amounted to $10,158,559, compared with $9,397,621 in the 1943 period.

Fairchild Triples Earnings.

The report said earnings figures did not include any part of earnings of the Sloane-Blabon corporation, in which Certain-teed is a large stockholder.

Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation reported 1943 net income was nearly three times that of 1942—$1,827,211, or $1.75 a common share, against $626,744, or 60 cents a share.

Sales in 1943 were $102,450,364, and in 1942, $47,080,224. Unfilled orders as of last June 30 amounted to 156 million dollars, compared with 269 million at the end of 1943.

Drouth East of Mississippi More Severe, Corn Damaged

Drouth conditions east of the Mississippi river were intensified last week and Kentucky probably will harvest only 50 per cent of a corn crop, the weather bureau reported yesterday.

About 75 per cent of Ohio needed rain and one river in central Ohio was at the lowest level since 1923. About three-quarters of Indiana likewise was in need of rain. There was no rain of importance in Illinois and drouth conditions were serious over parts of the central and southern areas. Lack of general rain daily is shortening crops, the bureau said.

Condition of corn west of the Mississippi, however, is favorable and one more good rain will assure a record crop in Nebraska, the report said.

Conditions by States.

Conditions in Illinois and near-by states as reported by the weather bureau follow:

ILLINOIS—Early good subsoil moisture largely depleted. Progress of corn fair to good in much of north and some localities in south; otherwise poor to deteriorated. About 68 per cent of the crop shooting ears, and some fields show roasting ears. Soybeans fairly good to excellent in north and poor to good in south.

IOWA—Drouth broken in south. Progress of corn excellent; earliest in hard roasting ear stage; latest is knee to waist high. Oats yield about earlier expectations.

WISCONSIN—Moisture deficiency causing slow growth of crops over large areas. Early corn in milk stage; condition very good. Barley moisture is ample.

MICHIGAN—Corn suffering from heat and lack of moisture in much of southern part. Early apples and peaches being picked.

INDIANA—Progress of corn poor to deteriorated except good where moisture is ample.

OHIO—Extensive failure of potatoes, pastures, and gardens. Condition of corn varies from very poor to good. Soybeans small and outlook uncertain.

Most Grains Higher

Dry weather in parts of the corn belt and a prediction of higher temperatures yesterday caused a letup in the selling wave on the Chicago Board of Trade and commission house buying increased. Oats futures closed ⅛ to 1 cent a bushel higher, rye rose ⅝ to 1⅛ cents, and barley gained ¼ to 1 cent. Wheat held in narrow limits and finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

People and Events

Howard H. Wanzer, president of Sidney Wanzer and Sons, Chicago milk company, who will be 76 Sunday, has been with the company 64 years. He is believed to have a record of longer continuous service than any active milk dealer in the nation. Wanzer became president of the company in 1932 and is on the job every day.

Matt Tyczkowski, employe of the International Smelting and Refining company, East Chicago, Ind., won an honorable mention this week from war production drive headquarters, Washington, D. C., for his production efficiency idea which brought an increase in furnace capacity and saved fuel.

Appointment of Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, as one of the Illinois delegates to the 1944 conference of the National Tax association, was announced by Gov. Green.

Directors of Central Republic company elected Eugene W. Scarborough vice president and Harold Ouimette treasurer. Scarborough has been manager of the company's New York office for several years.

ELECT FRAZER CHAIRMAN OF GRAHAM-PAIGE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9 (AP).—The election of Joseph W. Frazer as chairman of the board of Graham-Paige Motors corporation was announced today by Raymond J. Hodgson, president.

Frazer confirmed reports that he and a group of New York associates had acquired a substantial part of the Graham-Paige stock holdings of Joseph B. Graham and others of the Graham family.

Frazer, who last year resigned as president of Willys-Overland, said Graham undoubtedly would reënter the automotive field and expand its farm machinery business after the war.

Oswald L. Johnston, New York attorney and a director of Atlas corporation and other large companies, also has been elected to the board.

ARMY SUPPLY DISPUTE UP TO STAFF CHIEFS

Procurement Plans Shift Is Issue.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9 (AP).—The war production board referred its suppressed figures on army supplies to the joint chiefs of staff tonight for a decision on whether enough materials are on hand to justify changing certain procurement programs.

The senate's war investigating committee meanwhile considered demanding a look at the report for a similar purpose.

Withholding of the document because of army objections had caused the authors, Lewis Bassie and Irving Kaplan, WPB statisticians, to offer their resignations.

Why Nelson Did Not Insist.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of WPB issued a statement saying that because of the army objection and doubts in the minds of the statisticians' superiors he had not insisted that the study be circulated among top government officials, but that after reviewing the document he had decided to send it to the joint chiefs of staff for their decision.

Generals Marshall and Arnold and Admirals Leahy and King comprise the joint chiefs of staff. Contents of the suppressed report are secret, and it never was intended for general circulation.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], a member of the investigating committee, said he had instructed Chief Counsel Rudolph Halley to make a preliminary check in advance of a formal committee decision on whether to inquire into the matter.

Involves Output Mistakes.

"This report involves the whole question of what articles are being overproduced and what underproduced," Ferguson told a reporter. "I think the committee should have it."

Nelson said the document "undertook to show the present position of army ordnance supplies as a whole and by a number of major categories," and that the army challenged both its accuracy as to facts and its "general implications."

GETZ, WRIGLEY STUDY PURCHASE OF DAILY NEWS

Wish to Keep Control in Hands of Chicagoans.

George F. Getz Jr., who has wide business interests in Chicago, and Philip K. Wrigley, chairman of the board of the William Wrigley Jr. company, are interested in purchase of the Chicago Daily News it was learned yesterday.

Wrigley said that he had discussed the subject with Getz during the last week-end, but came to no conclusion.

No Price Mentioned.

"I don't know what the outcome of our discussions will be until I see some sort of proposition," Wrigley said. "So far I have never even heard a price mentioned. I will be glad to report to you if I am able to do so."

Getz indicated that he was interested in keeping the paper in the hands of Chicagoans. He said that if he were in control of group would follow the policies of group publishers and Walter Strong, former publisher. It was recalled that Getz headed a committee, former police commissioner Charles Fitzmorris, former state of Getz, is a former Chicago newspaper man who might be a director in Getz's plans for acquiring the paper.

Seek "Strongest" Hands.

Holman D. Pettibone, trustee of the Frank Knox estate and president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, said there had been no change in the Daily News situation as regards possible purchase. He said that the trustees "are looking for two strongest hands" and that they are in no hurry about selecting an a purchaser, desiring to place the property in the strongest possible hands.

Among those reported interested in buying the paper are John S. Knight, Detroit and Akron publisher; Chicago Tribune company, whose family said to have an interest in the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.

Plans to provide a report on Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc.—V. N.

Answer: Although the company's present capital stock was not sold publicly until 1949 it has been listed on the New York Stock exchange only since last January. The enterprise is a long established one largely by the food, pharmaceutical, and beverage industries. Pfizer was incorporated in 1849. Its plants are in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The company ranks as one of the most important manufacturers of the new wonder drug penicillin. Pfizer also produces citric, tartaric, and gluconic acids and related products, vitamins C and B2 products, oxalic acid, and the salts of mercury, iodine, and bismuth.

Sales during the war period have expanded so rapidly—from $6,190,000 in 1939 to $16,745,000 in 1943—that the present sales and earnings may not provide a reliable index of probable post-war volume. In the same interval, per share earnings based on the present 500,000 shares have risen from $1.73 to $3.37. The five year average annual profit was equal to $2.45 a share. For the first six months of 1944 the profit indicated is $1.26 a share from $1.68 in the same period last year.

Pfizer has a long dividend record. At present payments have at the rate of 35 cents a share quarterly. For 1943 they totaled $1.65, including 25 cents extra. With no long term debt or preferred stock outstanding the company's net working capital at close of 1943 amounted to $5,980,598.

Halt Truck Shipments.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 9 [Special].—Pickets appeared for the first time today in Nebraska's truck strike. They stopped all western shipments out of North Platte, Neb., with the exception of perishables, grains, gasoline, and oil.

Government shipments, including war supplies, were among those being stopped, it was disclosed by Art Eckdahl, representative of the ALF drivers at North Platte.

V. J. Hons, district manager of the office of defense transportation here, said the tie up of petroleum carriers was threatening fuel supplies of tractors in the midst of the harvest season, and of farm trucks when the machines are badly needed to carry livestock and other farm products.

Ignore Work or Fight Order.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 9 [Special].—Threatened with a work or fight edict and ordered back to work by their own union officials, 774 truck drivers nevertheless moved into the fourth day of a strike that tied up war material in the York, Lancaster, and Harrisburg areas.

7,000 Resume Detroit Strike.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9 [Special].—Seven thousand employes in five plants of the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors corporation were on strike today, a work stoppage resumed yesterday after a one day respite following an 11 day walkout.

The original walkout was precipitated by increased production rates. The latest trouble arose from the severance of employment of seven persons who were said by officials of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] to have been fired, but were described by a company spokesman as having been sent home for failure to keep up with the production rate.

Walter B. Reuther, UAW vice president in charge of the union's General Motor's department, telegraphed WLB Chairman William H. Davis asking for a board review.

Production of ball turrets for army bombers was tied up at the Briggs Manufacturing company's outer drive works here in the wake of a walkout based on disagreement over job classification. The trouble originated in the cutter grinder department and affected the entire day shift of 2,200.

AFL Carpenters Refuse to Work.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 9 [Special].—Production at the Rock Island Sash and Door works plant was halted today when 389 AFL carpenters failed to report for work in a dispute over wage differences that have existed at the plant for more than a year.

1,200 Strike for Sixth Day.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 9 [Special].—Twelve hundred munitions makers today entered their sixth day of a work stoppage at the Illinois ordnance plant near here.

Miners Out Six Weeks.

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 9 [Special].—Some 4,000 miners of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company stayed away from their jobs again today in a six week walkout despite a back-to-work order from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

60 Crane Operators Quit.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 9 [Special].—Suspension of a girl operator for damaging a crane today prompted 60 electric bridge crane operators, 42 of them women, to remain away from their jobs at the Bethlehem Fairfield shipyard.

8,500 Out Three Days.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 9 [Special].—Four hundred pickets paraded today at the entrance of the Wright Aeronautical corporation's East Paterson plant, one of the company's four Paterson area factories where a "wildcat" strike of 8,500 workers has been in progress three days.

STRIKE'S SPREAD THREATENS B-29 ENGINE OUTPUT

The production of engines for B-29 bombers was threatened seriously yesterday when a strike of toolmakers, machinists, and grinders continued to spread and involve more workers at the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation. The strikers are members of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union.

The strike began on the second shift Tuesday night, when 112 employes left their jobs because a tool grinder had been disciplined by the management for "leaving his war work and refusing to work." On the day shift yesterday 259 additional workers struck.

Because one of the members of their union was fired on a morals charge, several hundred members of district 50 of the United Mine Workers union milled about the shops of the Sherwin-Williams Paint company, a war plant, at 635 E. 115th st., for about an hour yesterday noon. Some of them were on strike.

Sgt. Kenneth Gorman of the police labor detail said the strikers were finally prevailed upon to return to their jobs and to submit to arbitration.

DRAMA OF BLOOD TO BE TRACED ON W-G-N AIR SHOW

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The story of man's study of blood, which today is resulting in the saving of countless lives on the battlefield, will be dramatized on the Human Adventure broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 o'clock tonight.

The program, presented by W-G-N in coöperation with the University of Chicago, will trace the development of man's thinking with reference to blood from prehistoric times to the present. It will conclude with dramatic emphasis on the importance of plasma and an appeal from the American Red Cross for blood donors.

Drop Below Quota.

The Red Cross blood donor center at 5 N. Wabash [WABash 7850] yesterday reported summer vacations and other causes are preventing the center from maintaining the local quota of 5,000 pints a week. The national headquarters will make an urgent appeal for donors in connection with the broadcast, citing a "desperate need."

The drama will trace the story of blood from Cro-magnon times thru the Babylonian, Grecian, and Roman eras onward. The researches of Galen, Vesalius, and Servetus will be detailed. The story of William Harvey's discovery of the circulation of blood will be woven in.

Tell Vital Discovery.

Another episode will concern the work of Prof. O. H. Robertson of the University of Chicago, who while serving with the British medical corps during the last war, made the life-saving discovery that fresh blood could be stored when kept cold.

The development of transfusion also is traced. The final episodes are concerned with the researches in plasma and the donation of blood. The drama of giving blood is pictured step by step.

AFL DEFEATS CIO IN WLB ELECTION AT MILLS PLANTS

The AFL Machinists' union yesterday retained its bargaining representation for employes of Mills Industries, Inc., in a war labor board supervised election, defeating an attempt of the CIO United Mine and Mill Smelters' union to take over.

The vote was 1,010 for the Machinists' union, and 763 for the Mine and Mill Smelters' union. Employes of the company's three plants, at 4100 Fullerton av., 4646 Lake st., and 4535 Palmer st., participated.

The AFL victory avoids imposition of the closed shop and the check-off system, which a CIO triumph would have implied, AFL spokesmen said.
